Famous French Scientist is Certain There is Life Following Grave

Departed Are Endowed With Powers Yet Unknown to the Living

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PARIS, June 5.—Conclusions of Camille Flammarion, the French astronomer, from the study of a few hundred cases along purely scientific lines, and apart from religious or spiritualistic viewpoints, are that the soul lives after decomposition of the body, is endowed with faculties still unknown to science, and can manifest itself at a distance without the mediation of the senses.

"I have spent fifty years studying the question," the astronomer says, "and have applied to it the same rules as to scientific research, I excluded every example which would not stand the test of scientific verification."

Supreme Court Decision Even Unincorporated Bodies Amenable

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Deciding the celebrated Coronado coal case, the Supreme Court today held that labor organizations, although unincorporated, are amenable to the Sherman Antitrust Act and that under it such organizations may be prosecuted for restraint of interstate commerce.

The court also held that labor unions may be sued.

MINE WORKERS INVOLVED

The case which presented the questions passed upon by the court, was an appeal by the United Mine Workers of America, district No. 21 of that organization, and its officers, twenty-seven local unions in that district, and their officers and sixty-five individuals, some of the latter not members of any union, from a decision by the United States District Court of Arkansas, approved by the Circuit Court of Appeals, holding them guilty of violating the Sherman Antitrust Act during the coal-mine strikes in Arkansas in 1914, and imposing damages of $200,000 which were trebled under the antitrust law.

The effect of the decision will be to set aside the damages because of the finding of the acts which caused the destruction of property were not incited for the purpose of restraining interstate commerce.

HEAVY PROPERTY DAMAGE

During the strike, lawlessness prevailed and property damage was done the Coronado and eight other mines controlled by the Bache Denman Coal Company. The United Mine Workers of America contested the jurisdiction of the Federal courts on the ground that being an unincorporated association of mine workers, it was not subject to prosecution under the Sherman Antitrust law.

Five questions were presented by the controversy, Chief Justice Taft said. First, whether there had been a correct selection of the parties to be sued; second, whether the parties not being incorporated were subject to suit; third, whether the United Mine Workers of America had been engaged in a conspiracy or in the destruction of property for which that organization and its officers could be held liable; fourth, whether there was evidence to show that the conspiracy alleged did restrain or monopolize interstate commerce and fifth, whether the trial court, in charging the jury, had coerced them into returning the verdict. There had been no misjoinder of the parties under the laws of Arkansas, where the case was tried, the Supreme Court held.

FUNDS SUBJECT TO ACTION

In view of Federal legislation, the court announced "that such organizations are suable in the Federal courts for their acts and that funds accumulated to be expended in conducting strikes are subject to action in suits."

On the ground that there was nothing in the evidence to show that the international union or international board of the United Mine Workers had authorized the strike, or took any part in preparation for it, or in its maintenance,

REPARATIONS MEET HALTED

International Bankers Again Delayed as Governments Try to Agree on Course to Pursue

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PARIS, June 5.—The momentous meeting of the reparations commission, which had been scheduled for tomorrow, to discuss the reduction of the $33,000,000,000 German reparations bill, has been postponed for several days.

The Wednesday meeting of J. P. Morgan and the other bankers who favor a reduction of the reparations before any attempt is made to float an international loan for Germany will consequently be of little importance. It is likely that the bankers will not even meet until the governments have spoken.

The French, British, Italian and Belgian governments have been working night and day to find a formula, which will allow their reparations delegates to say unitedly and gracefully that the Allies will be delighted to reduce the reparations bill if all the war debts are annulled. It is not within the ordinary scope of the reparations delegates, either in routine or in extraordinary session, to touch on the war debts.

In Paris, the question of the loan has been eclipsed by the prospect for the reduction of German reparations and the reparations reduction has been eclipsed by a hope that the war debts will be cancelled.

First, Morgan, representing American financial interests, has taken a definite stand that the reparations bill is too great to be executed.

Second, the American unofficial reparations delegation has been communicating this view to the American government for months past and Washington probably concurs in this opinion.

Third, all informed and influential American opinion, such as that of the heads of financial and commercial organizations, holds the same view.

The Allied governments will argue this week that America certainly will not seek to reduce the reparations bill, officially or unofficially, without including war debts.

It will also be argued that the German reparations are the key to European prosperity and until America helps make a final settlement of the war debt and the reparations question, the burden will rest on the United States.

The French government is not inclined to discuss the war debts. Premier Paincare prefers to keep the reparations question separate, and to refuse to reduce the reparations bill. He thinks it is futile to hope that America will discuss cancellation of the debts now.

MINISTER IN PRAISE FOR KLAN

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

FRESNO, June 5. — Declaring that he would rather die than see the Ku Klux Klan disbanded under existing conditions, Rev. Robert Schuler, pastor of the Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church of Los Angeles, tonight addressed an open meeting of the local Klan which was attended by 4000 persons.

Asserting that the Catholics control the public officials of Los Angeles, Rev. Schuler said that "Things were so rotten in Los Angeles that one has to hold his nose when he goes around the District Attorney's office."

Schuler asserted that the Klan was founded on the Book of Romans in the Bible; urged members to stick to their jobs until present conditions were remedied and urged them to stay within the law at all times.

The meeting tonight, which included the raising of the fiery cross, the reading of the oath taken by Klan members and the reading of the ritual of the order attracted widespread interest here. Dr. L. F. Lucky, local physician, and said to be head of the local Klan, was in charge.

BRITISH TROOPS FLOWING TOWARD IRELAND AGAIN

New Invasion Foreseen as Tommies Enter Free State Territory and Kill Disturbers

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, June 5.—Not since the signing of the Free State treaty in London last December has the Anglo-Irish situation been more serious than it is at present. The antics of Eamonn de Valera and other Irish extremists during the intervening months have undoubtedly weakened the British government's position in the face of its Tory opposition.

The fact that troops are being poured into Ulster is proof of the power which the Tories and partisans of Ulster are able to bring up on the Premier.

PREPARE INVASION

But these concentrations in Ulster indicate that the British are preparing for the possibility of reoccupying a large part of Southern Ireland. This was foreshadowed by Colonial Minister Churchill's speech in the House of Commons, threatening such action if De Valera and his colleagues in the Irish coalition government are not willing to recognize the validity of the London treaty.

If such a necessity arises, it is believed one of two plans for reoccupation will be adopted. The first is said to be that of Gen. Sir Nevil MaCready, former commander of crown forces in Ireland. This provides for establishment of a system of blockhouses throughout the country, which, is to be divided into zones, all the blockhouses being part of a strategic plan.

MAY USE BLOCKADE

The other suggestion is that British troops should hold only the chief cities and railroads, carrying out a comprehensive blockade until the people force their leaders to accept the Free State treaty in full.

Nothing would please the Ulster extremists more than to see De Valera and his supporters refuse. These Orangemen still hope the treaty will be smashed, and Southern Ireland held as a crown colony. Irish extremists who have been carrying on a border warfare are thus playing into the hands of the north.

The conferences between the representatives of Ireland and the British Cabinet will be continued tomorrow on the question of the terms of the Free State constitution. It is generally understood the tentative draft of the constitution goes beyond the treaty terms in the matters of Irish control of her foreign relations, and the position of crown representatives in Ireland.

British troops have invaded the Free State's territory to a depth of a mile and a half over a narrow sector, west of Pettigo. A communique was made public tonight admitting the crossing of the frontier "to secure the high ground which covers the Great Northern Railway." The railway follows the north bank of Lough Erne and then the Erne River, between Donegal and Fermanagh. The soldiers along the railroad could easily cut through to the sea, cutting off Donegal in the Free State. The British Foreign Office has not yet received a protest from Dublin.

Diplomatic circles are fearful of a concentrated nation-wide outbreak in the Free State over the invasion, but military opinion is positive that the 25,000 British troops in Ireland could easily control the situation if Prime Minister Lloyd George keeps hands off and lets them stamp out the Sinn Fein irregulars.

The British believe, however, that the backbone of the extremists' efforts along the border has been broken as a result of the development of the last twenty-four hours.

LOOK FOR SOLUTION

A speedy and complete solution of the Irish problem is expected within the next two weeks unless the Free State elections produce unlooked for results or there is a general outbreak over the Free State invasion.

Lloyd George's consent to the employment of British troops against the Republicans was just as unlooked for in the south of Ireland as was Great Britain's abandonment of its neutrality in 1914 by the Germans.

ROTARIANS CROWN CITY

Convention to Open Today

New Constitution Proposed So Cities Can Have More Than One Club Each

Spectacular Prologue Will Feature Program Today; Barbecue Tonight

The thirteenth annual convention of the International Association of Rotary Clubs opens today at Philharmonic Auditorium. The formal sessions will be lightened by a spectacular prologue in the auditorium at 9 a.m., and by a real California fiesta at Prager Park, starting at 9 p.m.

When the convention is called to order at 10:30 a.m. by Dr. Crawford C. McCullough, the international president, it is predicted that fully 6000 Rotarians will be present. Of these there will be about 2000 votes, each representing a Rotary club.

The most important business of the day, and in many ways of the convention, will be the presentation at 3:30 p.m. of the report of the committee on constitution and bylaws. Two hours are to be given for discussion of the proposed new constitution, which changes the present one in several ways, particularly in adaptation to international Rotary. The committee, numbering thirty-one members, framed the document last fall at Chicago, and prints of it have been considered by all Rotary organizations. The committee met yesterday afternoon, President McCullough presiding, and made final preparations for the presentation of the important proposals.

AFFECTS BRITISH ROTARY

The proposed new constitution differs from the present one so as chiefly to affect British Rotary. By it the Rotary clubs of any nation may form a national group. Heretofore, this only has been done informally, as by the national advisory committee of Canada.

Another important change is proposed as follows. Now the international board has five members, including the last international president. It is proposed to increase this number to nine, five for the United States, one for Great Britain and one for Canada. The two remaining members are not designated. One is left open for Latin America when the clubs to the southa at present strongest in Cuba, increase in number to a point where group representation is warranted. It is expected that this stage soon will be reached because of the formation of many clubs in the several South American nations. The remaining member would be the international president. Perhaps until Latin America develops sufficient strength the last international president will be a member—but these things will be determined on the convention floor today. The board at present is composed of the international president, the three vice-presidents and the last international president.

PLAN NEW DISTRICT

Formation of a new Rotary district to comprise the States of Arizona and New Mexico and the city of El Paso, Tex., will be effected this afternoon at a meeting in Hotel Alexandria, in the rooms of Harvey W. Parker, governor of the Twenty-first District.

Arizona has been attached to California in the past, New Mexico to Colorado, and El Paso has been in the Eighteenth (Texas) District, but a new Eighth District has been authorized and it will be organized this afternoon.

Charles Christie of Phoenix, Ariz., probably will be elected district governor without opposition. He has this year formed Rotary clubs at Nogales, Holbrook, Tucson, Globe and Miami, Ariz., acting as a deputy district governor.

FORMER STAGE BEAUTY DEAD

Lillian Russell

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PITTSBURG (Pa.) June 6.—Mrs. Lillian Russell Moore, wife of Alexander P. Moore, publisher of the Pittsburg Leader, and noted stage beauty of a score and more years past, died at her home at 3:20 o'clock this morning, after an illness of several days.

The illness of Mrs. Moore was believed to have passed the crisis last Saturday. At that time she rallied and her condition was somewhat improved.

Mrs. Moore was suffering from a complication of diseases which developed as the result of a slight injury suffered by her on shipboard several months ago when she was journeying to Europe. At the time little attention was paid to the injury and Mrs. Moore was only slightly inconvenienced by it. However, a few weeks ago internal troubles developed.

Though the greatest joy of his campaign was the sight of the Statue of Liberty in New York Harbor, his stay in Germany was by no means unpleasant. He learned no German, for the girls all insisted on learning English. The Americans were popular with the natives, while the reverse was true in connection with the French troops. Twenty-seven German brides returned on the same troopship that bore the Arizonan.

Federal Operation is Not Possible, States Head of Shipping Board

Only Alternative is Foreign Vessels, He Tells in Review of Case

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

[The Times herewith presents the first of a series of articles written by A. D. Lasker, chairman of the United States Shipping Board, explaining the situation in regard to American shipping.]

Article 1.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Nations, like individuals are seldom the masters of their own destinies. Whether America wills it or no, the time has come when we must perforce occupy the first place on the stage of world commerce—a place never occupied in history by any nation not strong in its own right in sea power. Sea power means a strong merchant marine; for there is no need of a navy save to protect its nationals, the shores, and the water transportation of a nation.

The first act ever passed by an American Congress was one designed to encourage American shipping. During the period from the establishment of our republic until the Civil War, America developed into one of the leading maritime nations of the world.

HALTED BY CIVIL WAR

With the finding of gold in California, the lure of adventure and profit attracted our young men from the seaboard and the Alleghanies to the great east at the time undeveloped empire lying to the westward. The movement then inaugurated (a movement of vast importance to ourselves and indeed the whole world) marked the beginning of the decline of the American merchant marine.

The hurt given our merchant marine through the Civil War, historically known to all, followed by the great demand for men and capital in the development of our country, resulted in a steady drop of interest in shipping.

AT OUTSET OF WORLD WAR

At the start of the World War, in 1914, America's passenger fleet in the North Atlantic had dwindled to the shameful total of six, to-wit: The Finland, Kroonland, St. Paul, St. Louis, Philadelphia, and New York. The aid given them in the way of postal subsidy by our government was undoubtedly the chief reason four of them were able to continue in service to that date.

In other words, 1914 found us no longer a merchant marine power, but one utterly dependent on foreign flags for the carriage of our surpluses; and, of course, we had had to pay, and pay heavily, for the service rendered by them.

Fortunately for us, Great Britain and its allies, in the prosecution of the World War, needed all the materials we could give them, and therefore sent their ships to our shores in their own interest.

The Times-Mirror Company.

Perhaps not as fresh in public memory is the marine experience of the Boer War. This, conducted on a lesser scale, but at a greater distance, required more of Britain's tonnage for her own use and less of America's materials. It resulted in the serious curtailment of our industrial line; for, when Britain, on whom we were dependent for the greater portion of our sea carriage, withdrew a million tons of ships from the North Atlantic, our farmers and our manufacturers saw their surpluses on which their foreign market depended waiting vainly for ships, until even their domestic market was destroyed.

Immediately upon our entrance into the war in 1917 there arose a cry from all the Allies, voiced by Lloyd George, the Prime Minister of the greatest maritime nation of the world, for "ships, more ships, and again, more ships," as the foremost contribution from America.

BUILDING TO FILL A GAP

We all remember the feverish enthusiasm with which, through treasury drains, shipyards were created at all available points, resulting in government building of more than 1700 ships, with more than 11,000,000 deadweight tons capacity.

We started to build these ships that we might quickly and in great quantity carry our men and supplies to the battle front. No one factor brought the war to a quicker conclusion than the Kaiser's recognition that America was vastly arranging to span the Atlantic with a bridge of ships.

So that if every ship built or then being built by the government, involving a total cost of more than $3,000,000,000 had been dismantled or sunk at the war's end, they would properly have paid for themselves in the short cut that resulted in the ending of the war and in the saving of men and treasure.

Happily, while everything else created for war purposes has had to be salvaged as scrap, America's war-built merchant marine has been turned into a peace-time asset, thus establishing the possibility of turning the sword into the plowshare. It is apparent that after the war terminated the great prosperity America enjoyed would have been impossible without the existence of our government-owned fleet.

America came out of the war a creditor nation, whereas before it had been a debtor nation. Prior to 1914 the maritime nations of the world, to whom we owed vast sums, could surely be counted upon to send their ships to our shores that we might pay in our products the debts we owed them.

Today, however, they are the debtors, we the creditors; there is not the same reasons why they should send their ships for our surpluses. Moreover, we must compete with them if we are to dispose of our surplus products in the available markets of the world. It is not to be supposed they will give us those facilities which are essential to world commerce to enable us to compete with them.

GOVERNMENT OPERATION

Of the 1400 steel ships owned by the government, 985 are tied up; the other 447 the government has been operating to make sure the American flag shall reach every needed port of the world. This operation is being conducted at a cash loss of $50,000,000 a year and at the expense of the deterioration of the fleet.

President Harding and the present shipping board aver, because of reasons to be covered in subsequent articles, that government operation of ships is impossible on the one hand, and that for America to turn back and depend on foreigners for its sea carriage is unthinkable on the other. The only alternative is to make it possible for private American initiative to maintain American flag ships on the seas and to get the government itself out of the business of ship operation.

The editor has been good enough to give me an opportunity, in a series of articles of which this is the first, to discuss the premises here laid down and the remedies the government proposes.

Another article will appear tomorrow.

VISITORS' WIVES ALL CHARMING

Feminine Contingent Well Entertained

Rotarian Ladies Delighted With Los Angeles

BY ALMA WHITAKER

These Rotary men have some uncommonly bright wives. Especially the lord high nabobs, by which it is obvious that a bright wife is a very tangible asset.

Take the charming Mrs. William Coppock, who hails from Council Bluffs, Iowa, and whose agent spouse is now international vice-president of these ebullient Rotarians. She has quite decided that hubby would make an ideal international president and, with infinite finesse, graciousness, lavish smiles and tact galore, she is endeavoring to compel that thought among all and sundry. And no matter what their political attachments, they must all agree that Mrs. Coppock would make an excellent "first lady." To begin with, she is distinctly good looking. Then she knows exactly how to wear those chic black clothes of hers, with a black picture hat at exactly the right poise. She just naturally makes friends on sight and says the right thing in the right way at the right time—the best possible sort of electioneering.

A TRACE OF BROGUE

Amongst the foreign visitors Mrs. William A. McConnell from Dublin, Ireland, captured our attention. Her spouse enjoys peculiar glamor as an honest-to-goodness Irishman from the home soil who isn't a Sinn Feiner—begorra, no—and is after hoping that all this gory fuss over there soon will be peacefully settled. Mrs. McConnell is very attractive in the approved Irish way, eyes and all, but manages to combine it with a Parisian sartorial touch that is most effective. Just a trace of a brogue, you understand, which, when she says Los Angeles is just delightful, makes it sound sort of superdelightful.

Then there's Scotland. Mr. Alexander Wilkie, one of those big, romantic looking, utterly Scotchy Scots, with a Scotch burr-r-r to his voices that you could cut with a knife; has had the canny wisdom to bring his little wife along. They make one think of Bonnie Dundee, the drums and fifes, kilties, Auld Lang Syne and Robbie Burns, to say nothing of Haig and Haig and "Comin' Thro the Rye" and "Bonnie Prince Charlie." And Mrs. Wilkie is a little woman, dainty, genial, gay, just stepped out of Barrie's window in Thrums—only she, too, must have imported her gowns from Paris.

ALL CHARMING

A lady who should be putting on any amount of swank is Mrs. George W. Harris of Washington, D. C., whose hubby adorns the proud title of international sergeant-at-arms—which you will understand means something frightfully formal and ceremonious and up-stagey. But instead she is the most modest, retiring little person, with a shy smile, giving a general appearance of "sweetness"—combined with the most dashing sport attire for morning wear and elusive dignified black for later in the day.

But no one could enumerate all the charming feminine Rotarians who are flooding Los Angeles just now. You can understand that, because all the nicest men with the nicest wives were the ones who brought them along. That is why our local ladies' committee is having rather a pleasant time of it taking care of them. This committee at the Alexandria is in charge of Mrs. T. A. Babb, who is chairman, ably assisted by Mrs. Earl Snowden, Mrs. Carl Rosenberg and Mrs. Irving W. Turck. Mrs. Turck is responsible for the opinion that Rotarian wives must be 'inherently charming anyway, since she has not yet met one who was not graciously delighted with everything and everybody.

Mrs. Carl Rosenberg is head of the executive committee, which watches over all the other committees for the reception of the feminine Rotarians, of which there is one for every hotel where Rotarians are congregated. And all of them are tired, but happy—day-long greetings to amiable and enthusiastic visitors who want to be told all there is to see and how to see it.

THIS MAN HAS VOWED NEVER TO WEAR HAT

HE'S GEORGE W. HARRIS, THE PHOTOGRAPHER, WHO TIRED OF "CROWNS"

Because seeing people with crowns on their heads posing before him for their photographs wearied him, George Washington Harris of Washington, D. C., has sworn never to wear a hat—and if Angelenos see a rather smart-looking man of medium build walking the streets in the bright California sunshine with his head bare, they will be looking at the man who has made the pictures of more notable people than any other living individual, as well as being the international sergeant-at-arms of the Association of Rotary Clubs, which is having its convention here this week.

George W. Harris is the senior member of the firm of photographers of Harris & Ewing of Washington, D. C., which supplies newspapers with a large number of news pictures these days. He has been photographing the statesmen and diplomats of many nations in Washington for the past thirty years, and during the war spent much of his time in Europe making photographs for the various European governments. During the Peace Conference in Paris he was the official photographer of the American delegation and accompanied former President Wilson on his tour of the various Allied countries.

The badge of office of the sergeant-at-arms of International Rotary is a huge blackthorn shillalah, presented to the organization by the Rotary Club of Belfast, Ireland. The presentation was made last summer in Edinburgh, Scotland, by William A. McConnell of Dublin, who had just been elected president of the British Association of Rotary Clubs, and as such was the official head of Rotarians in the British Isles.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

BERLIN, June 5.—Foreign Minister Tchitcherin, who headed soviet Russia's delegation to the Genoa conference, arrived in Berlin from Italy today, accompanied by his secretary, M. Florinsky. M. Tchitcherin probably will remain here six or seven days to rest. He said that he had received no advices concerning Premier Lenin's health.

ROTARY CLUBS CAPTURE CITY

particularly important to Los Angeles—is the matter of more than one Rotary Club in one city. At present the regulations prevent formation of more than one club in a city of less than 1,000,000 inhabitants. The newly proposed constitution does not alter this, but the matter is sure to be pressed today. Los Angeles is expected to make the fight for itself and other cities similarly located.

SAN PEDRO'S CASE

The difficulty here is apparent in the case of Los Angeles Harbor. While a part of this city it is far distant and has its own business center, a Rotary Club has been formed there, and a live one, but it cannot get a charter under the Rotary constitution. There are two proposals to remedy this. One is to make a half-million the limit. The other is to leave the chartering of more than one club up to the discretion of the board of directors so that it can waive the population limit where one city has more than one distinct business center.

In New York City there are Rotary clubs on Manhattan, in Brooklyn and in The Bronx, each of those being a separate business community and, as it happens, enough population to permit the chartering under the Rotary law.

The convention this year is about fifty-fifty, new Rotarians and old Rotarians. So the presentation of Rotary ideals in forceful fashion to the Rotarian fledglings has been deemed a matter of the highest importance. This will be done at the very start of the convention today, when at 9 a.m. the prologue will be enacted on the stage of the auditorium. "Yesterday, To-day and Tomorrow" is its all-encompassing title. Something unique in Rotary convention spectacles is promised. The author is Norman K. Whisler, Los Angeles theatrical man, who wrote the prologue and arranged the remarkable settings for it. He is stage manager of the California Theater here.

SPIRIT OF ROTARY

The prologue will not be a pageant, nor a tableaux nor a spectacle and yet will be all those things in its effect. The finest tones in stage lighting will be employed in direct and transparent effects. There will be few human actors, and only one young woman. She will represent the spirit of Rotary and will speak her thoughts in a prose poem. Just what the presentation of the Rotary idea is to be is kept a secret.

There will be barrels of old-fashioned California fun and barrels of California fruit at the fiesta in Praeger Park. Each club in the local district will have a hand in it. The Orange Empire Rotarians will bring oranges, orange juice and orange blossoms; of the latter they have enough to cover Mt. Wilson, all waiting in cold storage for the event. The Rotarians from districts that know prunes will bring prunes by the wagonload, the raisin-district Rotarians raisins, and so on down the list of Southern California's fruits and flowers. The Los Angeles Harbor Rotarians will have a submarine, like a captive whale, and another group is going to bring a prize Holstein heifer to show how they grow out here. Sacramento Rotarians, many of them of the Whiskers Club, will drive two stage coaches. They have saved their beards, grown for their '49 celebration, just for this old-West stunt.

YESTERDAY'S MEETINGS

Yesterday in addition to the constitution committee session there were meetings and luncheons at the Alexandria of the international board and of the chairmen of the international committees. In the early afternoon hundreds of automobiles took the visitors on sightseeing tours, and the convention golf tournament was in progress all day on the links of the Wilshire Country Club. The night events shifted to Pasadena, where there were a dinner to the international board and others and a reception by Pasadena Rotary at the Maryland.

The convention lasts until Saturday.

ROTARIAN LAUDS CITY AND CLUB

Washington (D. C.) Man, Fifth District Chief, Pays High Tribute

"As a convention city Los Angeles is unexcelled. As a progressive business organization the Los Angeles Rotary Club holds an enviable position throughout the United States," was the statement yesterday of Ed L. Stock, business man of Washington, D. C., and governor of the fifth Rotary district, who heads a large delegation of easterners attending the international convention here.

Ed L. Stock

Paying high tribute to the Los Angeles Rotary Club, Mr. Stack stated that the convention has created more national interest than any previous international Rotarian gathering. He gave as the reason the fact that the advertising throughout the United States of Southern California's wonders has created a universal desire for visiting here.

The fifth Rotary district, of which Mr. Stock is governor, comprises Eastern Pennsylvania, Eastern Maryland, Southern New Jersey, Delaware and District of Columbia. More than sixty clubs are represented in the delegation attending the convention.

Mr. Stock is president of the Republican Boiler and Radiator Company of Washington, D. C.; vice-president of the Bank of Bethesda in Bethesda, Md.; director of the Second National Bank of Washington, D. C.; and chairman of the board of directors of the International Finance Corporation, with headquarters in the national capital. He is a member of the Masonic order and Mystic Order of Shriners, and is treasurer of the diocese of the Episcopal Church in Washington.

DEFENSE FOR TARIFF BILL

greater length from Senator Simmons, North Carolina, leader of the Democratic forces in the tariff fight. Senator McCumber, North Dakota, in charge of the bill, replied briefly to Senator Simmons, and then the Senate proceeded to discussion of and voted on dye and other schedules in the measure.

Characterizing the bill as the best balanced tariff measure ever presented to Congress, Senator Watson asserted that if the Democrats believed it to be one-half as "immoral or outrageous" as they stated, they would permit its passage in fifteen minutes. He added that if this were October 1 there would be a Senate vote at once.

To support his contention that the Democratic predictions of distress and burdens for the United States would follow passage of the measure, he said they were the same that had been made in Senate debate when previous tariff measures were under consideration. He read at length from speeches of the past, adding that he could lift any of them bodily, change the names of the makers, and fit them into the present Democratic opposition, "and not miss the mark an eyelash on one of them."

"SAME OLD WAIL"

Declaring that the country was now hearing "the same old wail," the speaker said that for 125 of the 145 years of the nation's history "we have lived under the same kind of a despoiling law." He declared also that six times a free trade tariff had brought distress to industry and labor and that six times a protective tariff had restored prosperity.

Replying to Democratic arguments that high tariff duties would injure the nation's foreign trade, Senator Watson said the history of tariffs proved that tariffs had little effect on the normal flow of commerce. He presented official figures to show that under the Dingley tariff act, described as having the highest rates ever enacted in this country, exports had increased $800,000,000 and imports $800,000,000 during the life of the law.

Under the Payne-Aldrich law, he said, exports increased $800,000,000 and imports $500,000,000, "notwithstanding the dismal predictions and doleful prophecies of the foes of protection."

THE DEAD PAST

"We do not want to deal with the dead past but the present," shouted the North Carolina Senator. "This bill will not tax the people who are dead and in their graves, but the 110,000,000 here today. It will tax them, whether they are making 1 per cent or 2 per cent for the benefit of 5000 who are making profits all the way up to 100 per cent."

Declaring that the "principle of protection is as far from this bill as the earth is from Mars," Senator Simmons argued it was the old theory that with imports reduced the competition among domestic producers would keep down prices. This theory could no longer be applied, he contended, because of trusts, combinations and agreements of producers of 90 per cent of all products in this country except those of the farm.

"When the people of the country have lost the benefit of domestic competition," said Senator Simmons, "the very foundation stone of your protective tariff principle is gone."

"I am advised," he said, "that the authorities of Canada are preparing to promulgate a new preferential tariff in behalf of Great Britain, in which that country will be given a preferential of 50 per cent over the United States and other countries."

BOOTLEGGING IS BUSINESS NOW

Gotham Small Fellows Give Way to Big Ones

Whisky Sold in Offices and Apartments

Regular Bars Are Run by Social Lights

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, June 5.—The bootleg whisky business is changing, according to Federal prohibition agents, who see a higher type of men entering the illegal traffic than marked the earlier days of prohibition. These, it is believed, have been attracted by the big profits and comparatively small risks. On the lower East Side, where formerly large sums were made almost overnight, bootlegging has decreased. Difficulty in obtaining liquor is given as one reason why the little fellows have quit or are acting as aids to the big dealers, who have plenty of money.

HAVE THEIR OFFICES

More than ever, bootlegging, the agents say, is being carried on in large office buildings, in connection with some legitimate business. Large quantities of liquor are being brought into the city in numerous ways, while only a comparatively small amount is being let out through legitimate channels.

Yachts, launches and flying boats are being utilized in the transportation of liquors into this country from Canada, Cuba and the Bahama Islands.

REGULAR BARS

Many individuals, some prominent socially, have fitted up regular bars in their living apartments and have engaged experienced drink mixers. The patronage is restricted to the set in which the owner of the place moves. Several persons have greatly added to their finances through the operation of the apartment bar. At some of these places drinks of the best grade are sold for 40 to 50 cents. In most cases, when a mixed drink is not desired, the patron is allowed to pour his own liquor, something unheard of in the ordinary bootlegging resort.

It is reported that there are some restaurants where the waiters are disinclined to serve food unless the patron also buys a drink—cocktail, highball or straight whisky or gin. The Federal authorities say that in most of these cases the waiter is carrying on the business for himself.

MANUFACTURE WINE

Many bootleggers formerly in the whisky trade have turned to the manufacture of wine, having found it too difficult to obtain the "hard stuff." Bootleggers of the "old" type have recently congregated in such large numbers in certain parts of Broadway that the police department has been asked to detail patrolmen to these sections. Prohibition Director Day has assigned an agent to aid the police. The complaints have come from the owners of the buildings in front of which the bootleggers gather.

Bakery Owners at Monrovia Are Missing

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

MONROVIA, June 5.—Gus Bodle and Otto Hellwig, proprietors of the National Bakery, with branches in South Pasadena and Pasadena, are missing. Apparently doing a good business, and planning enlargements of their plant here, the two partners, whether through some personal disagreement or otherwise, vanished overnight, after notifying the Los Angeles Board of Trade to send out a representative to look after their affairs.

Five Los Angeles boys, arrested last week for breaking into a cabin in Santa Anita Canyon, were released by Judge C. R. Burr after a severe lecture, when Mrs. Lois R. Phillips, 1017 West Forty-seventh street, Los Angeles, owner of the cabin, refused to prosecute. The boys had three quarts of whisky when arrested by Deputy Sheriff Thad R. Ros.

REPUBLICANS FAIL TO PICK CHAIRMAN

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Gifford Pinchot, Republican nominee for Governor of Pennsylvania, and Republican leaders of the State, were unable to reach an agreement here today at a conference on party organization held in the interest of harmony following the overthrow of the old Penrose machine by the conservation leader.

Participants in the conference were Senator Pepper, Maj. Reed of Pittsburg, recently nominated for the other Senatorial seat, and Mr. Pinchot. The point at issue related to the selection of a chairman of the Republican State Committee and involved a difference between the factional elements supposed to be led by Mr. Pinchot and others in the party. The object of the conference, it was thought, was to secure an agreement upon a man who would be agreeable to the candidate for Governor and to the two Senatorial candidates.

TO MEET AGAIN

The outcome was a failure to combine on a candidate. The State committee will meet in Philadelphia next Saturday and Mr. Pinchot will recommend the election of Asher Minor of Wilkesbarre, while Senator Pepper and Maj. Reed will suggest the election of W. Harry Baker, now secretary of the committee, to the chairmanship.

The inability to agree on a candidate acceptable to all parties to the conference would seem to indicate the opening of a factional disagreement at the very outset of the campaign except for a statement made after the meeting by Senator Pepper, who pointed out that this failure to get together applies only to the office under discussion and does not involve a break in the party over the State Senatorial campaign.

PHILIPPINE ELECTION IS HELD TODAY

Gov. Woods Takes Measures to Prevent Trouble at Polls in Islands

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

MANILA, June 5.—With extraordinary precautions taken by Gov. Leonard Wood and the insular authorities to insure order, more than 800,000 Filipinos will cast their votes tomorrow in the sixth general election. The issue nominally is to determine whether boss leadership will be continued in the Philippine Legislature, but in reality it is to determine whether Sergio Osmena, Speaker of the Philippine House, or Manuel Quezon, President of the Senate, will dominate.

Some disorders are expected in the provinces, especially Albay, where the political passions between the candidates already have led to challenges to duels, and also at Cebu, where the Democratic party minority leader has requested Gov. Wood to send American inspectors. Gov. Wood, however, is allowing the Filipinos largely to run their own election, but is using the constabulary to insure safety at the polls and to prevent manipulation of the results. The indications point to a heavy Nationalist majority in the House of Representatives, and possibly a majority in the Senate. This will mean an Osmena victory.

The Collectivists, headed by Mr. Quezon, are not expected to change their position much in the House, but they may make a better showing in the Senate. There is a possibility that the Democratic party may hold the balance of power in the Senate. The liquor throughout the islands was suspended at midnight, Sunday, and will continue until the votes are counted.

Woman Killed as Car Turns Over on Pair

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ONTARIO, June 5.—How he and his wife had been sitting happily holding hands in the tonneau of the motor which was bearing them to Camp Baldy yesterday in anticipation of a day's outing, and how, in the twinkling of an eye the car had plunged over an embankment, and she was crushed to death beneath the weight of the machine, was related today by Henry C. Stuart at the inquest over the remains of Florence Amy Stuart, which was held before Coroner J. R. Hanna at Draper's Upland Mortuary.

The verdict of the Coroner's jury was accidental death. Private funeral services are to be held in Bellevue Cemetery tomorrow afternoon, with Dr. Charles F. Zittel, pastor of the First Methodist Church, officiating.

Edwards Guzman, 5-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. August Guzman, died this morning as the result of burns sustained while playing about a bonfire with neighborhood children, near her home, on the Lucas ranch, in the Cucamonga district, last evening.

The child is reported to have fallen into the fire sustaining severe burns about the body before she could be rescued from the flames.

CHILE AND PERU MAY ADJOURN CONFERENCE

TACNA-ARICA NEGOTIATIONS AT WASHINGTON NEAR DEADLOCK

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Suggestions for a compromise settlement of the Tacna-Arica controversy without resort to mediation or arbitration by an outside power again came to the front today in the Chilean-Peruvian negotiations here.

The prospects tonight, however, were that consideration of the alternative would be short lived, the Peruvians indicating that they were not willing to be diverted from the arbitration policy long ago adopted by the Peruvian government.

This situation left the Peruvian arbitration proposal, submitted ten days ago, the order of business of the conference, with the Chileans still unprepared to predict when their government would return a definite reply.

The day's developments, coupled with the continued delay of the Santiago Foreign Office in responding to the Peruvian proposal, led some Latin-American diplomatists here to predict that the conference soon might adjourn for an indefinite period in order to seek some new method of reconciliation.

With efforts both for arbitration and for direct settlement at a standstill, it was suggested on these quarters there seemed little reason for prolonging the negotiations here.

SWING BILL OPPOSED BY ARIZONA BODIES

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DOUGLAS (Ariz.) June 5.—Opposition is to be asked of all the commercial bodies of Arizona to the Swing bill, introduced in the House of Representatives by Congressman Swing of California and in the Senate by Hiram Johnson. This opposing movement was started here at a dinner of 100 business men, who passed resolutions, offered by James P. Boyle, declaring that the bill would nationalize river development and would be detrimental to the interests of Arizona, giving other States unequal rights, possibly political in their nature. The Arizona Senators and Representative were called upon to do what they could against possible passage of the measure.

NOTAS TELEGRAFICAS

Noticias de Washington

WASHINGTON, junio 5.—Hoy hizo el cargo en el Senado, el Senador Watson, de Indiana, de que el Embajador de la Gran Bretaña, Geddes, el Embajador Ricci de Italia, y los representates consulares de Francia, habian desplegado indebida actividad en asuntos domésticos americanos, criticando el proyecto de ley de arancel.

Gifford Pinchot, designado para Gobernador de Pensilvania por el partido Republicano, no pudo llegar a ningún convenio sobre la reconstrucción de la organización del partido en el Estado, en la conferencia que aquí tuvo con los líderes republicanos de Pensilvania.

Ha encallado de nuevo el proyecto de ley del plus del soldado, pues los líderes republicanos han oído he labios autorizados que el Presidente opondrá su veto a dicho proyecto, en la forma que actualmente tiene.

Ha hecho pública el Departamento de Estado la respuesta del Primer Ministro del Canadá a la nota en que se le pide el arreglo del tratado para el canal del San Lorenzo. Por tal respuesta se ve que no está aún cerrada la puerta a estas negociaciones.

Ha fijado el mes de octubre la Suprema Corte de los Estados Unidos para oír la demanda del Estado de Wisconsin contra el drenaje de aguas del Lago Michigan por el distrito sanitario de Chicago.

No Es Seria la Revolución Mexicana

CIUDAD DE MEXICO, junio 4. A pesar de los rumores de que, dentro y fuera de la República, están tratando los revolucionarios de lanzar un movimiento para arrojar del poder al Presidente Obregón, no parece que haya mayor perturbación en la capital o en los Estados, que la que se ha notado en los últimos tres meses. Si se están llevando a cabo movimientos de tropas, no se han observado aquí hoy.

En los varios ministerios se ha reiterado que las noticias de revolución que se han oído en la última quincena no son sino propaganda enemiga, y que, a menos que los censores estén suprimiendo noticias de la sublevación, el Presidente Obregon no tiene problema militar más serio que hace tres meses.

NOTAS LOCALES

Hoy Comienza la Convención

Hoy se abre en el Auditorio Filarmónico la décimo-tercera convención anual de la Sociedad Internacional de Clubs Rotarios. Las sesiones formales se verán aligeradas por un prólogo de gran espectáculo en el Auditorio, a las 8 a.m., y por una genuina fiesta californiana en el Parque Prager, que comenzará a las 9 p.m.

Cuando el Presidente Internacional, Dr. Crawford C. McCullough, abra la convención, a las 10 a.m., se predice que habrá sus 4000 Rotarios presentes. De éstos habrá como 2000 votos, uno por cada Club Rotario.

El más importante negocio del día será la proyectada nueva constitución, que modifica la presente en varios puntos, particularmente en lo que hace a su adaptación a la Rotaria Internacional. Difiere de la actual especialmente en lo que afecta a la Rotario Británica, y dispone que los clubs rotarios de cualquier nación pueden formar an grupo nacional. Hasta ahora éste se ha hecho sólo de un modo informal, por el comité, asesor nacional del Canadá.

Se Limita el Whisky a Ocho Onzas

El Juez Avery, sosteniendo que la disposición Gandier es una medida prohibitiva, y nó una ley reglamentaria, apoyó la opinión del Tribunal de Policía local de que es ilícito que los farmacéuticos vendan más de ocho onzas de whisky al surtir una receta de médico. La sentencia del tribunal va a modificar todo el sistema que se sigue en Los Angeles para despachar licores, según se dice.

La ley Volstead permite que se usen dieciséis onzas de licor por receta. El Juez Avery afirma que la enmienda dieciocho invalida las disposiciones del decreto local, en lo que se refiere a venta de licor para bebida; pero cuando la ley Gandier prohibió la venta de whisky, la ley de Los Angeles quedó reforsada por la enmienda nacional.

Desmiéntense los Rumores de Sublevaciones Mexicanas

A pesar de los rumores de sublevaciones en México, reina la normalidad en todo el país, según telegrama que recibió ayer Emilio R. Aguilar, cónsul mexicano aquí. Añadía el mensaje que el reciente levantamiento de Tabasco había sido pronto sofocado por las fuerzas federales del Gral. Serrano, Ministro de la Guerra, quien visitó la región donde hubo el desorden, y se halla ahora inspeccionando los Estados de Campeche y Yucatán.

WESTERNER SCARES BLASE NEW YORKERS

TWO GUNS, SIX FEET, FIVE INCHES, SOMBRERO AND ALL, GETS EFFECTS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, June 5.—C. F. Bolin of Cheyenne, Wyo., stands six feet five inches in his bare feet. When he puts on his shoes he looks taller. He wears a Wyoming mustache, a double-breasted black Prince Albert coat, a stetson sombrero, and totes two guns, one on the right side and the other on the left.

He breezed into town today by way of the Grand Central terminal and the first thing he did after adjusting his guns was to amble over to one of the young women in charge of the travelers' aid desk and tell her he wanted to be conducted to the Hotel McAlpin.

The young woman got a glimpse of the two guns and didn't wait to inquire whether friend Bolin of Cheyenne was nervous about traveling alone in New York. She telephoned the McAlpin Manager Corney assigned Young Mister Eddie Kraemer to go up to the Grand Central and deliver Two-Gun Bolin to the hotel.

When Eddie got to the McAlpin he paid the taxi man. He says he thought it better under the circumstances, to relieve Mr. Bolin of that little formality.

HOOVER FIGHTS COAL PRICE INCREASES

TELLS RETAILERS HE WILL OPPOSE ANY UNWARRANTED RISE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Retail coal prices will have to increase because of the rise in the price of coal at the mines, Roderick Stephens of New York, chairman of the board of directors of the National Retail Coal Merchants' Association, told Secretary Hoover today at a conference of representatives of the association at the Commerce Department to discuss means of preventing price advances during the strike.

Secretary Hoover maintained that there was no reason for increases in retail prices and declared that he would not stand for the retailers laying increases upon the fair prices just established. He contended that the consuming public has got to pay a reasonable handling charge above the mine price of coal, but asserted that price levels to the consumers should not go beyond such a basis.

No definite action was taken at the conference beyond the promise of co-operation on the part of the association in the department's efforts to restrict undue price increases through the publication of the facts to acquaint the public with the situation should such cases arise. Mr. Stephens asked that there be investigation in each case of reported high prices which Mr. Hoover said would be done in each instance.

Bergdoll Plea Thrown Out by Supreme Court

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, June 5.—The Supreme Court today denied Mrs. Emma C. Bergdoll, Charles Braun, James E. Romig, Albert S. Mitchell and Harry Schuh permission to bring up for review the cases decided against them in the United Stated District Court at Philadelphia, and affirmed by the Circuit Court of Appeals.

They were convicted of having aided Irwin R. and Grover C. Bergdoll, sons of Mrs. Bergdoll, to evade military service, and were subjected to fines and imprisonment, the prison sentences to be remitted provided the fines were paid by a date fixed by the court.

While the case was in appeal to the Supreme Court, the fines were paid under protest. And it was held by the courts that this disposed of the issues, the judgment of the court having been satisfied.

The United States is making adequate provisions for participation in this exposition, and is now erecting its building on the exposition grounds and preparing its exhibits in Washington.

In connection with the centennial celebration the Brazilian government will hold Latin-American international games under the auspices of the Olympic committee. Following the Latin-American games will come a series of world games for countries desiring to participate. These games will consist of football (soccer), track and field athletics, swimming and rowing, tennis and water polo. The Brazilian government has appropriated nearly $200,000 to build an appropriate stadium and a further sum to defray expenses in connection with the games. Ample sleeping accommodations will be furnished athletes without cost.

STAGE MARINE EVENT SUNDAY

Motorboats of 610 Cubic Inch Type to Compete

Over Ten Craft Expected Out in Thrilling Dash

Dinner Dance at Wilmington Will Precede Race

With the sea mews and flapper type of sailing ships, the smaller boats, having had their opening fling at the yachting season, the motorboats of the runabout build are in for their showing next Sunday.

The Los Angeles Yacht Club has a ten-mile race scheduled for the coming Sabbath at the harbor, in which the boats along the Mystery IV type are to be entered.

A boat of runabout type is of 610 cubic inch cylinder displacement, and shorter than the more powerful speed boats.

Ralph Hamlin, who ran the Mystery a couple of close races last year, with his "Joker" has entered his craft, in Sunday's event. By next Saturday, close to a dozen craft are expected to be entered.

Next Saturday night, the L. A. club is to put on another of its many scheduled dinner-dances at the clubhouse at Wilmington. Festivities get under way at 8:30 p.m.

E. R. Abbott, secretary of the club, here yesterday and gave out the official results on the flapper boat race held by the club off Catalina isthmus during the Memorial Day cruise. Hubert Morrow, Jr., beat out the veteran, Benny Weston, and won the E. C. Boatsmall trophy.

The Memorial Day cruise lasting five days was a big success, the large total of twenty-two boats making the trip.

Walter B. Wilde, president of the Mississippi Valley Power Boat Association, and holder of the speed title of Central West rivers, is now the possessor of a racing runabout of Hacker design, and proposes to race this season, not only for the title in hydroplane classes, but also in the racing runabout classes. The new boat had some very satisfactory tryouts on Peoria Lake at Peoria, Ill., recently and is in the pink of condition for the official regatta of the M.V.P.B.A., which is to be held in Peoria July 1, 3 and 4. Owner of a string of Meteors Mr. Wilde has christened the new runabout Meteor V.

President Wilde will find many other opponents, for high-powered runabouts from Minneapolis, Chicago and other Great Lake cities, together with a pair from the Fox Lake region in Illinois, are expected to enter the runabout events.

Perched upon an auto trailer, Ethel K, a racing boat upon which the hopes of Charles P. Hanley are centered, will be hauled to the different cities on the Midwest circuit by an automobile. Mr. Hanley is the champion of the 210 class, by virtue of victories in that class at Peoria, Ill., last July. He will defend this title at the official regatta at Peoria.

THE RUBE

And tell how every con man feels the boob—
It makes rich reading—but—just tell the truth—
Who ever, REALLY, trims the rustic youth?
Once in awhile, perhaps, a jasper falls,
And howls pathetic, in weird catterwauls,
But, say eleven times in twelve or so,
The Ruben is the one who cops the dough!
He stings the wise boys, captures every bet,
And manages to dodge the con men's net!
If you're a live one and a foxy shark,
Don't pick a rural yahoo for your mark—
Confine your energies to city chumps—
The Rubes will simply put you o'er the jumps—
Sell city folks your brightly printed stock,
Or all your coin will soon fit Hiram's sock!

Race tracks and oil stocks are kindred in one respect—both are supported by the great American sucker.

Cincinnati has one valuable feature: It furnished first-class ball players for the Pacific league.

DO YOU BELIEVE IN "SWEETNESS LONG DRAWN OUT," OR IS THE HORSE YOU BET ON STILL LABELED "ALSO RAN?"

The world's champion fan — of the nut variety—has been discovered. He is a hobo, name and race unknown. Riding on top of a freight train the other day, he passed a ball park and, gazing on the scene, saw that the bases were full. He couldn't miss the denouement of the situation, pulled the brakes and stopped the train! Train was wrecked; ball park fence was wrecked; nobody killed; hobo escaped. Beat it if you can!

In six years' time, up to May 15, three home runs have been batted into the right-field seats at Cincinnati. During the week of May 15-21 three home runs were sent into those bleachers, Southworth, Wheat and Highall turning the trick.

Many an awkward boy doesn't know, when he is 14, what on earth to do with his feet. And many of them don't know what to do with their feet when they are 24 years old and get on bases.

Yes, by all means, teach boxing in the colleges. Then the college pitchers who join the major-league teams will be able to establish themselves without having to stand any running from the veterans.

The ball player who can wait 'em out most patiently is the same fellow who raises Cain whenever the waiter is slow with his sirloin and potatoes.

How grand it is to bet, and win,
All in a summer's day,
And then to find the handbook man
Has watched and skipped away!

William Klepper, deposed president of the Portland baseball club, is said to be contemplating a legal attack on organized baseball should the sentence imposed on him and his associate, James Brewster, be enforced. However, he has promised to delay this matter until after briefs bearing on the question of the law involved in the infliction of the penalties are prepared and submitted.

It is to be hoped that in moments of calmer reflection he will decide to postpone such action much longer, in fact for all time. Naturally the first impulse of a man in his position would be to fight back. But Klepper, despite the manner in which he finds himself involved, has too many friends, both inside and outside of baseball, to place himself in this position. Organized baseball is weak in its reserve clause. A strict interpretation of the law might show it to be illegal. Yet the reserve clause is the very keystone of organized baseball. And organized baseball has made it a practice to remain out of court when possible.

A few days ago I expressed the opinion that Commissioner Landis had the power in the peculiar realm created for him to enforce this enormously severe penalty on the Portland magnate, but not the moral right. Now there seems to be a doubt as to his temporal power in the matter. Attorneys for the Portland magnate claim that Landis has exceeded the authority vested in him under the minor league agreement, and quote the following section of that agreement relative to inflicting a penalty on a minor league official:

"Punitive action by the commissioner may take the form of public reprimand, and, in the case of a player, a declaration of temporary or permanent eligibility to play for any club related to the parties hereto."

Nothing there apparently authorizing a gentleman in Chicago, Ill., to drive a man out of business in Portland, Or.

Coast League directors have asked that James Brewster, associate of Klepper and heavily interested financially in the Portland club, be given a hearing. Brewster had the same penalty meted out to him as Klepper, yet it is claimed that he never was given a hearing, that he never signed or sent a wire to Kenworthy and that there is not a shadow of evidence to connect him with the irregularities on which the punishment was based.

Should these claims prove true it is a staggering development in the case. Such a situation is unbelievable, such carelessness with another man's reputation and business inconceivable, and we prefer to wait the answer to these assertions. Should they prove true, however, it would show the party responsible for the act unqualified to sit in judgment on any man. If Brewster was not given a hearing, it was a clear case of conviction without trial, and an appalling commentary on such a concentration of arbitrary powers. But as stated, such a situation is so inconceivable that we hopefully await the word that will prove otherwise.

Some days ago when I dissented, not with the conviction of Klepper and Brewster, but with the severity of the sentence, I believed I was taking the unpopular side. I knew it was the harder way. Much easier in a case of this sort to throw up your hat, give three cheers, pat the big one on the back and ejaculate, "Good boy, that's the stuff!"

But I couldn't concur without suffering loss of sleep. It seemed an astounding trespass of human rights and property rights. Since then I have yet to meet a man in baseball or out of it who does not think the penalty too severe. I defended Klepper as long as reasonable doubts existed. No grounds for defense longer exists. He did wrong. Even the fact that during his short career as an owner he did more for the Coast League than any other man in a like time in its history by taking a club which had been a liability to the organization and making it a tremendous asset, a club which was filling the coffers of his fellow-owners both at home and on the road, a club which was the pride of Portland, and which changed that city's name from a baseball by-word to a place of prominence in the headlines—even these things possibly cannot be recalled in his defense. But two wrongs do not make a right, so we were taught in school. Tampering with another man's player is wrong. Taking an entire business away from another man is worse. Tampering with the player was contrary to baseball law, and morally wrong, but not illegal. Surely, an order forcing a man out of a legitimate business would not, could not, hold in a court of law, if law stands for justice.

In short, it strikes me that the Portland people have been overpenalized.

EASTERNERS INFERIOR

Comparison of Performances of Track Athletes Shows Superiority of Middle West

BY WALTER ECKERSALL

CHICAGO, June 5.—A recapitulation of performances made in the eastern intercollegiate track and field games at Cambridge, May 27, and those made in the western conference at Iowa City last Saturday shows that the West excelled in eight of the fifteen events held in common. The East was better in six, while the time made in the 100-yard dash was the same, 9 7-10s.

EAST.	EVENT.	WEST.
:09 7-10	100-yard dash	:09 7-10
:21 2-10	220-yard dash	:21 3-5
:49 1-2	440-yard dash	:48
1:58 1-5	880-yard run	1:56
4:18 3-5	One-mile run	4:22
9:28 1-5	Two-mile run	9:35
:15 3-10	120-yard high hurdles	:15
:23 3-10	220-yard low hurdles	:23 4-5
23ft. 7-8in.	Broad jump	23ft. 9in.
6ft. 4 5-8in.	High jump	6ft. 5 1-16in.
12ft. 9in.	Pole vault	12ft. 6in.
171ft. 2in.	Hammer throw	187ft. 1-2in.
140ft. 1-8in.	Discus throw	147ft. 8in.
188ft. 5 3-8in.	Javelin throw	196ft. 11in.

Best performances—By West, 8; by East, 6; tie, 1.

On the eight events held on the track, the West was better in both hurdles, 1-4, 1-2 and mile runs. The East had the edge in the mile and 220-yard dash, the century being even. Middle West athletes showed superiority in the high jump, distances and javelin, while the Eastern meet showed better marks in the broad jump, pole vault, shot-put and hammer-throw.

In this connection, it should be mentioned that in three of the first places scored in the Eastern intercollegiate, the performances which were better than those in the Western Conference, were made by California athletes, Norris of California won the pole vault with a successful effort at twelve feet, nine inches; Merchant of the Golden State team took the hammer and Hartranft of Leland Stanford was the winner of the shot-put.

The two sets of games, however, should furnish some excellent material for the American team which will compete in the Olympic games of 1924. In the great majority of cases, performances made by the victors can be improved, according to competent coaches. Some of the winners will be graduated this spring, but the majority will join athletic clubs in order to keep in training for the world's games.

CINCINNATI, June 5. — More than a thousand thoroughbreds are at the Latonia track here ready for the opening of the spring meeting tomorrow, which is expected to be one of the most spectacular meetings in the history of the Latonia track.

In addition to the Latonia Derby, a classic in itself, the special $50,000 race, which will be run on June 24, is already being referred to as "the classic of the century" by turf writers. In this special race, Morvich, winner of the Kentucky Derby, and Snob, who won the Withers stake at Belmont, will compete.

New York, Philadelphia and Boston Represented

BY WILLIAM T. TILDEN II.
Tennis Champion of World, 1920-21

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHILADELPHIA, June 5.—The first of the Eastern events, the match for the George Myers Church cup for intercity competition between Boston, New York and Philadelphia, will be staged at Boston on June 9 and 10. This is the fifth annual battle for the trophy, which has been won twice by New York and Boston, respectively.

The teams should line up with almost equal strength in Boston and New York, while Philadelphia is a shade behind. The present champions, New York, have an exceptionally strong team with Vincent Richards, Zenzo Shimidzu, who is now residing in the metropolis; Watson Washburn, Frank T. Anderson, Frank Hunter, the indoor champion; R. Howard Voshell, Harold Throckmorton and several others to choose from. Boston will pick her team from R. N. Williams, II, Lawrence Rice, the sensation of the early season; M. W. Bliss, Alfred Badney and a group of lesser stars.

SETS EXAMPLE

Philadelphia has, besides myself and Wallace Johnson, who are certainties, Carl Fischer, Stanley Pearson, Carlton Shafer, Alex D. Thayer, Dr. P. H. Hawk and a host of lesser lights.

It is not that the Church cup in itself is such a vitally important event in the tennis year, although in the match almost all of the leading players of the East compete. But it is in the example that it sets to other cities which desire to boost the game within the vicinity that the value lies.

When George Church, together with a little group of men who act as guardians of the trophy presented the cup, he drew up a set of regulations that is a model for such a competition.

The matches call for six singles and three doubles in which a city may use a team of not less than six or more than twelve men. The matches shall rotate in regular order, no matter which city is champion. The first year the play was in Philadelphia, when New York won; but the next year the match was held in Boston, even though the champion city was New York. The home city stands out and meets the winner of the first day's play.

BOOSTS GAME

Trophies of this type between cities situated close enough together to provide easy traveling and where the standing of tennis is about on a par will mean a great boost to the game. There is no reason to doubt but that, if tennis grows at its present rate and the sectional matches continue to prove the big success that they have in the past, many of these cups for intercity play for both men and women and even for juniors will be in competition within the next few years.

If you are an individual who wants to boost the game in your city, consider seriously the advisability of presenting such a trophy for play during the current season.

FAVOR CHANGES IN CUE TOURNEY RULES

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, June 5.—Changes in rules governing competition for the 18.2 balk line billiard championship to permit the staging of an international tournament annually, instead of every two years, were said today to have the approval of virtually all of the leading players, including Jake Schaefer, the titleholder. In addition, it was said, the players have suggested that challenge after the tournament be limited to the players who finished second, third and fourth instead of allowing all competitors the right to issue defies to the winners.

According to the present plans, an international tournament would be held in November, probably in New York. Official action may be taken this week.

If you built a tire carcass of the finest cord or fabric—and then realized that the miles it would deliver depended entirely on a rubber tread—

WINNER BESTS NEVILLE BY SEVEN-STROKE LEAD

BY HAY CHAPMAN
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

VICTORIA (B. C.) June 5.—Dr. O. F. Willing, the Oregon amateur champion, had a walkaway in the qualifying rounds of the twenty-second annual championship of the Pacific Northwest which started at the Colwood Country Club here today, winning the medal from Jack Neville by seven strokes. Willing's morning round of 74 was a sensation, but this afternoon he played still better, being only two strokes over the difficult par for the course. Neville played a steady day's golf and was runner-up with a stroke in front of Clare Griswold and Forest Watson, two youngsters who are in business together and who are well known in California.

Representatives of the Waverly Country Club of Portland and of the Seattle Golf Club fairly divided the honors of the first ten, and the glittering young star of Salt Lake, George Von Elm, slid down to a tie for seventh place. There was some criticism of the number of comparatively easy putts which Von Elm missed during the day, leaving an uncomfortable impression that the lad was not anxious to shine in the medal rounds with the Calcutta ceremonies in sight this evening. It may have been Von Elm's much-advertised abscess under his arm that troubled him, but it is a bad day for amateur golf when dubious rumors get around.

STRANGER TO COURSE

Dr. Willing led the first round with a finely-played 74. He had not competed in the open championship last week and was a comparative stranger to the course. He did not start particularly well, going out in 38, but coming in with a brilliant 36. In the afternoon he was out in 38 and back in 38. Jack Neville was tied with the veteran Vernon Macan for second honors at 76. The Californian was hitting phenomenally-long wooden shots and reached fifth, 528 yards, with his brassie, narrowly escaping the cup for a genuine "cuckoo" but being quite satisfied with a record eagle of 3 for this hole. Neville was paired with "Dixie" Pleager of Seattle, former Northwest champion, who made his first round in a sound 80.

Forest Watson, the city champion of Seattle, was fourth in the eighty returns with a steady 77, a stroke ahead of his team-mate, Clare Griswold. George Von Elm, the favorite, who was paired with Dr. Willing, had to be satisfied with an 80. Outside of Neville the California contingent did not figure brilliantly. Cliff Weatherwax had a fair 84, but Roger Lapham and Walter Salisbury accumulated 93 and 92, respectively.

One hundred and sixty golfers were also busy from dawn to dusk at Oakbay in the qualifying rounds for the Pacific Coast handicap. The Victoria Golf Club's links are beautifully situated with many of the greens actually sea-girt and shots into the bay were not infrequent, especially this afternoon when there was a stiff breeze blowing. Some of the tee shots are quite terrifying, but not so hazardous as some of the fairways which cross each other. The Britishers here who served four years in the trenches of France and Belgium, are quite stoic about it and a few more golf balls shot at them from various angles do not seem to fezes them. The links are laid out on only sixty acres of land, at least forty acres too small for an eighteen-hole course, but the danger of the crossing holes seems to add to the excitement of the game.

The leading scores follow:

Wauseon, Ohio.—"My daughter always had backache and leg-ache at certain periods and could not be on her feet at those times. We read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound doing girls so much good so she began to take it. That is two years ago and she is a different girl since then, able to do any work she wants to do—although she is still careful not to do heavy work—and so well and strong. We recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all mothers with ailing daughters, and I give you permission to publish this letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. A. M. BURKHOLDER, Route No. 2, Box 1, Wauseon, Ohio.

WARD'S CASE IS WEAKENED

Murder Action Goes Before Jurors Today

Court Charges Members of Inquiry Body

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WHITE PLAINS (N. Y.) June 5.—"During the past month an act of homicide has been committed within this county. The killing and many of the facts connected therewith have become notorious. It is equally notorious that the person who admits the killing is a man of wealth. Do not be swayed by passion or prejudice. Give this man his rights but give him no greater rights than the poor unfortunate who is unable to obtain counsel. The same rules of evidence apply, the same degree of proof is required in each instance. For the law is no respecter of persons."

Thus solemnly County Judge Bleakley of Yonkers charged the grand jury of Westchester county today in final preparations to open its inquiry tomorrow into the death of Clarence Peters at the hands of Walter S. Ward.

DEFENSE WEAKENED

At this eleventh hour Ward's hopes that his inquisitors will fall utterly to fasten on him any guilt greater than his self-confessed killing in defense of his life were weakened by two developments.

Mrs. Helen Blanchard, a cook living in New York City, appeared before Dist.-Atty. Weeks and told that she had seen Ward and Peters together as early as 1913, had known Peters as Ward's confidential agent, and had seen the pair in heated conversation near the Ward bakeries a few hours before the former's death.

Ward was led today into the County Jail to confront James Joseph Cunningham, who has claimed knowledge that Ward murdered Peters in his home and spirited his body away to the spot on Kensico reservoir road where it was found. Pale, but still resolutely silent, he heard himself hailed by his accuser as an old acquaintance, and indicted by inference as a participant in Cunningham's old game of off-color race-track schemes.

ACCUSED UNNERVED

Visibly unnerved by his ordeal, Ward was taken away from White Plains by his lawyers for a supreme conference on the plans for their struggle to fend off an indictment charging first-degree murder. He left behind him a sensational rumor, emanating from a suggestive word spoken by one of the few persons with whom he spoke while in White Plains, that he will tell the whole story of the blackmail which may have justified the slaying of Peters.

Twice, say his intimates, he has been on the verge of a second full confession, and twice he has been restrained by his advisers.

The minds of his prosecutors will cling tenaciously to a theory that the killing of Peters was the fruit of association of long standing between Ward and the worst elements in race-track circles. One man whom Ward will face in the court of his lengthy grilling will be Capt. Duhain of the Pinkerton race-track operatives, who will come armed with all the data which is known to link Ward's name with those of such men as Arnold Rothstein and Joseph (Curley) Bennett.

BRITISH AND FRENCH ARE GETTING THEIRS

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PEKING, June 5. — American commercial and financial interests in China are alarmed over the prospect of the Chinese government defaulting on American debts while paying its British and French obligations. The Chinese government is now in default to American banks for loans and for obligations covering railroad purchases over the last few years, which are still unpaid.

The British and French, through their control over the Chinese customs and salt revenues, deposited in British and French banks, are helping themselves to pay their debts, while China is forced to default on its American debts. The present weakness of the Chinese government practically places the control of the nation's finances in the hands of the British, with American creditors left out in the cold.

A further complication for American business in China is due to the Dutch use of a recent New York loan to finance development, while American firms in China are starving for capital. It is understood that a complete report of the situation is in the hands of the American State and Commerce departments. Americans in China do not understand why the American government permits British, French and Belgians to default on their war loans, while they use money here to block American enterprise.

[TIMES STAFF CORRESPONDENT]

PASADENA, June 5.—More than 12,000 persons are expected to attend the annual commencement exercises of Pasadena High School, at Tournament Park, June 15. The commencement committee began work today transforming the football field into an old English garden and the goal-posts into trees. The services will begin at sundown.

Junior girls, dressed as for a garden fete, will form part of the decorations. Others will carry chains of flowers, and still others in shepherdess costumes will form arches with their shepherd crooks, beneath which the seniors will parade six abreast. The senior girls will carry flower baskets, and the entire class will sing a processional and a choral number.

Short addresses by John Rowland, president of the class and Miss Helen Jackson, valedictorian, will precede the invocation by the Rev. Dr. Daniel F. Fox. Principal W. F. Ewing and Supt. John F. West will speak briefly and President Arthur Bush Stevens of the Board of Education will present the diplomas. Presentation and distribution of flowers by the junior girls to the senior class will follow.

The baccalaureate sermon will be preached by the Rev. Dr. Leslie R. Learned of All Saints' Episcopal Church, June 11.

MORE SNAGS STRUCK BY BONUS MEASURE

PRESIDENT SAID TO BE DETERMINED TO VETO BILL AS FINALLY ADOPTED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, June 5.—The much-delayed and oft-sidetracked soldiers' bonus bill struck new snags today.

Word reached the Senate via spokesmen of unquestioned authority that President Harding was determined to veto the bonus bill in the form in which it was finally adopted by the Senate Finance Committee. This was snag No. 1.

It may have been only a coincidence, but the news of Mr. Harding's unswerving opposition to the bill was followed almost immediately by announcement of further postponement of the filing of the formal report of the Finance Committee recommending passage of the bonus. This unexpected delay was snag No. 2.

Senator McCumber, North Dakota, chairman of the Finance Committee, harassed by a bitter primary fight in North Dakota, plagued day and night by the tariff, and beset constantly by the bonus, devoted his efforts for the day to the tariff.

He expected to report the bonus last week, but was so busy defending the tariff that he had to postpone it until today. The bonus was to have been laid before the Senate with a loud fanfare of trumpets, but expectant watchers in the galleries were informed that Senator McCumber had encountered unexpected delay in writing his report and could not say when he would be able to complete it. He might be able to lay it before the Senate within the next day or two or three; definite assurance was lacking. Meanwhile Senator McCumber held the tariff bill before the Senate.

In some quarters it was thought that the very flat and definite information of President Harding's opposition to the bonus had something to do with the delay. This was denied, and the statement was reiterated that McCumber would make every effort to bring the bonus up at the first parliamentary opportunity, even to the extent of displacing the tariff if such a step becomes necessary.

Notwithstanding the apparently authentic character of the information of the President's attitude, some Senators insisted on taking it with a grain of salt. They declared that opposition to the bonus bill constituted not merely an injustice to the ex-service men, but would prove also to be poor politics.

STATE EMPLOYMENT BUREAUS MAKE GAIN

The figures for the other offices were as follows: Oakland, 2753; Fresno, 1734; Sacramento, 1258; San Jose, 1135, and Stockton, 1208.

MYSTERIOUS EXPLOSIONS ARE TRACED

[TIMES STAFF CORRESPONDENT]

SANTA MONICA, June 5.—A series of terrific detonations which have been heard in this district of late and which caused much speculation as to their origin, were yesterday traced to workmen who are constructing a new link in the State highway from Ventura south to the Santa Monica city limits.

The explosions were caused by blasts of T.N.T. which is now being used by the State Highway Commission in place of dynamite to cut ways for roadbeds. Fifty thousand tons of this "explosive, left over from the war, have been turned over to the State for road-building purposes.

Three and one-half miles of the new highway have been completed. The roadway will be forty feet in width, or nearly twice as wide as the present highway. Most of it is being cut through solid rock.

The work is in charge of H. C. Reider of the State Highway Commission. He has a large gang of workmen and several steam shovels. When completed the road will connect Santa Monica with Ventura, giving automobilists a complete highway between the Los Angeles bay district and Ventura, running within a few feet of the breakers for the entire distance.

The new road cuts straight through the Robertson-Cole cinema studio at Santa Ynez Canyon. Several cottages were removed by the government and a church at the studio was cut entirely in two to make way for the road.

MANY ACRES OF GRAIN DOOMED

Tulare Lake District is Hard Hit by Overflow

Three Reclamation Districts Will Not Suffer

Alarm is Expressed Over Railroad Decision

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

FRESNO, June 5.—All efforts to save the unreclaimed sections of the Tulare Lake have been abandoned, Arthur Goodfellow, one of the large grain growers, stated yesterday. The number of acres which will be under water before the gigantic stores of snow in the mountains have abated were estimated at from 40,000 to 50,000 by Mr. Goodfellow, who has just visited the district.

Cool weather in the mountains caused a decrease in the volume of water pouring into the Kings River. Less water is used for irrigation now, as about the same amount is pouring into the lake.

Mr. Goodfellow considers the three large reclamation districts safe from flood and, in fact, believes that it will work for the benefit of the acres behind the mammoth levees, which suffered from drought last year.

MANY GET JOBS

Placing 1784 persons in jobs during the month of May, the local branch of the State free employment agency filled more positions than in any month since September, 1920, when 1775 men and women secured employment. About 60 per cent of the positions were in agricultural work.

The new packing machinery, to be used by the Sun Maid Raisin Growers for the 1922 crop, will arrive in Fresno in time for the season, according to G. G. Watson, head of the operating department, who has just returned from a two weeks' trip to Boston, where he inspected the machinery.

WAR ON SPEEDERS

Delivering an ultimatum that speeding and reckless driving in Fresno must cease, Police Judge J. G. Crichton sentenced two men to the County Jail for five days each after they pleaded guilty to a charge of exceeding the speed limit. This is the first time in the history of the court that speeders have been sent to jail. The men were L. Wanamaker and Jack Bolen.

They were arrested in Fresno on Memorial Day and were charged with driving their cars forty-five miles an hour in a race on Van Ness avenue.

CITY BUDGET

A public hearing on the budget for the city for the fiscal year will be held on the 15th inst., it was decided Friday at the meeting of the City Commission. Finance Commissioner Charles Dillon was instructed to have the budget printed.

The decision of the Supreme Court dissolving the merger of the Southern Pacific and Central Pacific roads is a blow to the industries of the San Joaquin Valley, according to Epsel B. Loss, chairman of the Industrial committee of the Fresno County Chamber of Commerce. Loss, who is a former railroad man, held a conference yesterday with Paul Shoup, vice-president of the Southern Pacific, on the situation created in the valley by the order.

Loss said that he would ask the chamber to take up with State and national commissioners the situation created in the valley. The railroad from Lathrop to Goshen is now the main line of the Southern Pacific, but was a Central Pacific line before the merger.

Convicts Give Rude Member a Good Flogging

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, June 5.—The story of how 150 convict road workers at Big Bar, Trinity county, incensed because one of their number, George Zenavre, had been accused by a widow of insulting her, formed a "kangaroo court" and found Zenavre guilty, then administered forty lashes with a strap, was received in a special dispatch to the Sacramento Bee from Weaverville today. Smarting under his disgrace, the dispatch said, Zenavre ran away from the road camp and was captured at Don Juan Point, ten miles down the river, and is held at the County Jail at Weaverville.

Zenavre was sent to prison from Los Angeles county.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

FLORENCE (Ariz.) June 5.—An unusual lawsuit in the Pinal County Superior Court has been won by the Ray Consolidated Copper Company, plaintiff, against the Ray-Broken Hills Mining Company and Schilling & Sherlock. A jury found for the plaintiff on all of twelve questions submitted.

Involved was a large part of the domestic and mine water supply of Ray. It was shown that the Ray Consolidated, since 1907, had been using the water of Indian Springs, on the hillside above Ray, piping it into the town and distributing the supply mainly to the homes of employees. In 1919 the Ray-Broken Hills Company, driving a long tunnel toward a dyke below the camp, tapped a large flow of water demonstrated as that which had created Indian Springs.

The Ray Consolidated pipe line was diverted to the tunnel mouth as soon as the flow of the springs ceased. This is on ground owned by P. A. Schilling and Joseph Sherlock, who had permitted the driving of the tunnel into the Ray-Broken Hills ground. The tunneling company, failing to develop ore in quantity, abandoned operations and removed its machinery. Thereafter Schilling attempted diversion of the tunnel water flow to his own uses. He was enjoined, and now ownership of the flow has been confirmed in the Ray Consolidated Company.

EXPLOSIONS AT OAKLAND KILL FOUR

Powder Factory Has Bad Accident; Several Men Severely Injured

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

OAKLAND, June 5.—Four men were killed and four others seriously injured in a series of explosions today at the plant of the Trojan Powder Company at San Lorenzo, near here.

The injured are: H. A. Bernstein, general manager; M. C. Vottenfield, superintendent; Floyd Cooper, laborer, and Tony DeCosta, laborer.

The first explosion occurred in the drying house, and two others followed within a few seconds in adjoining buildings. Without waiting for word from the plant, ambulances were rushed from San Leandro, three miles distant. A guard was thrown around the plant at once, and all denied admission, including the relatives of some of the dead and injured men.

Myers and Toon were hurled through a corrugated iron wall and into a field. The explosion was caused by a fire in the drying room.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, June 5.—With the State's "million-dollar" battery of prosecutors and six new judges assigned to the Criminal Court, all ready to go into action tomorrow morning in an effort to bring about an end to Chicago's terror reign, Timothy (Big Tim) Murphy, one of the indicted union labor leaders, received an offer today to appear in vaudeville.

"Why not?" asked Murphy. "The only man I was ever jealous of anyway, was Billy Sunday. He had nothing more to commend him as a public speaker when he started than I have, so again, 'Why not?'"

It was pointed out by friends of Murphy that he was a benefactor inasmuch as it was through him that Chicago is getting 1000 new policemen, several new judges to try criminal cases, and $1,000,000 worth of legal talent to assist in the prosecution of union labor terrorists.

Ford Willing to Listen to People's Call

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

DETROIT, June 5.—Henry Ford has intimated privately that he would run for President "if the people of the country desire him to do so," but "he would refuse to spend any money to bring about his nomination or election," according to William T. Kronberg, editor of a Dearborn newspaper, and one of the leaders in the Dearborn "Henry Ford for President" Club.

Although he has made no public statement, Mr. Ford has intimated to members of the club that he would be in a receptive mood should the demand for his candidacy come from the people.

COURT TO SETTLE SCHOOL BOARD CASE

QUESTION OF JURISDICTION IN COMBINED DISTRICTS WILL BE DECIDED

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 5. — A question regarding the jurisdiction of combined high and grammar school boards over contiguous districts which have been annexed for financial or other reasons was argued in the First District Court of Appeal today on an appeal from Marin county where such jurisdiction is in dispute. The matter was continued until further briefs could be submitted.

The last Legislature provided for such extension without specifying the powers of the school boards of the respective districts, it was held in the appeal. This had led to a condition where annexed school districts have been taxed by the annexing district without representation on the school boards of such annexing districts according to the appeal. Dist.-Atty. John R. Robinson of Butte county, representing the Chico school district, announced that the Third District Court has a case involving the same points under consideration. It was indicated today that no action would be taken until the decision of the Third District Court has been handed down.

Tulare County Organizing to Defeat Bond Plan

Dairymen Will Manufacture Cottage Cheese

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VISALIA, June 5.—With the appointment of Joseph R. Barboni as chairman, Charles T. Pool, secretary, and these two with George C. Cobb, A. R. Cutler and U. D. Switzer, as the executive committee, organization of the People's Economy League of Visalia has been completed.

The purpose of the league is to campaign against the proposed water and power act, which would bond the State for $500,000,000, and which will be voted upon at the November election. Leagues have been formed so far in this county, in Porterville, Tulare and Visalia and in Hanford.

A canvass of the Porterville business district by representatives of the People's Economy League found a sentiment of 90 per cent against the water and power act and about 10 per cent in favor of it. Organization of a local unit of the People's League was formed with V. D. Knupp as chairman; Phil Gafvert, vice-chairman; O. B. Tout, secretary.

DEBATES PLANNED

Six debates on the question are to be held early in June in Porterville, Visalia, Tulare, Earlimart, Lindsay and Dinuba. Representative speakers from both sides will deliver these talks. On July 4 at the Tulare County Farm Bureau picnic at Mooney Grove, Col. Marshal will explain the difference between the Marshal plan and the water and power act.

The total damage thus far to the grain crop of the Tulare Lake region is now placed at $200,000 and the total damage to lands adjacent to the lake, and throughout Kings county and Southwestern Tulare county generally, is estimated at $1,000,000 as result of the floods on the Kings and Kern rivers.

The grain loss is said to have been far less than earlier reports indicated, although the loss has been complete for some growers.

The flood waters have raised the water level over the county generously and no damage has come and none is expected to come to any of the orchards and vineyards. Some pasture lands are under water, but on the whole good resulting from the generous soaking of the land will offset the damage to the grain crops.

TEAMS TO COMPETE

TULARE, June 5.—Odd Fellows of Madera, Fresno, Kings and Tulare counties are anticipating the finals of the third-degree contest which will be held in the Fresno auditorium the evening of the 10th inst. Large delegations from Odd Fellows' lodges in the valley will be present.

Following the elimination contests, three degree teams will compete in the finals, including Reedley, Madera and Tulare. Bakersfield is understood to be ready to challenge the winning team.

Grand Master James Ryan of the Grand Lodge of California will be in attendance and will present the trophy. Past Grand Master I. N. Bryan of Central California Lodge No. 243 will preside, assisted by Past Grand Master A. M. Drew of Fresno Lodge No. 184.

TO MAKE CHEESE

A new branch of the dairy produce business will be added to the Dairyman's Co-operative Creamery for the manufacture of cottage cheese and lactic acid, according to an announcement by the directors. Knutsen Brothers of Los Angeles will have charge of the new department.

Messrs. Knutsen state that the new addition will utilize not less than 70,000 pounds of skimmed milk daily from the beginning of operations, and when a market has been established, the demand will probably be 50,000 pounds daily. This will mean a substantial addition to the pay checks of the dairymen, as formerly skimmed milk has been a waste product.

PROHIBITION LAW GETS HARD KNOCK

SUPREME COURT DECISION AFFECTS HALF BILLION IN REVENUES

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, June 5. — Federal revenue collectors can be restrained by the courts from enforcing the penalty imposed by Section 35 of the national prohibition act upon persons guilty of the illegal manufacture and sale of liquor, the Supreme Court held today in a case brought by Ernest Lipke against the collector of internal revenue for the first Pennsylvania district.

The decision was considered by the government of great importance as a precedent in disposing of a number of cases now pending throughout the country involving over $450,000,000 in revenue.

Section 35 of the prohibition act provides that persons found guilty of illegal sale or manufacture of liquor must pay double the tax provided by law prior to nationwide prohibition in liquor and also be penalized to the extent of $500 for retail dealers and $1000 for manufacturers.

AMBASSADORS ARE ACCUSED

Watson Makes Charges in Tariff Speech

Interference in Domestic Politics Told

Geddes, Ricci and French Consuls Named

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Senator Watson, Indiana, charged in the Senate today that ambassadors of foreign governments are attempting to interfere in the domestic politics of the United States. The Indiana Senator, in a lengthy address in support of the McCumber tariff bill, quoted comments by Ambassador Geddes of Great Britain, Ambassador Ricci of Italy, who has recently made a stumping tour in Italian colonies in the United States and by consular representatives of the French government, in which high duties and other proposed tariff policies of the United States are deplored.

FOREIGN MEDDLING

"Foreigners are coming here and telling us how to conduct our government." Senator Watson declared. "They are seeking to direct what laws we are to pass and are interfering, I think unjustly, in our domestic affairs.

"I call attention to the singular fact that the men who tried to get us into the League of Nations are the ones who are trying now to defeat this tariff bill. Free trade and internationalism are reacting in opposition to this measure."

Senator Watson, in the course of his address read to the Senate the correspondence relating to the case of the former British Ambassador Sackville-West, whose recall was forced by President Cleveland for interference in American domestic politics. He followed this with pertinent reference to Sir Auckland Geddes, the British Ambassador, quoting a statement by him that a means must be found to pay the British debt to the United States otherwise than by gold and suggesting that the use by Americans of British ships would materially help the situation.

"Ambassador Geddes," said Senator Watson, "is a very great man, a very capable representative of a mighty people, but I think he is going entirely outside the bounds of propriety in attempting to dictate the policy of this mightiest of nations in the recorded history of time.

EXPLOIT DOCTRINES

"I might go on and show the articles that have been written by Gibbs, Gardner, Repington and many other British publicists, writing articles for newspapers and magazines every day in the United States, exploiting British doctrine and inveighing in caustic terms and unmitigated passion against the protective tariff doctrine. There you have it. It is the American doctrine as against the British. It is our idea as to what we shall do with our own government as against the interference of all other governments. I desire as one Senator to resent interference from abroad in our domestic affairs."

Senator Watson quoted a statement by Ambassador Ricci in which objection was made to high duties on olive oil and a warning sounded that Italy would increase duties on American agricultural implements.

"There is no altering of the currents of trade by means of the imposition of duties," said Senator Watson in commenting on what he said was a threat by the Italian Ambassador. "The Italians will continue to buy from us because they have to."

Game of Craps Preliminary to Elkton Wedding

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ELKTON (Md.) June 5.—Shooting craps in the telephone exchange at Elkton at 4 o'clock in the morning marked the preliminary to the wedding of John W. Montgomery, aged 30, of Bellefonte, Pa., to Peggy U. N'Ertle, a Milwaukee show girl, according to evidence brought out today, when the suit of Montgomery for divorce on the ground that he was intoxicated at the time the wedding was performed opened in the Circuit Court of Cecil county. On the stage Mrs. Montgomery is known as Miss U'Dell.

The evidence of William Simons of Philadelphia, driver of the taxi which brought the wedding party to Elkton on the morning of January 25, was followed with breathless interest by the crowd. His testimony followed that of the youthful bridegroom himself.

The taxi driver testified that Montgomery was so drunk that during the ceremony he kept his hat on, and that two or three times he had to stop to request Montgomery to take off his hat.

LOSS OF LIFE SEEMS LESS THAN REPORTED

SURVIVORS OF WRECK IN SOUTH AMERICA REACH LAND

BUENOS AIRES, June 5.—A dispatch to La Nacion from Posadas reports the arrival there of numerous survivors from the steamer Villa France, which burned and later sank in the Parana River Sunday. The dispatch also mentions the appearance of other survivors along the Paraguayan coast. This seemingly would tend to reduce the first estimate of the loss of life, which was eighty.

DAILY TRADE TALK

Opportunity Beckons; Latin America's Gates Are Open to Friendly Invasion

This is the first of a series of articles on trade conditions in Latin-America; and their relation to this country, and especially to the Pacific Coast. The author has spent many years in Central and South America and has made an intimate study of the people, their requirements and their reactions. He is a former editor of the Panama Morning Journal, the Panama Star and Herald, and has visited the nethermost parts of the great South American domain as special correspondent and investigator.—[Editor.

BY JOHN HALL

The people of Latin America want to get better acquainted with the people of the United States. This desire for more intimate relations is openly expressed, not only by the business men but by the people in general. To an observer of many years' residence in Latin America, our disinterested rally to the cause of democracy has slain the dragon of distrust among the peoples of the small Latin-American states, and there is a fast-growing confidence in the once almost universally distrusted Yankee. Another factor which has worked to our advantage springs from the absence of European anti-American propaganda during the period of the great war. Once regarded as probable land grabbers, there is now a general feeling that the Yankee is not the rascal he has been painted by our amiable European commercial competitors.

When I left Central America two months ago economic conditions were critical. In Panama there were public soup kitchens; Guatemala and Honduras were facing political crises; Salvador was disturbed, Nicaragua and Costa Rica were anything but normal, economically speaking. Aside from political disturbances, these States were suffering from lack of trade. All possess large stocks of native products, ready to be sold at the lowest prices on record. The coffee crop of Central America alone seemed secure. Ivory nuts, hard woods, cocoanuts, were piled in the warehouses, the exporters holding them for fair prices. As a result of this situation many thousands of laborers were idle. American buyers should purchase all of these stocks. Prices will never be lower.

OPENS NEW EMPIRE

The Panama Canal has opened all of this territory to the Pacific Coast. Between the canal and the Rio Grande there is a territory presenting a rich field for trade that should not be overlooked. Inactivity at this time will give the suave European salesman his opportunity to recommence his prewar anti-American propaganda, to thrust aside the goods manufactured in the United States. They are there as this is written, offering long credits and suggestions against American competitors. They have played on that string for a long time; but it still serves. Our exporters and importers face defeat in a field where they should be masters. If they are thrust aside they will have none but themselves to blame. Since the end of the war the Latin-Americans have been inviting them to come and conquer.

What do they want? They want shoes, apparel for men, women and children; overalls of every kind; canned fruits and vegetables; canned meats. One item is worth particular mention. They want cheap cotton working shirts and underwear—and always serviceable overalls. Canned candies of every description, especially the cheaper kinds, as the working classes are very fond of candy; the more attractive the container the better for trade. Small tin boxes and glasses of every kind invariably sell their contents, as the working people want the containers to utilize in their simple homes. It is good for the American exporter to know that in Latin America there are very few large cities, as we know them. The vast majority of the population are simple country people, with simple wants and tastes. Strongly made, low-priced articles of apparel soon find a ready sale.

FEW MODERN CITIES

Santiago, in Chile; Buenos Aires, in Argentina; Rio de Janeiro, in Brazil; Panama and Colon, in Panama, and San Jose, in Costa Rica, may be called modern cities as we know them. These may be cited as examples of modern cities in Latin America, but the vast stretches of Central and South American territories are peopled by agricultural workers of the simplest type, and to a great extent aboriginal.

There are millions of pure Indians in Central America and other millions in the states south of the canal. The middle classes show all the prominent characteristics of the natives, the old Spanish strain having freely mingled with the peoples they conquered. Along what is known as the Spanish Main the African negro has crossed with both native and Spaniard. A few of the old Spanish families have kept their blood free, and they compose the aristocracy and business element. Highly educated, courteous and shrewd, they control the marts of trade, the banks and politics. Your educated Latin-American usually speaks several languages, having gone abroad for his education.

It is through these courteous gentlemen the American business man reaches the people of jungle and mountain. Over the bush trails and up turbulent rivers the merchandise goes to the interior, where, in the tiny, palm-thatched hut of the local trader of the bush, or in the galvanized shack of the interior village merchant, American-made wares are laid out to attract the eye of the man of the soil.

GOOD PACKING ESSENTIAL

It will be seen that goods thus reshipped over hard trails and up swift rivers should be properly packed. No matter how small the item going to Latin America, it should be packed attractively and strongly. Poor packing has been the chief sin of the American shipper.

Now is the time for the invasion of this rich field. Prices are low, and the people are waiting for us with open arms. They have learned by practical example that we are the friend of small States, and have no intention of invading their lands. The once despised Yankee has shown the world that he can and will fight for the independence of free States. The smoke screen of trickery has been blown away by our actions in world affairs. What once was regarded as a menace is proved to be a bulwark against any deprivation of Latin-American liberty. They trust us and want to do business with us. They need some money and a lot of our manufactured goods. They have to give large stores of raw material.

American business men planning doing business in Latin America should send agents who have a working knowledge of Spanish. This is vital. Working through an interpreter affronts the proud son of old Castile, in fact, completely gums up the whole deal. No time should be lost. There is the canal; there are plenty of ships coming and going. The Latin-Americans are waiting, hoping Americans will do business with them. Let's go.

BUSINESS NEWS

Investment Banker Plumbs Future and Finds It Sound; New Bank; Day in Review

BY CHAPIN HALL

James Sheldon Riley, vice-president of Drake, Riley & Thomas, investment bankers, has returned from a swing around the eastern financial centers with some definite ideas relative to the current trend of business in its country-wide application. To defines the chief of these as a quiet optimism as to the future.

General economic conditions, he says, are unquestionably shoring improvement, though this improvement is gradual and with no present indications that the pace will be greatly accelerated for some time to come.

The general trend of money rates, according to the Los Angeles observer, has been steadily downward, with some interruptions, for several months. This condition has applied not only to funds on call, but to time loans as well. "While I was in New York recently," said Mr. Riley yesterday, "there was a short period during which sixty to ninety-day money was obtainable at less than 4 per cent." Continuing, he said:

"Until industrial and financial rehabilitation has taken place in Europe, permitting a resumption of more nearly normal trade relations with this country, there will be small opportunity for broad expansion by our industries, and therefore limited inducements for the employment of funds in active enterprises.

"On this account, predictions are quite confidently made in certain well-informed investment banking circles, that this country is likely to witness a continued demand for securities in such volume as to assure for the next few years a very active market. It is further felt that despite the pressing need for financial assistance on the part of foreign governments, municipalities and industrial concerns, and the fact that because of this need their obligations will be made available for the American market as rapidly as the absorbing power of our investors is developed, nevertheless the price tendency of the better class of bonds of American origin will be a gradually rising one, with a corresponding decline in the net income available from them.

"It would therefore seem to behoove the average investor with surplus available at this time to fill his requirements while present rates prevail, lest through delay he find himself in a much less favorable position to buy, later on.

"Of course, the great opportunity of the bond buyer passed several months ago, never to return in all probability in this generation, but as compared with the markets of 1921 and 1922, present security prices would seem still to be on the bargain counter."

NEW BANK ANNOUNCED

State Superintendent of Banks Jonathan S. Dodge has granted to a group of petitioners permission to organize a new financial institution in South Pasadena under the name of the "Home Commercial and Savings Bank of South Pasadena." The capital of the bank will be $100,000, $50,000 of which is paid up.

The petitioners include such prominent South Pasadena merchants as F. M. Weaver, R. L. Mason, N. W. Randall, Phillip T. Dodson, H. E. Andrews and R. E. Daynes. Prominent in the organization proceedings is L. A. Norris, at present a State bank examiner, formerly cashier of a bank in Highland Park.

The new bank, which is to be strictly a South Pasadena enterprise, is an outgrowth of opposition to the recent deal whereby South Pasadena's two independent banks were merged into a single branch of the Security Trust and Savings Bank of Los Angeles.

Negotiations are under way for the building of a bank and office building on a site chosen but not announced. The new bank expects to open for business in the early fall.

BIG BRAZILIAN LOAN

Public offering was made yesterday of $25,000,000 United States of Brazil (Central Railway of Brazil electrification loan) thirty-year 7 per cent gold bonds dated June 1, 1922, at a price of 96½ and interest to yield about 7.30 per cent.

The offering syndicate is headed by Dillon, Read & Co., Lee Higginson & Co., Blair & Co., Continental and Commercial Trust and Savings Bank, White, Weld & Co., Halsey, Stuart & Co., Bonbright & Co., Illinois Trust Company, Union Trust Company of Pittsburg, Union Trust Company of Cleveland, the Bank of Italy, Cyrus Peirce & Co., Bond & Goodwin & Tucker, Inc.

The government covenants to make semiannual sinking fund payments sufficient to retire the entire loan by maturity. The bonds will be a direct obligation of the government of the United States of Brazil, specifically secured by a first charge on the gross revenues of the Central Railway of Brazil to an amount sufficient to provide the interest, sinking fund payments and principal of this loan.

The proceeds are to be used in part to electrify the suburban division of the Central Railway of Brazil, which is owned by the government, and is without bonded debt.

CERTIFIED GOATS

A certified goat dairy is to be a part of the activities of the Consumers' Milk Company, which is preparing to establish its enterprise in the Pacific Southwest in the near future.

According to O. R. Lee, president of the company, the plans call for the immediate installation of an 8000-gallon capacity plant to be located in Los Angeles.

The object of the new company is said to be the increasing of the milk supply and eliminating the existing expensive delivery system. It is also proposed to market a large percentage of its products through its own chain of stores. According to those interested in the company, it will operate independently of associations or other organizations.

NATIONAL SURETY

Announcement was made yesterday by the National Surety Company of the appointment of Rule & Co., Inc., as branch managers in Los Angeles, with Catesby C. Thom as managing underwriter. NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, June 5.—Offerings of market leaders frequently exceeded the buying power on the stock exchange today, these conflicting movements causing considerable uncertainty or unsettlement throughout the active session.

Cross currents were most pronounced among the popular oils, steels, rails and numerous miscellaneous stocks. Early declines of one to four points in such issues were balanced by gains of like extent but the forces of reaction were in control at the market's close. Sales amounted to 1,200,000 shares.

Incidents over the week-end, notably the publicity given to the promotion phases of the Republic Midvale Inland steel merger, and the extravagant speculation of pools in comparatively obscure specialties, provoked fresh short selling and liquidation for the long account.

These tendencies became more obvious in the last half of the trading periods on news that the Federal Trade Commission had taken steps to prevent the merger of the Bethlehem and Lackawanna steel companies.

Rumors then current in the financial district declared that action aiming at the abrogation of other projects of similar character would be taken by the Federal authorities.

United States Steel was the one promising feature among leaders, rising to a new high for two years at 1.03 1-4 in the final hour, but the so-called independents closed at net losses of 1 to 2 points, oils rallying moderately on the strength shown by Standard Oil of New Jersey. Lake Erie and Western committee again featured the apathetic rails at a four-point gain and Dupont was foremost among specialties, adding 6 3-8 points to last week's gain of almost 25 points.

Call money opened at 4 3-4 per cent, reflecting last week's expansion of clearing-house loans but the rate gradually eased to 3 1-2 per cent.

Conditions affecting time money were unaltered, most accommodations again being limited to thirty and sixty days at 4 1-4 per cent.

The high rate of the day for London demand exchange was 450 1-4 but that quotation was shaded later as buying diminished. All the allied quotations were firm and Dutch and Scandanavian bills recovered part of last week's reversal, but German marks were almost two points under their recent maximum.

THE COUNTRY OVER

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW ORLEANS, June 8.—Country merchants in this district are placing orders with jobbers of dry-goods here for fall delivery in larger quantities than at any time since the boom days of the World War. This is such a radical departure from recent methods that it is exciting comment. Merchants here attribute this buying movement to a realization on the part of the country trade that the south will not produce enough cotton to supply the needs of the world and that the merchants are trying to protect themselves against that contingency by buying cotton goods now.

The outside world apparently does not realize yet the seriousness of the situation confronting the country as far as future supplies of cotton are concerned. The country merchants here believe the government conditions report on cotton next Friday will show indications of supplies far below world needs.

Receding of flood waters and the improbability of further breaks in the levees has had the effect of stimulating business in the threatened districts.

CHICAGO, June 8.—Building has not been so brisk here in years as at the present time, despite the labor troubles growing out of the Landis award. The citizens' committee reports it has placed 2000 building trade mechanics this month, bringing the total up to 12,000 Landis award workers. Construction now being done entirely under the terms of that award, totals $63,000,000.

Many apartment-house owners voluntarily are reducing rentals as the number of vacant apartments increases. These reductions in many cases amount to about 10 per cent. On the other hand, rentals in the retail shipping districts are going up. One furnishing store signed a fifteen-year lease on a fifty-four foot frontage on State street for $225,000.

Retail business has slumped off somewhat this week, although there was a good volume of preholiday buying Monday. The formal opening of the country clubs on Memorial Day had the effect of stimulating demand for sports wear by both men and women.

PHILADELPHIA, June 8.—Financial and business reports just issued here indicate a marked change for the better. This change is apparent especialy in the increase in the number of buying orders for future delivery. This trend has finally taken the place of the hand-to-mouth buying policy so long in evidence in this region. Industries that did little business the first four months of the year now have a satisfactory volume of orders on their books, and those that did fairly well in the early months of the year are working at capacity now.

The revival of construction activity has stimulated steel making and the factor of the miners strike has tended to increase buying, as steel consumers have placed orders in advance fearing that they might not been able to obtain the material they wish if they delayed. The reduction in ore freight rates, July 1, is expected to act as a price stabiliser for steel, and as consumers after that time will realise there is little likelihood of further price reductions demand probably will be stimulated. As capacity was increased about 30 per cent during the war, steel plants now running at 70 per cent have a present output and equal to 100 per cent production in pre-war days.

FOREIGNERS FILL GOTHAM

High Birth Rate of Europeans and so Few Children to Natives Creating Bad Condition

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, June 5.—Lacking vocal silencers for the 134,000 babies born in New York City each year and exercising their lung power in twenty-four different tongues, Health Commissioner Copeland today told the State Federation of Music Clubs "these discordant noises must be drowned out by music."

Delegates to the convention were mostly feminine and Commissioner Copeland utilized the occasion to voice his fears about race suicide along Fifth avenue and Park avenue.

BIRTH RATES OF RICH

"I am worried about the Four Hundred," he asserted. "The wealthiest people of New York have a birthrate of only seven to the 1000, while on the lower East Side the rate is fifty-seven to 1000. If it were not for the influx from outside cities, New York would be a metropolis of foreigners in ten years.

"London is 97 per cent English; Germany is 100 per cent German; Rome is 100 per cent Italian, and Paris is 100 per cent French," he declared, but in New York forty-two different languages are spoken by as many peoples."

Criticising the critics proved the popular number on the convention program. It resulted in a resolution, unanimously adopted calling on magazine and newspaper music columnists "to stick to the subject."

CRITICS TASTE OWN MEDICINE

"The modern critic often goes so far afield that his criticism reads more like a fashion review, or a physician's diagnosis, than an article on music," said Miss Caroline Lowe, secretary of the State federation.

"What difference does it make whether a singer is slender or obese; how she smiles, walks and bows; or from which side of her mouth she sings? It's her voice the public should be told about."

Mme. Edna E. Farron, president of the federation, announced that a campaign would be inaugurated to get music into the factories, so workers in brickyards, on railroad locomotives, in boiler works and machine shops may work to the rhythm of melody.

Then she predicted our country "will briskly step into its daily tasks and efficiency and happiness will follow."

ACCUSE STOKES IN COURT

Statement Made on Stand Regarding Former Wife and Dr. Grant Is Stricken From Record

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, June 5.—W. E. D. Stokes was accused today of maliciously trying to besmirch the reputation of Mrs. Lydig, his former wife. He had just testified that $5000 a month which she had been receiving from W. K. Vanderbilt had stopped with Mr. Vanderbilt's death and that he was therefore anxious to help her and the Rev. Percy Stickney Grant carry out their desire to wed.

"Percy Grant had given her a house," said Mr. Stokes, "and she and Percy Grant were living at Bedford Hills."

"Your Honor," protested Samuel Untermyer, chief counsel for Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes, springing to his feet, "I move that that statement be stricken out. If this man is not stopped he will drag everybody on earth into the mud."

"Let the witness complete his answer," was the rejoinder of Justice Finch, but when the statement had been concluded he granted the motion.

Mr. Stokes, millionaire owner of the Hotel Ansonia, had taken the witness stand before Justice Finch in the Supreme Court at the continuation of the hearing in Mrs. Stokes's application for permanent alimony of $75,000 a year in his suit for a separation.

Resuming his testimony, Mr. Stokes said: "She appealed to me for the sake of her son (this was Weddie Stokes, to whom Mr. Stokes referred,) to help her get $25,000 to pay Dr. Grant and pay for the improvements she had made on the house in Dr. Grant's name. I told her I would go the limit so that she could marry Dr. Grant, and this talk about her and Dr. Grant should stop. So I tried to sell the property on the northwest corner of Eighty-sixth street and West End avenue. I tried my best to arrange the sale, but the title company would not pass the title until after the equity case was decided. So the matter was dropped."

A repetition by Mr. Untermyer of his motion that Mr. Stokes's statement be stricken out as maliciously false brought the retort from Mr. Gainsburg, Stokes's lawyer, that he would prove it was not false. He asserted that Mrs. Lydig, in the former case, refused to take the witness stand because she feared to face questions, "knowing what would be produced against her."

It was not brought out why Mr. Vanderbilt had been giving Mrs. Lydig $5000 a month, but the existence of a contract calling for that sum "for life" was undisputed.

Harding's Kin Among Guests on Harbor Tour

Dr. G. T. Harding of Columbus, O., brother of President Harding, Mrs. E. E. Remsberg of Santa Ana and Mrs. Frank Briggs of Oakland, sisters of the President, were among the guests entertained at Los Angeles Harbor yesterday by E. E. Remsberg, local representative of the United States Shipping Board and brother-in-law of the Chief Executive.

Others in the party were George T. Harding II, son of Dr. Harding; Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Briggs of Santa Ana, Miss Kathryn Thomas of Hollywood, Dr. Riley Russell of Glendale and Miss Katherine Remsberg of Santa Ana, daughter of the Shipping Board official.

The visitors were shown about the harbor in a launch under the guidance of W. H. Wickersham, local shipping broker. A visit was paid to the battleship Connecticut, flagship of Rear-Admiral J. V. Chase, and later the party inspected the defenses at Fort MacArthur.

Dr. G. T. Harding is proprietor of a sanatorium at Worthington, O.

MRS. CHARLES SINGER IS DEAD IN FRANCE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, June 5.—Word was received today of the death in Cannes, France, of Mrs. Charles J. Singer, formerly Florence Palmer of Chicago. She was the widow of the former sewing machine magnate.

With her death the bulk of her fortune, estimated before the war at about $1,000,000, passes to her daughter, Princess Ghika, once Hazel Singer of Chicago. Under the terms of her father's will, the Princess was to receive nothing until her mother's death, when she was to be given the income from 60 per cent of the estate, 40 per cent going to her brother, Sidney Kent Singer.

The death of Mrs. Singer recalls the romantic career of the Princess and her marriage at the age of 19 to Prince Jean Ghika, scion of an ancient Rumanian family. The Princess dazzled Europe by her magnificent gowns, and for a while after the Balkan war it looked as if she might be made Queen of Albania. Three princes of the Ghika family contended for the throne, which finally went to Prince William of Wied.

BAN TALKS AT BANQUET TO ROTARY

[BY TIMES STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

PASADENA, June 5.—Rotarians introduced Pasadena to a genuine novelty tonight—a banquet without speeches. President Crawford C. McCully, when the 500 diners had finished, contented himself with introducing a few of the Rotarians who had come the farthest to the convention.

Then followed operatic selections by Rotarian C. F. Bulotti of San Francisco, a reception by the international officers and bit of entertainment by John S. McGroarty and a company from the "Mission Play."

Those at the head table with the president were the vice-presidents, Ralph W. Cummings, William Cappock, H. V. Luther Stark, the secretary-general, Chesley Perry, the treasurer-general, Rufus Chapin, and the international sergeant-at-arms, George Harris.

The banquet was done in the Hotel Maryland's best style. The palm room in which it was held was filled with the Rotary colors in flowers of all sorts and a profusion of roses. Pasadena Rotary Club, excluded from the international festivities, held a companion dinner in the main dining-room with other Rotarians quartered at local hotels.

Those introduced by President McCully were Prof. W. A. Osborne of Melbourne, Australia, Garm Golanda of Mexico City, Charles Hunt of St. John's, N. F., Charles E. Ewald of Buenos Aires, Dr. Fong E. Sec of Shanghai, China, Herbert P. Coates of Montevideo, Uruguay, Marcel Frank of Paris, Alexander Wilke of Edinburgh, Harvey Chadewich of London, Mario Munes of Cuba, Muir Simpson of Glasgow, D. S. Jones of Cardiff, Wales, and William McConnell of Dublin, the latter president of the British Association of Rotary Clubs.

HEALTH BOARD CALLED

Resignation of Director Slated for Discussion

The California Board of Health will meet in Sacramento Thursday, it was made known yesterday, to consider the resignation of Dr. Ethel M. Watters, present director of child hygiene of the State board. Recommendations by the State Board of Control that Dr. Watters and Miss Mary K. Cleary, public health nurse, be dismissed, "for the good of the service," will also, it is said, be taken up on this occasion.

No successor to the post now occupied by Dr. Watters has yet been determined upon, according to report, although several names are under consideration.

REHEARING REQUESTED

SAN FRANCISCO, June 5.—An application for a rehearing of the District Court of Appeals' decision upholding the sentence and conviction of Miss Charlotte Anita Whitney, Oakland clubwoman, on a charge of criminal syndicalism was filed today in the State Supreme Court.

DELICATE TASK FOR PRESIDENT

Who Gets His Soup First, Major General or Rear Admiral?

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, June 5.—From Hawaii has come a request that President Harding determine once for all whether a Major-General or a Rear-Admiral shall come first in a receiving line and which shall sit at the head of the table. This question has been raised in the case of Maj.-Gen. Charles P. Summerall, commanding the American troops in Hawaii, and Rear-Admiral Edwin Simpson, commandant of the naval base there. According to Army and Navy regulations the ranks of Major-General of the Army and Rear-Admiral of the Navy correspond, and so the problem would appear to be in deadlock.

THRILL STUFF AT GRAUMAN THEATER

Lots of excitement this week at Grauman's. A good mystery story, some high-power crystal-gazing, much oriental incense smoke, and a real live tiger. They all go with "For the Defense," the picture feature, starring Ethel Clayton, which is on view. The bill is one of the most effective recently presented.

First of all—the photoplay. Elmer E. Rice, author of "On Trial," wrote it, and Paul Powell directed. If you don't guess too hard or too often you won't solve the plot too soon to enjoy the denouement.

The acting is the most convincing we've seen in some time in a mystery photoplay. The cast throughout is above par. Mostly the honors belong to Miss Clayton and Zasu Pitts, but some may be distributed among the others like Maym Kelso and Bertram Grassby. One objects only to a trifle too much of the melodrama-ing by Grassby.

Zasu is perfectly delightful, however. She always has been a winner for typa, and in "For the Defense" she does some brainy acting. All of her scenes seem to register vividly.

Miss Clayton's infallible grace and spiritual charm shine in her role, though it is not one of very terrific demands. She plays it with grace and as always distinction.

The prologue, in which Grassby does some clever mystic stuff, is one of the most exotic Grauman has staged in some time. The only thing that worried us at all was the tiger's rather impertinent interest in the drapes of the dancer. We must admit, however, that his presence was somewhat stimulating.

One can see an excuse for a prologue such as this, because it is really atmospheric. The applause was a tribute.

Not the least entertaining item on the program is a Mack Sennett comedy, "Be Reasonable." This moves along at a smart pace, with many snappy situations and good gags.

COMEDIENNE SCORES IN BURBANK REVUE

Chalk up one for Billie Moody who ran away with the honors in the latest Hi Jinks musical production, "He, Him and Her" at the Burbank Theater. Admirably seconded by Henry Shery, Hebrew comic of the organization, Miss Moody kept her audiences in a constant uproar.

"He, Him and Her" is so utterly foolish that one does not question its plausibility. What if the erring husband did spend a million bucks on a new flame? What if he spent another million on the second fair charmer? What if wife did discover him and send him to an isolated farm for six months, where she proved that life with one's own wife is not a punishment? Burbank audiences knew all the time that hubby rather preferred six months anywhere than on that lonely farm, where wife made his hours seem like years.

The production, in several scenes, is elaborate, and while possessed of a plot, borders on the revue type of show, with the Hi Jinks Company of seventy-five in perpetual musical motion.

MURTAGH PLEASES

Morning Concert

Organ Solos Effective as Grauman's

Henry Murtagh's organ selections, given in conjunction with the "discovery" program on Sunday morning at Grauman's, were, as usual, gems of musicianship and flawless technically. His opening offering, the finale from the first act of Mascagni's "Cavalliarit," had breadth and beauty. Dvorak's "Humoresque" was offered with delightful registration of color and dynamics.

The violin playing by Rene Hemert and Victor Young was as notable as any heard in Los Angeles. These two artists played the Bach Double Concerto for violins with breadth, scope and sincere feeling. Contrasting with this classic offering was the rendition of ten musicians from the jazz contingent of Grauman's Orchestra.

MISS IRENE HARDY

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PALO ALTO, June 5.—Miss Irene Hardy, 31, a member of the first faculty of Stanford University, died at her home here today after a brief illness. She had been blind for fifteen years, eye trouble having caused her retirement from Stanford. She wrote a number of poems for western magazines.

BRITISH HEAD TO ERIN AGAIN

Unionist territory of all invaders may be summarized as follows: Lloyd George is delaying his return to Downing street probably until Thursday instead of tonight. Arthur Griffith is coming to London from Dublin tomorrow. The Irish provisional government's constitution has been revised, conforming to the British Cabinet's objections of last week. De Valera is abandoning his warlike attitude and is urging a peaceable and orderly government, warning against discord and turmoil.

LEADERS CHANGED

The Sinn Fein leaders' transformation from belligerency to peacefulness is expected to have a salutary effect on the big portion of the Republican irregulars, most of whom have been actuated by fanaticism and blind faith in De Valera.

The occupation of the frontier by British forces in strength, with solid reserves behind, is expected to bring about a collapse of the Republican secret plans for sweeping over the border and overrunning Unionist territory some time before the Free State elections. Field Marshal Wilson learned of the Sinn Fein project, and it was largely due to him that Sir James Craig and Lord Londonderry came to London last week to demand British support, and that Mr. Churchill and Sir Laming Worthington Evans accepted the scheme.

The British military preparations to prevent a coup d'etat in Ireland are continuing, new battalions being ordered to Ireland. The officers and crews of warships at Chatham have been forbidden to leave port and told to hold themselves in readiness for departure at a moment's notice.

REOCCUPY BELLEEK

BELFAST, June 5.—British troops have reoccupied Belleek, which yesterday was reported surrounded. Headquarters announce that the crown forces dominate the disputed Fermanagh triangle with the Ulster line. The recapture of Pettigo was conducted by two forces, with a brigadier-general commanding. One contingent approached by the shore of Lough Erne and the other landed from boats and marched to the rear of the Sinn Fein garrisons. After a staff officer gave the Sinn Feiners fifteen minutes to evacuate many departed, but 100 remained.

The infantry advanced, supported by artillery. A machine gun battle followed, but the artillery soon scattered the Sinn Feiners. The retreat of the dazed Sinn Feiners was cut off by a force in their rear. The Republicans left seven dead and sixteen prisoners, including the commandant of the area.

The remainder escaped through bypaths. The Sinn Feiners defended Pettigo behind a trench and a rampart of barrels. They experienced artillery fire for the first time in the border warfare.

The military has reinforced the police in Fermanagh and Tyrone counties and in Londonderry town. The Fermanagh triangle recovered is largely separated by water from the Ulster bases and is inconvenient to hold, but the military decided to regain it for the moral effect, and also because, they allege, the Sinn Feiners attempted a further advance.

ARMS ABOARD

DUBLIN, June 5.—The steamer Seattle Spirit, owned by the Moore, McCormick Company, enroute from New York to Fenis, County Kerry, was searched by a British sloop in Tralee Bay yesterday and a large quantity of ammunition was found and seized.

Tomorrow is nomination day for the elections to the new Dail Eireann in accordance with the Collins-De Valera pact, and both leaders in a joint statement this evening called upon their constituencies to return the candidates recommended by the coalition.

They appealed to candidates of other parties not to run in the interest of the nation.

COURT SPIKES UNIONS' GUNS

or had ratified it by paying any of the expenses, the court concluded that the international union and its officers "should not be held by the trial court as subject to the joint liability with the district and local organizations and officers for participation in the conspiracy and for the destruction of property incident to the strike."

The authority placed by members of district No. 21 in their officers to order a strike, it was held, made the district organization responsible for any unlawful injuries inflicted during the conduct of the strike and made the fund accumulated for strike purposes by the district subject to the payment of any judgment which is recovered.

Plan Reception For Masons of Pennsylvania

Executives of the fifteen Masonic clubs of the city met in the assembly rooms of The Times last evening and completed arrangements for the reception and entertainment of a special train of Pennsylvania Masons and their wives due in Los Angeles on the 15th inst.

The train is to be met near California border by a committee from the Masonic clubs of the city. At Riverside the visitors will be met by an additional committee who will be their guides while in Los Angeles.

A sight-seeing pilgrimage in and around Los Angeles has been planned, including a visit through one of the large moving-picture studios and a trip to the beaches.

Special Masonic ceremonies have been planned with the Silver Trowel Lodge for Monday morning and an elaborate reception and ball is planned for the evening at the exposition Park Armory.

TEXAS EDITOR WILL SEEK GOVERNORSHIP

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PARIS (Tex.) June 5.—Harry T. Warner, editor of the Paris Morning News, announced today that he would become a Democratic candidate for Governor subject to the primary in July. He said he "regretted that some strong man" would not make the race against Gov. Neff, who is standing for re-election.

CLEAR WAY FOR RIVER PROJECT

Supreme Court Untangles Colorado Problems

Believed Decision Will Make Agreement Possible

Priority of Appropriation Will Govern

BY ROBERT B. ARMSTRONG

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, June 5.—The deadlock over the power and water appropriation of the Colorado River between the States was smashed today by the Supreme Court of the United States. The decision clears the way for an agreement between the seven States and the United States composing the Colorado River Commission.

The next meeting is scheduled for Santa Fe, N. M., August 1, and there it is believed that a basis of distribution of power and water rights can be agreed upon which will be satisfactory to all the States and the Federal government and result in the speedy development of the great river for flood control, irrigation and power development.

OLD QUESTIONS SETTLED

In its decision in the famous Wyoming-Colorado suit to test the rights of Wyoming to power rights in the Colorado River, through its feeders, the court decided elemental questions of law which have been in controversy for years and which until cleared by the judgment of the highest court in the land prevented early and easy agreement between the States interested and the Federal government in reaching a distribution basis for the water and power rights of the great Colorado.

RIGHTS OF PRIORITY

The Supreme Court found:

First—That as between two States recognizing the law of water-power appropriation, prior appropriation in point of time governs. In other words, whichever State first appropriated power rights of the water flowing through two or more States recognizing the law of power appropriation had the senior and prior right to such power.

Second—That all power rights on such a river as the Colorado not yet appropriated by the respective States remain within the Federal power and jurisdiction.

Third—The contention of Colorado that it as a State was entitled to all the power and water that fell within the State and found its way into the river was untenable, and therefore disallowed by the court.

Fourth—The contention of Colorado that the productivity of the acre in Colorado with the use of acre feet of water was greater than an acre of land under the same conditions in Wyoming was found by the court to be without merit and was disallowed on the ground that the citizens of Wyoming were allowed in law the same right to production per acre as in Colorado, and the contention of better use on the part of colorado would not be fair in the distribution of water.

RELIEVE WAY CLEARED

As all seven of the States in the Colorado River Commission adhere to the law of appropriation of power rights, it is believed by those best informed on the problem of the Colorado River that this decision will pave the way for an agreement as between the States and the Federal government to the share of each in the water of the Colorado River, and will result in an early movement for a unified and aggressive development of the great natural resources of the stream on the threefold basis:

First, conservation of flood water and the prevention of flood damage by proper controls and storage; second, the allocation of water for irrigation of vast acreage in the different States on a mutually agreed basis; third, a concrete and unified system of power development with each of the seven States, and the Federal government, all secured by allocated minimum and maximum amounts of power on a sliding scale as the development of power progresses.

No decision of the Supreme Court on the water-power development of the West is more far-reaching than the decision today, and if it is correctly interpreted by the power and water experts in Washington, it means that the development of the Colorado River is vastly advanced in time and simplified beyond calculation.

S. S. S. Fills Out Hollow Cheeks, Thin Limbs!

Men and women—whether you will ever build yourself up to your normal, best-right weight depends on the number of blood-cells in your blood. That's all there is to it. It's a scientific fact. If your blood-cell factory isn't working right, you will be run-down, thin, your blood will be in disorder, and perhaps your face will be broken out with pimples, blackheads and eruptions. S. S. S. keeps your blood-cell factory working full time. It helps build new blood-cells. That's why S. S. S. builds up thin, run-down people. It puts fine flesh on your bones, it rounds out your face, arms, neck, limbs, the whole body. It puts the "pink" in your cheeks. It takes the hollowness from the eyes, and it feels Father Time by smoothing out wrinkles in men and women, by "plumping" them up. S. S. S. is a remarkable blood-purifier. While you are putting plump, your skin eruptions, pimples, blackheads, acne, rheumatism, rash, tetter, blotches are being removed. The medicinal ingredients of S. S. S. are guaranteed purely vegetable. S. S. S. is sold at all drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is the more economical.—Advertisement

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Steps to prevent the consummation of the merger of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation and the Lackawanna Steel Company were taken today by the Federal Trade Commission.

A formal complaint was issued by the commission declaring that the proposed merger constitutes an unfair method of competition in that it tends unduly to hinder competition and to restrain trade and commerce.

A hearing on the complaint was set for July 24. If after a hearing the commission sustains the complaint, a formal order to cease and desist will be issued from which the steel companies would have an appeal through proceedings in the United States Court of Appeals.

The commission has taken no action as yet in the case of the proposed merger of the Midvale Steel and Ordnance Company, the Republic Iron and Steel Company and the Inland Steel Company. It is the expectation that a similar complaint will be issued against these companies as soon as the commission obtains the complete facts upon which to base it.

Announcement of the issuance of a complaint against the Bethlehem Steel Corporation and the Lackawanna Steel Company was contained in a letter transmitted by the commission to the Senate in response to the La Follette resolution calling upon the commission and the Attorney-General for information as to what steps the government proposes to take with reference to the proposed mergers.

CANADIAN DELAY ON WATERWAY PROJECT

DOMINION NOT READY TO DEAL WITH AMERICA ON TREATY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, June 5.—The door to future negotiations looking to completion of the St. Lawrence waterway project is left open in the reply of the Canadian government to the proposal of Secretary of State Hughes that a treaty covering this project be negotiated. Canada is not prepared to deal with the matter at this time, however, because there has been no opportunity for the Dominion government to give proper consideration to the reports of the joint commission and the board of engineers upon the subject as previously disclosed in Premier MacKenzie King's telegram to the Chicago Tribune.

The facts were officially made known today when the State Department made public the reply of Sir Auckland Geddes, the British Ambassador here, to the communication forwarded by Secretary Hughes to the Dominion government through Ambassador Geddes on May 17.

The Canadian authorities, Ambassador Geddes said, had advised the Governor-General of Canada that they had not had opportunity to give the matter "that careful consideration which its importance merited." In view of the large amount of public money necessary to complete such a project the Dominion government was not inclined to take hasty action."

MAKE ARREST IN WAR FRAUD

Lumber Deal Shortage is Warrant Charge

Accused Man Declares Politics Reason

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, June 5.—John Lewis Phillips, chairman of the Republican State Committee of Georgia and recognized by the administration as leader of his party in that State, was arrested here today and released in $25,000 bail under a charge of defrauding the government in connection with the disposal of surplus lumber purchased during the war. He pleaded not guilty to the charge.

His is the first arrest since the formation of the war contracts division of the Department of Justice and his arraignment today before U. S. Commissioner Hitt was independent of the extra Federal grand jury's investigation of the lumber case, out of which no indictment has been returned. It is understood that Phillips's presence outside the grand jury room last week hastened the move of the Department of Justice in his case.

Learning that a warrant had been issued for his arrest, Phillips today returned from Philadelphia, where he had been spending the week-end, and was taken into custody by a United States marshal. Subsequent to his release under bail, Phillips expressed indignation over his arrest, ascribing it to "politics" and that the Department of Justice has made him a scapegoat in order to create the impression that it is proceeding in its war-contract investigation in a nonpartisan spirit.

In the government's affidavit, upon which the warrant was issued, Phillips, as partner with John Stephens in the lumber firm of Phillips and Stephens of Atlanta was charged with having entered into fraudulent agreements to dispose of government lumber at less than market prices, to accept rebates and commissions from purchasers and to bribe government officials.

LOSS $1,000,000

Phillips and Stephens, it was alleged, were recognized by the War Department as representatives of the lumber industry and were authorized to dispose of 100,000,000 feet of board lumber through the trade and in a manner best serving the lumber industry and the interests of the United States. It is charged that Phillips disposed of this material at under-market prices, in which more than $1,000,000 was lost to the government.

According to reports of War Department auditors inserted in the Congressional Record April 11 by Representative Woodruff at the time he presented his resolution for a Congressional inquiry of war contracts, the value of lumber turned over to Phillips and Stephens by the government was $4,697,171, for which only $2,843,095 was paid, which resulted in a loss to the government of $1,854,076.

Asst. Atty.-Gen. John W. H. Crim represented the government at Phillips's arraignment while the affidavit upon which the warrant was issued was signed by Marcus Borchardt, special assistant to the Attorney-General.

The fight for a Congressional investigation of the Attorney-General's failure to prosecute war grafters will be renewed in the House tomorrow. Representative Johnson, Republican, ex-service man, let it be known he would take the floor tomorrow and demand recognition to make a privileged motion discharging the Rules Committee from further consideration of the Johnson-Woodruff resolution creating a select committee to investigate the laxity of the Department of Justice.

LELAND STANFORD GRADUATE WAS MURDERED BY REBELS IN INDIA

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BOSTON, June 5.—Forty-six missionaries were among the ninety-one passengers arriving tonight from Bombay on the Ellerman-Bucknall liner City of Benares. Included in this list was Mrs. William F. Doherty, whose husband graduated from Leland Stanford University, was murdered in Bombay on November 19, on the occasion of the visit there of the Prince of Wales.

The murder was committed on the night of a ball given in honor of the Prince of Wales, Mr. Doherty, being set upon by 500 natives infuriated by the presence of white men. He beat off this mob for fifteen minutes until attacked at close quarters with long knives, with which his eyes were slashed out, and his skull pierced. The Gandhi afterwards told Mrs. Doherty that he never would have been killed had he made himself known as an American. The widow will return to Bombay where she is managing her late husband's business, after visiting in Los Angeles.

Supreme Court Makes no Rule on Ouija Board

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, June 5.—The Supreme Court today announced it would not determine what is a ouija board.

The question was presented in a case brought by the Baltimore Talking Board Company, which protested against taxation of such boards as sporting goods, and insisted that should the court refuse to hold that the board "is a grade of motor automatism, involving considerable subconscious action of intelligence" that it should at least classify the smaller boards as "children's toys."

The lower Federal courts sustained the government's contention that the boards should be classed as sporting goods.

BAY CITY CHAMBER OF COMMERCE RESENTS COURT DECREE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 5.—The San Francisco Chamber of Commerce has appointed a State-wide committee of fifty representative men to deal with any unfavorable conditions that may result to the State from the separation of the Southern Pacific and the Central Pacific railroads under a recent United States Supreme Court decree, it was announced today.

Wallace M. Alexander, San Francisco commission merchant, was named chairman of the committee. Other cities represented on the committee are Fresno, San Jose, Stockton, Sacramento and Oakland.

"This organization," said a statement, "is considering the serious situation now confronting California as a result of the court decree and is seeking means of so reconciling it with the urgent traffic demands of this State that the two properties may be lawfully operated as one, as they have been for more than fifty years."

YACHTS ON WAY HERE FOR RACES

Fastest and Smartest of Coast Yachts and Speed Boats Will Perform

More than 300 of the Pacific Coast's smartest yachts and speed boats will make Newport Harbor their rendezvous in August for the regatta of the Southern California Yachting Association.

A tanted city will be built, adjoining the clubhouse of the Newport Harbor Yacht Club to take care of the thousand yachtsmen who accompany the racing craft. From San Francisco and Vancouver, from Portland and the waters of Puget Sound they will come—"R" boats and gasoline speedsters and tiny sea-mew sloops and whatnot.

RE-AFFAIR PLANNED

"It's to be a regular he-yachting regatta, with all classes of boats racing for honors," declared Albert Solland, admiral of the yachting association, yesterday. Accompanied by Joseph A. Beek, port captain of the Newport Harbor Yacht Club, and Claude G. Putnam, port commander of the association, he inspected the bay Sunday to lay definite plans for the maneuvering and anchoring of the vast fleet which will assemble on August 6. The regatta will last until August 13.

Considerable preparation is necessary to take care of the hundreds of boats which will enter the bay for "the greatest regatta the Pacific Coast has ever known," as local yachtsmen expect this affair to be. The harbor is being improved, and Balboa is busy getting ready for the reception of the visiting thousands. The annual tournament of lights staged by the Chamber of Commerce of the seacoast city, is to be given at the same time.

The work of preparing for the influx of sea sportsmen is being directed by an executive committee, appointed by Commodore Frank Smith and headed by Admiral Solland. The management of the racing program will be in the hands of Paul Jeffries, who is already receiving donations of silver cups and other prizes from merchants and individuals of the Southland.

Among the craft which will seek anchorage in Newport Harbor during regatta week will be two class R boats owned by Ted Geary of Seattle, one R boat from San Francisco, and another of the same type from Vancouver. The little sixteen-foot racing sloops will be there, too, as well as numerous speed craft of from 300 to 1200 cubic inch displacement, which will shoot over the waters of the bay in an effort to establish some new world records.

CHUMMY SNAKE TOO FAITHFUL

Arizona Citizen Forced to Kill Friend

Appreciative Rattler Warmed in His Fire

Insists on Kissing Samaritan for Good Deed

BY ROBERT S. DOMAN
[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

OATMAN (Ariz.) June 4.—"I ain't afraid of gila monsters, chuckawallas, vinagrones, tarantulas, peckawallas or Hualapai tigers," says "Rattlesnake Charlie" (Charles A.) Dix. "And dickdicks, wombats, whiffenpoofs, oofty-goofties, spoofendyke and wampuses is all alike to me. But I do detest a grateful rattlesnake."

Mr. Dix has just arrived in Oatman for a bath. He has been out in the hills all winter. Mr. Dix, who makes a living collecting rattlesnakes for eastern and foreign zoos and the circuses which winter in Arizona, says that the coming summer will be the "best" for rattlers in many years. When asked to explain what he meant by a "grateful rattlesnake," Mr. Dix said:

IT WAS SURE COLD

"Most folks in these Oatman gold mountains thinks a rattler is the worst poison there be. But they don't know snake nature. Last winter during the cold spell when the thermometer up in them cold Arizony hills went away down to 14 or 85 degrees above zero I accidentally picked up a rattler. He was frozen stiff. Thinkin' he was a branch of ocotillo bush I cracked him across my knee and threw him in two pieces on the fire.

"Well, sir, the fire sort of revivicated him. Both his ends began to wiggle about. I seen my mistake and decided to do what I could to make life worth while for that snake. He sure was disorganized. Didn't know whether he was comin' or goin'. Acted as if he was half full of wood alcohol mixed with gelatine eighty.

THE GLUE STUCK

"To make a long story short, I took them two parts, stuck 'em together with some glue and then threw the rattler out in the cold to jellify. Next morning he was frozen stiff again, but the glue had set fine. So I threw him in the fire again to thaw him out.

"For the next two weeks that rattler followed me around just like a dog. He would look up at me appealin' like and then rise up on his tail and purr. There was a look in his eyes like a dog askin' for a piece of pork sausage.

"Then in one bitter cold spell a weather when the temperature dropped away down to 75 above zero I got a touch of room-matism. Every morning it kept gettin' worse and worser. Finally one morning I couldn't get up at all. Edgar—that's what I named him—he seemed worried. Seemed as if he just knew something was was wrong with me and it seemed to trouble him terrible.

"He looked so sad and yet at the same time so thankful-like that although I'm a hard-hearted cuss my eyes was just swimmin' in tears. I guess he saw how sympathetic we were to each other, for by golly if the poor old feller at last didn't stick out his two cute little tongues. He was lonesome, he was. And all of a sudden I realized what he was tryin' to do. He was tryin' to kiss me.

"I don't like to see any one in sorrow. And rather than have that poor feller goin' through life grievin' his heart out because he couldn't do something to repay me for patchin' him together, I took a took a rock and smashed his head in. Yes, sir, I sure hated to do it to the poor old feller. I guess I was the only friend he ever had. But a grateful rattler sure does get to be a nuisance after a while."

A HOLIDAY RUINED

The sort of relations that are more proverbial than typical existed between Mike O'Halloran and his wife's mother. When Mrs. O'Halloran passed in her earthly report and the funeral arrangements were in process of making, Mike was told he had been scheduled to ride in the same carriage with his mother-in-law.

"What! I'll be doing nothing of the kind! I'll ride somewhere else!"

"No, that wouldn't look well, and besides that, your wife's last request was that you two ride together to her funeral."

"Well," said Mike, "if Mary requisted it, av course I'll do it. But I give ye fair warnin'—it'll simply take all th' pleasure out av th' day f'r me!"

ASKS BALM OF PARENTS OF HUSBAND

Former Pasadena Matron Charges Alienation of Affections by Threats

Mrs. Beatrice Marsh, formerly of Pasadena, yesterday filed an action in the Superior Court, charging that the affections of her husband, R. S. Marsh, have been alienated by his parents, Samual S. and Agnes Marsh. She demands $50,000 of them.

Mrs. Marsh charges that her husband took their 22-months-old son and went to Wichita, Kan., and that he was accompanied by his mother. She says her husband's father refused to tell her where they had gone.

She states that her husband filed an action for divorce in the Kansas courts, asking for the custody of their child, but that she was awarded his custody, whereupon it is asserted her husband, at the instance of his parents, offered her a sum of money if she would permit his father and mother to adopt the child and permit him to obtain a divorce.

He is said to have told her that otherwise his parents would disinherit him and the child would lose his right to the estate. She refused.

Then, she recites, he proposed that they go to California and a reconciliation was effected, but he left her again, she charges, while under control of his parents.

Mrs. Marsh is represented by Attorneys Dunham and Thompson.

OFFICIALS OF VENICE ARE OUSTED

Recorder and Attorney Dismissed by Trustees at Night Meeting

[BY TIMES STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

VENICE, June 5.—City Recorder P. L. Budinger, also police judge, and City Attorney T. J. K. McGowen were dismissed from office tonight by the Venice Board of Trustees. At the same time the board replaced A. K. Hancock and State Senator Charles W. Lyon, who had held these positions until shortly after the election of April 10.

The dismissal of Messrs. Budinger and McGowen came as a surprise to those attending tonight's meeting. The deliberations had droned along about as usual—first, the reading of the minutes, then the consideration of a zoning amendment and other city business. At length—

"I move that the office of City Recorder be declared vacant," snapped Trustee Harrah. He was seconded by Trustee Holbrook, who has continually stuck by him in the voting to form a loyal minority.

But this time there was an unlooked-for change in the balloting. Mayor Gerety, who had always sided with Trustees Church and Lutz, swung his vote to the other side—and Budinger was out of a job. An instant later, after a motion by Holbrook and a second by Harrah, McGowen left the ranks of Venice employees.

No reason was given for the dismissals.

Wife's Divorce Papers Assert Death Threat

Instead of bidding farewell to the world as had been suggested by her husband, Mrs. Gretchen A. Geriowski said good-by to Michael L. Geriowski and sued for divorce. In the complaint filed yesterday in the Superior Court, Mrs. Gerlowski charges that her husband threatened her life after telling her to "kiss the world good-by."

The complaint states that Mr. Geriowski held a knife over the wife's head and announced that he was about to kill her. On another occasion, it is stated, he threatened her with a gun. Frustrated, a third time he turned on the gas hoping to end the lives of both, she declared.

Woolwine Case Not Considered by Grand Jury

No official action was taken by the grand jury yesterday on the request of the County Civil Service Commission that it investigate the charges and counter-charges involving asserted improper relations between Dist.-Atty. Woolwine and Ida Wright Jones, discharged investigator of juvenile cases for Mr. Woolwine. Members of the grand jury indicated that the request had not been formally discussed in their sessions.

Mr. Woolwine declined to comment on the situation, other than to deny reports that he had appeared before the inquisitorial body to make a statement of his side of the controversy.

THIEVES TAKE WATER WAGON

Peculiar Theft Reported: 'Twas a Pretty One, Too

Somebody has stolen the water wagon!

To climb aboard the water wagon is a noble deed, but to steal it—that's a dastardly act. However, the theft is so recorded at Central Police Station. The aqueous throne was hauled away through the cloak of darkness early yesterday morning.

The theft was reported late yesterday by David Barry & Co., 1125 Van Nuys Building. It was such a prettily painted wagon, gray and red, with an ample seating capacity, horse-drawn and with shining iron wheels. Formerly it graced the highway at Wilshire Boulevard and Highland avenue. Nothing is to be found there now but sweet memories.

SHRINERS' CARAVAN DUE TODAY

First Transcontinental Auto Party Will Roll in at Noon from Capital

After thirty-seven days on the road, the first Shrine transcontinental auto caravan will arrive in Los Angeles today piloted from the California line by scouts from the Auto Club of Southern California.

This is one of the greatest triumphs for cross-continental highway travel to Southern California, according to club officials, in that it sets at rest all rumors as to the perils of driving across America to the west coast which have been circulated during the winter in the East.

Hundreds of additional auto parties are following the official caravan which rolls into Los Angeles at noon today, bringing shriners from all parts of the country over the National Old Trails highway through this city on their way to the convention at San Francisco.

The leading caravan is in charge of Bernard S. McMahan, who left Washington with the party on May 1, planning to cross the California State line June 4. This feat was accomplished without a hitch.

Yesterday the party arrived in Barstow for an all-night stop before proceeding into Los Angeles today.

ROBIN HOOD PRESENTED BY COLLEGE

WHITTIER, June 5.—"Sherwood," the romantic story of Robin Hood, the senior class play of Whittier College, will be presented today.

H. E. Harris, professor of English literature at the college, is directing the play and has developed unusual talent among a number of the players.

Robin Hood, the male lead, is successfully portrayed by Samuel J. Walker, and the opposite lead Maid Marian, is taken by Miss Margaret Newsom. Prof. Howard L. Hockett, head of the department of vocal music at the college, takes the part of Blondel, King Richard's minstrel. Others taking prominent parts are the Misses Ruth Pearson, Josephine Brubaker, Edith Jessup, Hazel Sutton, Ida Crum and the Messrs. Donald Stone, Alden Phelps, Gurney Rees, Merritt Hardig, Joseph Wright, Paul Hackett, Alonzo Frazier, Leighton Stewart, Roger Hickman, Herbert Lund, Lowell Kramar and Warren G. Mendenhall.

Aside from these, there are Norman soldiers, outlaws, forresters, Saxon peasants, fairies, slaves, the whole making up a cast of considerably more than 100 people.

Many of the costumes are elaborate in design and historically correct. The costume committee discovered, by a singular coincidence that Douglas Fairbanks is at present working on a big production, including Robin Hood, Ivanhoe and King Richard, and a group of students composed of the Misses Hazel Sutton, Ruth Pearson, Elizabeth Rees and the Messrs. Alonzo Frazier and Joseph Wright visited Mr. Fairbanks' studio recently and gained many valuable points regarding the costuming for Robin Hood and other prominent characters in "Sherwood."

The play is a part of the entertainment planned for commencement week at Whittier College and is to be given in the amphitheater on the campus, which was last year dedicated by the presentation of the senior class play. It will seat some 1500 people and can be enlarged indefinitely. The stage has a natural setting of ornamental trees and shrubbery.

CRISWELL'S APPLICATION TO JOIN KLAN FORGED?

President of City Council Declares He Never Signed Document Found by Authorities; Baker Arrested

Discovery of two official Ku Klux Klan documents, one an application for membership, bearing the purported signature of Ralph L. Criswell, president of the City Council, yesterday connected Mr. Criswell with the local investigation of the Klan and developed into a mystery when the Councilman denied that he had ever signed the documents.

One of the documents signed in ink is an application for membership in the Invisible Empire of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, while the other is the preliminary Klan questionnaire. Both of the documents are filled out in ink and signed "Ralph L. Criswell, Councilman, 529 West Forty-first Place."

"I never made application of any kind, in writing or otherwise, for membership in the Ku Klux Klan. If my signature is attached to any such documents it was obtained by false pretenses and a subterfuge which concealed its real purpose. At this distance I cannot say that the signature is a forgery, but I do know that never at any moment have I applied for membership in the Ku Klux Klan."

With this statement made to a Times representative late last night in Washington, D. C., where he arrived yesterday, Mr. Criswell branded as false the two documents seized by the District Attorney in the home of "Kligrapp" C. R. Isbell, secretary of the local Klan.

Over what purports to be the signature of the Councilman in one of the documents seized by the District Attorney appears in the handwriting of the person who signed the questioner the following questions and answers:

Broker Charged With Assault at Night Party

As the aftermath, according to a complaint issued yesterday by Dep. Dist.-Atty. McClelland, of a party Saturday night at the home of Gordon Lindsay, a bond broker, of 3476 San Marino Drive, Truman L. Chapman, a bond broker of 703 Canyon Drive, Beverly Hills, appeared as defendant yesterday in Justice Forbes's court on a charge of assault with intent to commit an offense against Mrs. Isabel Lindsay, wife of the complaining witness.

According to information given Mr. McClelland, the defendant had been drinking, and while Mr. Lindsay was trying to get in touch with Mrs. Chapman to take Mr. Chapman home, the latter attacked Mrs. Lindsay. A woman who happened to be present telephoned for a friend, who fought off the defendant, it was stated.

Chapman was arraigned before Justice Forbes. Bail was fixed at $1500 and furnished by the defendant's wife. He was released until his hearing in the same court on June 9.

A pugilistic face and a flat nose may stand a man in hand in some fights, but yesterday they took a hard blow in a battle for the liberty of Guido Spingola, known to the police as "The Mouse." Spingola is accused of robbery of John L. Webb and two others employed by the Standard Oil Company of $82,000 in a daring hold-up on North Main street on February 27.

It was the flat nose and the pugilistic face of the defendant that figured in his identification by various witnesses as the man who grabbed the satchel containing the money and first jumped off the automobile in which the victims were riding.

The defendant was held to answer, bail being fixed at $5,000. G. W. (Red) Kerr had previously been held to answer in connection with the same offense.

News items and the bedtime story will conclude the program.

The soul of music, which Mendelssohn declared is melody, lifted into the ether from KHJ, The Times' radio broadcast yesterday afternoon, born of the steel guitar under the nimble fingers of Wiki Bird, native Hawaiian soloist-composer. The sweetly compelling sentiment of Stephen Foster's "Swanee River," coupled with dreamy, plaintive strains of the king of Hawaiian instruments, exemplified the great composer's interpretation of melody. Mr. Bird's other solo, "Arita Waltz," his own composition, brought thoughts of that beautiful isle far out in the blue Pacific—his native home.

In the third number Mr. Bird played a medley of popular airs, including "Yoo-Hoo," "Angel Child" and "Wabash Blues," accompanied on the ukulele by Miss Arita Ransom, the second member of the Bird and Ransom vaudeville duo from the Orpheum Circuit. It was especially unfortunate that listeners-in were unable to observe Miss Ransom's inability completely to subdue her desire to dance. Her vaudeville contracts call for a real, native rendition of the Hawaiian hulu-hulu dance.

Their encores included "One, two, three four," familiar to everyone, and also a ballad, "Rose of Honolulu," sung by Mr. Bird, playing his own ukulele accompaniment.

"Wiki" earned his sobriquet when he appeared in the Dillingham production of "Stop, Look and Listen," when he popularized "On the Beach at Waikiki." Dillingham found him diving for coins on his native shores and brought him to America. Since then he has been with "The Bird of Paradise" and in vaudeville. Several phonograph records of his own compositions are available.

Lovers of California, her sunshine and the place she occupies in nature's rendezvous, picked out of the air yesterday afternoon a poem, "California As I See Her," broadcast from The Times station by M. D. Chamberlin, the author. Mr. Chamberlin is a pioneer resident of Los Angeles and has written numerous poems. One verse of yesterday's selection follows:

Of all the States from east to west,
My California, you're the best!
Great is the progress you have made
Since first they panned with pick and spade,
From Shasta's mount' in northern end,
To San Diego, we contend
You're full of scenes they all admire,
Of which the eye can never tire.

County Forester Flintham urged that care be taken to prevent spring grass fires that the loss to grain on the farms this year might be minimized. The rank growth of grass, he said, due to the heavy spring rains, is a fire hazard to be considered. He implored farmers to make sure their farm tractors and machinery carry the standard form of fire extinguisher as advocated by the State laws.

The clear and charming mezzo-soprano voice of Marjorie Burlingame Bauer, known as "the little woman with the big voice," who won many admirers when she sang on Memorial Day for The Times radio broadcast, reaped new laurels in radioland at the evening broadcast from KHJ last night, when she sang "Lift Thine Eyes," by Logan, an aria from "Sampson and Delilah," by Saint-Saens, and "Life's Lullaby," by Gerald Lane. She was ably accompanied by Mrs. Adele Dorothy Lauth.

Loraine Griffith, assistant instructor of whistling at the California School of Artistic Whistling, lent diversity and charm of last night's broadcast in her rendition of "Invitation," by Owen and "Carry Me Back to Old Virginny," by Bond.

Varied Program to be Broadcast Today by KHJ

Artists Who Will Reach Listeners-in This Evening

"Times" Radio Picnic Promises Big Attendance

Responses from Times Radio Club members indicate that Sycamore Grove will be crowded to overflowing next Thursday night, when the first radio picnic and get-together ever staged, will be held, thus marking the beginning of a new epoch in radio activities. This will be exclusively an invitation affair for members of the Times Radio Club and their guests. Already the club numbers more than 4000, and is growing daily, the membership embracing radio enthusiasts not only in California, but in neighboring States.

At 6 o'clock Thursday evening the picnic will begin, participants bringing basket lunches, this nourishment to be augmented with coffee, cakes and fruit, furnished by The Times. It is planned that "the inner man" will have been satisfied by 6:30, when members will be called together in a section especially reserved for them, and have the purpose of the club explained.

Receiving instruments with loud-speaking attachments will be provided so that anyone in the park may clearly hear the program which will be broadcast from KHJ, The Times Radio Station, beginning at 7:15, and continuing until 8 o'clock. Immediately following special artists provided for the occasion will participate in a program of unusual merit, and within a few minutes after KHJ concludes its broadcast for the evening the artists who appeared there, will appear in person at the picnic.

Housekeeping War Taken to Divorce Court

John W. Masterson had ideas about housekeeping that were not in harmony with those of his wife, according to a cross-complaint for divorce filed yesterday by Mrs. Amie S. Masterson. Among Mr. Masterson's ideas was the novel one of using a bed sheet for a tablecloth while the family linen was in the laundry.

Although the husband is said to have an income of $500 a month, he did not believe in wasting it on napkins, according to the complaint. He refused to permit his wife to use them at the table, it is charged. Light and gas bills also were objected to by Mr. Masterson, it is asserted, and he frequently voiced resentment that Mrs. Masterson should have company.

The fact that Mr. Masterson was worth $60,000 was the subject of considerable pride to him, the complaint states, as he bet his wife now and then that she "had never sat in a $100 chair before." In the original complaint filed by the husband he charged that his wife deserted him,

SCHOOL AIDS IN CHOOSING VOCATION

Polytechnic Man Tells How Youth Can Learn What He is Fitted to Be

"Being able to choose a vocation early in life is a long step toward a man's earning capacity in his more mature years." This was the gist of an address broadcast from KHJ, The Times radio station, last night by Nicholas Ricciardi president of the California Polytechnic School, San Luis Obispo.

Nicholas Ricciardi.

"What boy wouldn't like to know whether he is going to have a $3000, $5000 or $10,000-a-year job by the time he is 30 or 40 years old?" asks Mr. Ricciardi.

"Is it possible to tell a boy what he will be earning by that time?

"Do you know that a boy won a fortune by learning to milk a cow?

"Do you know that another boy won a fortune by learning to repair a gas engine?

"The first boy became a millionaire stockman and the second one became a millionaire manufacturer, and they were both considered ordinary boys, too.

"From a cow barn or a garage to a millionaire's home is quite an achievement in a lifetime, yet these boys did it.

"And how did they do it? The answer is very simple. They did it by getting the right start and the right training for the work they liked best and were best fitted by nature to do.

"And, mind you, they didn't have the opportunity, either, of going to a school where they could find out with the help of trained teachers just what they were best fitted to do and get all the training they needed for that work, without paying a cent for it.

"Do you know that there is such a school in California?

"There is a school—the California Polytechnic School at San Luis Obispo—where a boy can try himself out and find out for himself just what he likes best and can best do, and then get all the training he needs, at State expense. All he has to do is to pay for his board, lodging and books, and that averages only $46 a month. The school is part of the public school system of the State.

"The school grounds and farm comprise nearly 1000 acres. There is a real farm of 450 acres with modern machinery, fine cattle, hogs, sheep, poultry and horses, representing different breeds. There is a real dairy, a creamery, nurseries and orchards.

"The school has its own power plant and five different shops—carpentry, machine, forge, auto and electrical, and is intended, primarily, to give vocational training which will prepare students for specific vocations.

"What the State university is to the boy or girl, who wants professional training, the California Polytechnic School is to the boy or girl who wants training in agriculture, the mechanical arts or the household arts.

Aid for Needy Sent Out Over KHJ Radiophone

So sensitive is the microphone that to insure the best results on the broadcast absolute quiet must be maintained throughout the performance. To the door of the tiny broadcasting room of KHJ—The Times radiophone—last night came a none too timid knock. When the artist who was singing had finished, the announcer said to his thousands of listeners-in:

"One moment, please! Some one has just entered the room and made such a strong appeal for the privilege of broadcasting a plea for a very worthy family that we are going to allow her this privilege at this time. The plea is made by Mrs. George H. Pettengill."

"I have been commissioned," said Mrs. Pettengill, "to present the cause of an exceedingly needy and worthy family in our city. As you know, the high cost of living carries with it exorbitant rents, as well as the scarcity of any sort of comfortable quarters. It is doubly hard for this family to get a roof over its head, because there are many children in the family, and you all know the attitude of narrow souls regarding children.

"I am not going to ask you tonight for a donation for this needy family, but I am going to ask you tomorrow to help us all you possibly can, to make this family comfortable.

"I know it is not customary to mention names in a case of this kind, but I am going to do so, even though some of the members of the family may hear this appeal for aid."

"One moment, please!" exclaimed the announcer. "Surely, Mrs. Pettengill, you are not going to broadcast that family's name!"

"Indeed I am! They have a right to know who they are going to help."

"But you may get us mixed up in a damage suit from this!"

"Then you should not have allowed me to begin something which you will not let me finish. I insist on giving this name!"

"Very well, then. What is the name?"

"MRS. SUSAN M. DORSEY AND HER ONE HUNDRED AND THIRTY - SEVEN - THOUSAND CHILDREN!"

"This joke which has been sprung on you," said the announcer to listeners-in, "is the child of the brain of Mrs. George H. Pettengill, president of the Parent-Teacher Association of West Vernon school, and I hear her saying that it is not a joke, but a serious issue, calling for your full support. Tuesday is the day. The polls are open from 8 to 6. WORK, WORK, WORK, to put the school bonds through!

DOUG RADIOS CONVENTION ACTIVITIES

Proceedings of Rotarians to Reach Twenty-two Countries Through KHJ

Douglas Fairbanks, who has laughed at stunts, surmounted obstacles, real and imaginary, in the cinema world, steps out tonight to conquer a new field to him—the air. Tonight he will broadcast from KHJ, The Times radio station, news of the Rotary Club convention now in session in Los Angeles, and aggressive as he always is, he goes the usual broadcasting artist one better, in that he is not content to reach just the customary field, but twenty-two nations will listen in to what he has to say of Rotarians and their work.

Arrangements have been made with the government stations to give his words the broadest possible reach, and tomorrow his message will be known virtually throughout the world.

Hero of newspaper plays, one recalls in particular, "The Cub," a vehicle in which he starred a decade or more ago, by sheer aggressiveness he overcame all obstacles and emerged the victor. Tonight he becomes a "cub reporter" once more, for it will be the first time he has spoken into the microphone. Stage fright is not uncommon to those who broadcast for the first time, but if Doug runs true to form he will never falter. His talk will be a nightly feature from KHJ each night during the convention.

VOTE TODAY ON SCHOOL BONDS

organized opposition to the bond issue in certain sections of the school district, but this opposition, which has not been given the light of publicity by those behind it, has served to intensify the activities of friends of the schools.

Each school in the city has organized a group of workers for the bonds, and hundreds of automobiles have been placed at the disposal of the school authorities to take voters to the polls, it was announced yesterday at the offices of the Board of Education.

The proposed school bond issue of $17,400,000, according to those who have investigated conditions in various schools, is a conservative and able estimate of the sum needed to put the Los Angeles city school system in condition to meet the rapidly increasing demands upon it.

FOR PRESENT NEEDS

Attention has been repeatedly called to the fact by those urging passage of the bonds that the proposed issue is in no sense calculated to form a building program for the future, but will provide for present and imminent needs. If the bonds are carried, the money will be spent, according to the Superintendent of Schools and members of the Board of Education, as needed and as conditions permit. There will be no hasty attempt, school authorities announce, to spend all the money in one year or in two, but expenditures are to be made strictly in accordance with the best interests of the whole school district.

If carried, the bonds will provide for ninety-seven new or enlarged elementary schools, four junior high schools, and either three or four high schools, and a number of new sites and additions to present school grounds.

VITAL TO CITY

Growth of industry and increase of population would be stayed by failure of Los Angeles to pass the school bonds, it was stated last night, by Frank Wiggins, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

"We have letters every day from eastern manufacturers asking not only what industrial opportunities we can offer them, but also what living and educational advantages we can promise them for the hundreds of employees that will have to make their homes here in the event of their removal to this city or the establishment of their new Los Angeles plants," Mr. Wiggins asserted.

If the school bonds fail to pass, the Chamber cannot assure such inquirers of available school room for the children from other communities.

The chamber has indorsed the bond issue and urges all of the residents of Los Angeles to vote for it inasmuch as the future growth and prosperity of the city are dependent upon keeping up the high standard of education set by the board members.

SEAMAN'S VIEWS

In a last minute statement regarding the school bond issue today, C. E. Seaman, president of the Board of Education, declared last night:

"The $17,400,000 asked for, being based upon very careful surveys of the actual needs of the school system, is the absolute minimum required. The bonds will not draw interest until they are sold and will be sold only so fast as they can be economically administered. With the expected increase of assessed valuation of property, the building tax should be very little more than it was one year ago."

MUMA'S STATEMENT

Irwin J. Muma, chairman of the building committee of the board, declared last night:

"The increase in school enrollment in the past three years has been over 20,000. This means that $5,000,000 a year will be required for the construction of new buildings to accommodate that number of new pupils. The proposed bond issue will take care of three years' growth. As an increase of the school population amounting to 20,000 means an increase of 100,000 in the total population, property valuation, upon which the building tax is based, is also increased materially. Los Angeles spent on schools $107.05 per pupil in the year 1920-21, according to a recent survey made by W. W. Theisen, director of reference and research in the Cleveland public schools. This survey showed that Los Angeles ranked seventh in the per capita school cost."

MRS. DORSEY'S VIEWS

Mrs. Susan M. Dorsey, superintendent of schools, declared:

"It will be a calamity if the bonds do not carry. It will be a physical impossibility for those who move to Los Angeles next year to send their children to school unless the bonds are voted, as the schools are already crowded up to their limit. As an example of the tremendous increase within the past two years, the enrollment at the Hammell school jumped from 372 to 1050 in that period. At the Glassell Park school the increase was from 180 to 720. At the Manchester school the increase was 800 during the two years. At the Angeles Mesa school it was 314."

THE IRISH OF IT

John P. Irish has challenged the Governor to debate the Japanese question in California with him. He will meet the Governor at any time or place and discuss under the Governor's own terms. But possibly Gov. Stephens will not care to have this Irish question added to his other embarrassments.

THE POLITICIAN

Senator Johnson seems to think that constitutional amendments grow on every bush. He is going to have one of his own forbidding child labor. When Hiram gets through with his Federal program the States will have no authority over their citizens at all. The general government will have charge and there won't be any trucking to England, either.

WORTH TALKING ABOUT

If people do not comprehend the advantages of owning a home in California it is not for lack of an adviser. During the past year the Real Estate Commissioner has issued virtually 27,000 licenses to brokers, salesmen and dealers in lands. It is not likely that another State in the Union holds as many realty dealers as California. The joy of it is that they all have something to talk about.

JURY PUZZLES

There are other cities in which jurors find it hard to agree. Witness the instance of the Chicago youth who fled from one of the city banks with $775,000 worth of Liberty Bonds in a grip. He was captured with the bonds in his possession and admitted all the details of the theft, but in two trials a jury is still unable to agree upon a conviction. All of which goes to prove that you never can tell.

KEEPING IT UP

Senator Borah is determined that Russia shall be recognized if he has to put on blue spectacles and do it all himself. He may declare a government of his own for the express purpose of lending countenance to the soviets. He could hardly recognize John Bull if he were carrying an acetylene torch, but he can see Ivanoffskivitch at the bottom of a well. The Senator seems to be against all entangling alliances except with Moscow.

MORE VOLSTEAD STUFF

Another Volstead bill has passed the House. This one, however, has nothing to do with the enforcement of the prohibition amendment. It is to correct what might be called commercial bribery. It is calculated to prevent or punish a certain form of graft in business. It is directed against the giving or taking of bribes or perquisites in connection with the purchase of public supplies. Goods are not to be bought on favor, but on merit. There should be no payment of commissions on public contracts. The public should be conducted on a business basis. Under this bill the purchasing agent for any institution will not be able to solicit favors in return for orders and keep out of jail. It is likely that there will be less opposition to this Volstead bill than the other one that bears his name.

THE DOUBLE LIFE

It isn't very often that a woman will keep two domestic establishments, but they will do it occasionally. A Michigan case has just got into the divorce courts. It appears that the woman has been living with two husbands daily for a year or more. One spouse was a night patrolman connected with the city police force and the other was a skilled mechanic in an automobile industry. She spent her days at the home of the night watchman and her nights in the house provided by the day worker. Her absence from his home for a longer period than usual startled the policeman on a search and in that way he learned the truth. He found that the wife was daily living under another name in another part of the city—and it wasn't a big town, at that. It seems that the men folks do not have a monopoly of this double-life business.

THE SCHOOL BONDS

Every citizen interested in the welfare, progress and good name of Los Angeles should vote today in favor of the proposed school-bond issue of $17,400,000.

Words cannot picture the crying need for more land and more buildings to accommodate the city's great and growing army of school boys and girls. The money asked for by the Board of Education is designed only to place the schools in position to care for those who will enroll during the next few years.

Failure to vote school bonds at this time will result immediately in depriving thousands of children of adequate educational training and will actually close the schools to thousands who will be required to wait until the present condition is relieved.

School officials feel sure that the bonds will carry if the public is fully informed of conditions, but there is danger that apathy on the part of voters not specifically informed as to the situation may defeat the bond issue.

Provision has been made in the proposed issue to care for the elementary and high-school enrollment in every part of the entire Los Angeles city school district. No favorites have been recognized and each district, if the bonds are carried, will, as rapidly as the money can be wisely spent, be fully cared for.

SERVICE ABOVE SELF

Two thousand years ago from a mountaintop in Judea the greatest Teacher of all time gave to man a precept of living that has endured through the centuries. Do unto others as ye would that men should do unto you! In all the intervening years none has been able to improve upon the Golden Rule and no satisfactory substitute has been found for it. Put into universal practice the world's troubles would cease. Warfare and strife would end and innumerable problems and vexatious complications would be finally settled.

Evidence of the potency of this great precept as applied to every-day affairs is to be found in the outstanding growth and success of the Rotarians now in convention in Los Angeles. The Rotarians have built up a powerful organization on the platform of the Golden Rule. "Service before Self" is the motto which they have successfully applied to business affairs throughout the country and beyond. The organization is active in all lines of work for the benefit of the community and is endeavoring to teach the practice of the Golden Rule in every-day life and activity.

The Rotary Club is young, but it has waxed great in numbers, strength and influence. It was started in Chicago in 1905 and at that time consisted of one club of four members. Now the Rotary organization has more than a thousand clubs in America and many in other countries. Its scope of activities has been widened and its influence is manifested throughout the civilized world.

Rotary objects are to promote the recognition of the worthiness of all legitimate occupations and to dignify each member's occupation as offering him an opportunity to serve society; to encourage high ethical standards in business and profession; to increase the efficiency of each member by the exchange of ideas and business methods; to promote acquaintance as an opportunity for serving as an aid to success; to quicken the interest of each member in the public welfare and to co-operate with others in civic development.

Altruistic, and at the same time practical, the Rotary organization is an influence for great good. Los Angeles is proud to entertain such a convention and to aid in the promulgation of the principles for which it stands.

THE PEOPLE'S MONEY

For the first time in five years the government expenditures fall below $5,000,000,000. According to the summary of the chairman of the House Committee on Appropriations the total allowances for this year are $3,947,000,000. Back in 1919 in winding up the war the appropriations were at the colossal figure of $19,000,000,000. It is promised that next year the expenditures of the nation can be brought down to about $3,600,000,000. With the army and navy as virtually agreed upon and with requirements of a billion or more for interest a budget of much less than this sum cannot be expected for some years—or at least until substantial reductions are made in the public debt.

Congress was supposed to be at outs with the budget system, but the chairman of the Appropriations Committee gives the system and its director high praise for their accomplishments in economy and reform. The committee and the chief of the budget finally found themselves working in complete harmony. More than that, the Appropriations Committee assumed the responsibility of making cuts that the budget director hesitated to order. As a matter of fact, the Appropriations Committee pruned the allowances of the budget by more than $310,000,000. Between them they effected a saving from departmental demands of more than $1,000,000,000.

The budget system and its combination with Congress amply justify its creation. The various departments first make their appearance before the chief of the budget with their claims and demands. The director is expected to question and examine all parties at interest and compute the lowest cost of the program desired. He may even question the necessity or importance of the program. But in any event he gets down to brass tacks and decides that the Interior Department can get along with a certain sum of money. When he gets through he reports to the President.

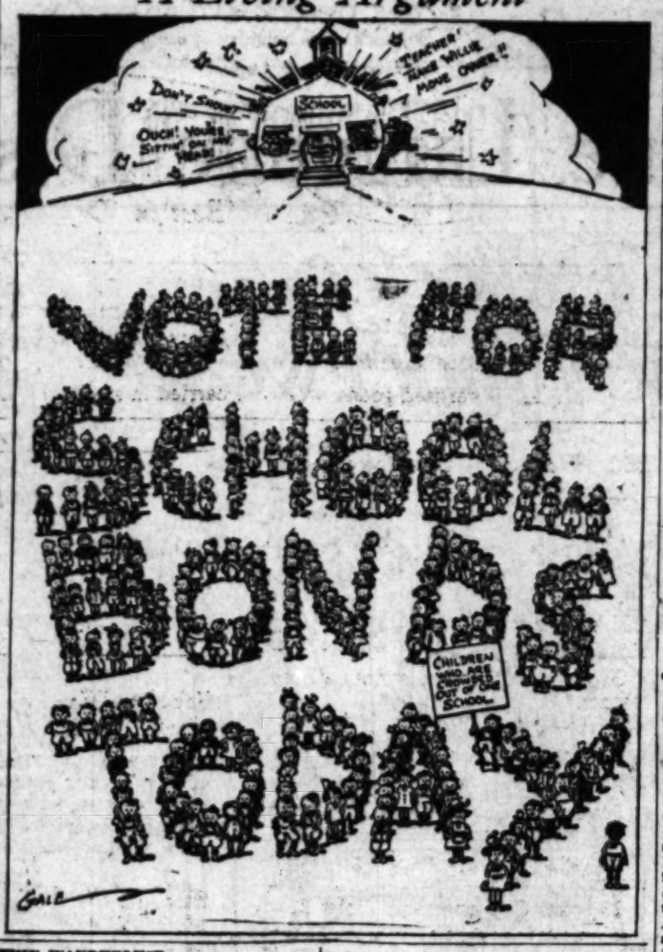
The White House, too, may use the blue pencil, and this provides another check on the claimants, but if the amount comes within the prospective revenues of the republic the revised estimates are sent to the Appropriations Committee of the House. There another exhaustive inquiry is had and separate bills are prepared covering the financial needs of each department. Hearings may then be had upon these measures and the inquiry is as likely to result in a reduction as an increase. The heads of departments and bureau chiefs are called in and required to justify the expenditures asked for. When revision is complete the bills are reported out and are further considered by the House sitting as committee of the whole. In this form amendments may be made and fresh demands reviewed, but there is seldom any material change.

When the House reaches its conclusions and approves the measure it goes to the Senate. Here another Committee on Appropriations goes over the estimates and may also listen to claims and testimony. If there are amendments they must afterward be considered by a conference committee representing both Senate and House. The conclusions of the conference are reported back to both branches and if they are there approved the measures are passed and go to the President for ratification—or rejection. If the President smells waste or extravagance he may veto the bill.

So it may be seen that the pathway to the United States treasury is a rather long and devious one. The strong box is not easily raided and a cause which can get by the budget director, the President, two suspicious committees and two branches of Congress must be a good one. Uncle Sam will continue to spend a lot of money, but he will come nearer getting the worth of it than he has for many decades. The budget system with its effect upon Congress is accomplishing that much.

There had been much argument in favor of the adoption of a budget system. This had extended through more than one generation. Without very much fuss or flurry the Harding regime established the theory as a fact and it moves off with a confidence that is impressive and satisfying.

A Living Argument



THE WANDERLUST

Now that the soft June days have arrived a spirit of lethargy is rapidly taking possession of the average restless human. To some there is the lure of the mountains, with their quiet restfulness. To others the seashore is calling like a voice out of the void. The man with a new automobile is fidgeting in his swivel chair impatient for the hour of release to come that he may "step on" the throttle of his new and shining rubber-shod greyhound and be away over the smooth boulevard to eat up distance as a child eats ice cream. The angler is busy every leisure moment with his fishing tackle. For him it is either the deep sea or the gurgling mountain brook, where the "speckled beauties" lurk. The camper has gone over his equipment a hundred times. He has sorted his pots and pans, examined his tent poles and guy ropes. Every article in his camping outfit has been subjected to the closest scrutiny. He longs for the day when he can pack his kit and trek to some quiet glade where he may pitch his tent beside the running waters, light his camp fire, cook his bacon, heat his beans and enjoy a real feast.

Then there are those to whom the far places call. Tickets for a trip to the East have been purchased. The Pullman reservations are made. All that now stands between the impatient traveler and his ambition is the time that must elapse ere he fill his suit caseq and be away across the blistering desert, over the great mountain ranges, out upon the broad middle western plains and back to the roaring cities of the East, where, as a boy, he trod their sweltering avenues in summer or plowed through banks of snow or driving rain and sleet storms in winter. It is the change that the human heart craves. "He must go, go, far away from here, on the other side of the world he's overdue," that's the spirit that June days, which mean vacation time, arouse in the breast of all of us. We want to go. Somewhere, anywhere, just so we are on the go. Where is merely a matter of taste, temperament or means, but we want to go.

WEATHER BY WIRELESS

There is impressive promise of future control of the weather by radio. Not only will our storm predictions be broadcast by wireless, but the storms themselves will be regulated, chastened and diverted by radio. The scientist says that we will get our weather by wave lengths. Our climate may yet be assigned to us by a governing board. The peerless climate of California may be cut up into small pieces by a commission at Washington and distributed over Dakota and Oklahoma. Our showers will go through a meter. We will be hitched up to a wave leigth of 575 go-whizzes and draw off a half-inch of nice wet rain. When the Democrats are in power they will be accused of favoring the solid South in the matter of climate and some statesman will be elected President on a platform of equal and indivisible climate for all. William Jennings Bryan will be stumping the country in favor of a declaration for sixteen showers to one cyclone and the Populists will be demanding that the government manufacture all weather and furnish it free to every citizen. The prohibitionists will still be insisting on a bone-dry country, while the souses will be yelping for a wet Sunday. Senator Borah will be accused of having a cold wave up his sleeve and the government will be asked to prosecute a lot of Kentucky moonshiners for bootlegging their own climate by the use of the radiospect. The women will be organizing the merry sunshine party and will insist on a declaration for a minimum of rain. Jim Reed will be suspected of having formed an entangling alliance with a Montana blizzard and the Massachusetts delegation will come to Congress for adequate tariff protection against the pauper climate of Shetland. If our climate is to be distributed on a wavelength basis, will it be necessary to have an official prognosticator to tell us what the wild waves are saying?

TRY IT ON THE GROCER

TWO MINUTES OF OPTIMISM

BY HERMAN J. STICH

Before You Discover America!

The first man who wore a silk hat was pelted with rocks, arrested for disturbing the peace and inciting to riot—and HEAVILY FINED! Hardly fitting recognition for the inventor of headgear that has since crowned civilization's grandest fotes!

The first sewing machine Howe exhibited was smashed to smithereens by an unbelieving mob.

Almost every engineer in the country called Westinghouse fifty-seven varieties of a fool because he insisted his airbrake could stop a train with wind.

Jefferson was hated and berated as a hair-brained financier for maintaining that something might be made of the country west of the Mississippi.

They called Parmentier a pig because he claimed potatoes were fit food for humans.

A famous cartoon shows Napoleon in the nursery beside the cradle of his son and heir, the King of Rome. The nurse is squeezing the juice of a beet into the mouth of the infant King, saying: "Suck, dear, suck! Your father says 'tis sugar!" The people who first tried to tell us there was such a thing as beet sugar had a rather discouraging time of it.

We may protest vehemently; but most of us are still in the position and condition of the man who would not look at the new moon out of respect for that "ancient institution," the old one.

Mankind seems mostly shortsighted, inappreciative and conservative.

What is NOVEL is self-confessedly wicked and, beyond peradventure, ridiculous!

History proves that improvements almost always antagonize even those whom in the long run they most benefit.

If you're setting sail for new lands, be prepared for ignorance, selfishness, cross-currents, conspiracy and mutiny.

RIPPLING RHYMES

A LITTLE SLUMBER

At night I lay me down to sleep, worn out by toilsome jobs; the bed on which I rest is cheap, the pillow stuffed with cobs. The slats on which the mattress lies oft dump me on the floor and, yawning, from the wreck, I rise, fix things and sleep some more. Sometimes my idle neighbors weep and wring their hands and say, "Alas, alas, we cannot sleep! In vain we seek the hay! On downy beds that were too dear, through sleepless nights we lie, and every hour seems like a year as it goes dragging by." They idle through the golden days, they have no work to do; they do not hoe the growing maize, they have no logs to hew; they do not trim the stringless bean or prune the climbing squash; they burn up pecks of gasoline and read some hectic tosh. Their flabby muscles never know the stimulant of work, and all they witness here below is bound to bore and irk. So when they to their beds repair to saw off sundry snores, the rest they long for isn't there, no balmy sleep restores. But I go weaving through the town on useful tasks all day, and when at night I cuddle down I sleep the hours away. WALT MASON.

SEPARATING THE GOATS

Many trade associations have pledged themselves to comply strictly with the rules worked out by Secretary Hoover's department. Others show a dubious or truculent spirit, refusing to co-operate with the department. Such associations will be under suspicion of having other methods than those which will stand the light. Secretary Hoover, having found a way of separating the sheep from the goats, will from now on keep an eye on the horned-sheep.—[Capper's Weekly.

SENATORS WITH MEMORIES

The Senate of the United States of America omitted a session so that the pages could take in a circus. It is a wise statesman who remembers that at one time he was a boy who liked fun.—[Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

MOTION PICTURE CENSORSHIP

BY WILLIAM C. DE MILLE

It has been reported to me that one of the Ohio State censors said recently that she was going to give the people of the State of Ohio not the pictures they wanted, but the pictures they ought to have. Here, in a nutshell, is the evil and injustice of censorship, thoroughly expressed by one of the censors themselves. Looking at the matter from my own point of view, this censor's statement means to me that my twenty-five years of hard work, study and effort to be artistic are to be calmly put aside in order that someone with an autocratic, if inferior, brain shall have the right to stand between me and my audience. From the time that I first entered the theater as a writer I have conceived the function of the dramatist to be the setting forth of the problems of human life in such art form as would move the mass of the people through his message to them. But apparently this is not to be. I may no longer speak my message to the people of this country; I may no longer receive their reaction to my work, for a little group of people, who must disagree with much that I have to say or they would not be censors, are empowered by law to stand between me and my public.

RESENTS DISCRIMINATION

In spite of the fact that numerous individuals have disagreed with me as an artist and as a philosopher, I can truthfully say that in the course of long years of effort I have never written anything for publication. I have never put any play upon the stage and I have never put any picture upon the screen which I am not willing to stand behind and defend as being an earnest effort to tell a good story as beautifully as I could, and I resent the discrimination which is being exercised against this new art by subjecting it to restrictions to which no other art is subjected. An art cannot develop in bondage, and if the art of the motion picture is to develop, if it is to become the great power for moral and social improvement for which it is undoubtedly destined, there must be some freedom of expression left to those artists who are making it their life work and who cannot possibly do good work if a lot of interfering busybodies have the authority to change the form of their expression, distort their philosophy, ruin the beauty of their art and reduce all characterization to symbolic figures on the order of those characters in "Mother Goose," which are supposed to be so easily understood by the youth of the land. It seems that we have come, in this country, to a point where we are not content with legislating every phase of morality—we are now starting in to legislate matters of taste. What will be left of individual liberty when this scheme of things is completely worked out?

WHEN IS KISS IMMORAL?

It is difficult for me, as an artist, to understand that a kiss which lasts for five seconds is immoral, but becomes moral when shortened to three seconds' duration. It is difficult for me to see how we are going to attack the powers of evil when we are forbidden to show the thing we are attacking, and, in some States, even to mention it. I am one of those who have never been able to see the immorality in the fact that a child is about to be born.

Under restrictions such as these no art can possibly find an expression worthy of the name of art. The public is already amply protected by laws, in every State, which prevent the exhibition of anything indecent or immoral. These laws are wise and necessary, but the great evil of censorship is that it is not a matter of law, but a substitution of personal opinion for law. Under censorship immorality becomes whatever the censor chooses to call immoral, and the artist has no day in court in which to defend himself. The matter may not be submitted to a competent judge who is easily capable of determining whether a given subject as presented is or is not immoral. The opinion of the censor becomes the law of the country, and whether or not the censor is right pales into insignificance before the terrible fact that an individual opinion has taken the place of the law of the United States.

LIMITATIONS UPON ART

Is there no way in which the public can be told that this body of well-meaning autocrats is standing between them and the producer who is earnestly trying to give them the best product which the art and the industry are capable of producing? Is there no way of telling the public that most of these mangled, disconnected, idiotic stories which are put before them are largely the result of censorship? And, lastly, must this new art, which is capable of so much, be forever sentenced to the limitations of childhood? If so, it has no real value in the social scheme except as very elementary amusement. If I, after all my years of study and effort, am to be prevented from occasionally talking to adults, then I am afraid I must forsake this medium of expression and go back to the theater, where I was never accused of living for the purpose of demoralising and debasing the youth of the country. Either we must return to sanity or the art of the motion picture is doomed to die before it is well born.

RICHES OF PERSONALITY

BY HENRY C. WARNACK

There is but one energy; it is the life of God. There is but one substitute; it is the body of God. There is but one goal for man; it is his union with God. There is but one path to this supreme good; it is the expansion of consciousness. No man finds this path through another, not even through the Masters; he finds it through the revelation of God within himself.

Nothing spoken, nothing written is conclusive; the word is soundless, the reality formless. Realization is the reward of your own contemplation; it is your own vision, your own pure knowing. Every form of affirmation, every form of negation and all methods of both are only sophistry if they pertain to the relative and the personal; any form of devotion, any line of action, any church, any order is not sophistry, but truth if, through it, the self discovers the absolute for the self.

All forms of renunciation are futile if they bring only disuse; all forms of renunciation are consecration when everything in this world is used and enjoyed as the tool of the temple that is inspired by the spirit. Let us have the full use of every faculty, the complete joy of all relativity, but let us be deceived by no thing that can change or know change.

If the powers descend to man he is destroyed by them; if man ascends to the powers he drinks of the waters of life and faints not in their presence. Man raises himself to a seat among the mighty through vibration, even as he approaches the stars through the caverns of his own heart. They appear without and are approached from within; even so is the center of each well beyond the circumference of all.

Time is only presence, space is only idea, yet it is well for man to make time that it may be now with him and not then, and space that he may be in this place and not in that. Likewise there is only the one, yet well may we say of the self and what appears outside of the self, "myself and the world." In the sense of unity the world is infinite, yet it is well for man to say, "this world and the universe." Substance is only one, yet it is well to speak of spirit's delightful action on form as diversity that we may handle this object and not another.

When we know what to use that will help us and what to let alone that might hurt us; when we are not disappointed in any mental speculation, but always touch the right objects and meet the right persons in the right time and place, we are well on the highway to the dominion of that idea which makes of the three dimensions of the universal idea the plane that is called objectivity and the sphere that is called the world.

Separateness is utter darkness when it does not see that it is in God and that God is in it, for then its blind selfishness knows want through impotence and misery through lack of sympathy. It is a curious paradox of the divine law, which is love, that only as this sense of separateness urges one on to seek attractive personality and temporal gain does it discover the need of divine guidance and the very present help of the God within when once man looks for its sure aid. Since God can function on the plane of earth only through man and man only knows what he knows through acquaintance with terms it follows that no mind can become too beautifully informed and none of us can afford the neglect of those qualities and graces which make for a rich personality.

Affirm for yourself every good thing, for when you are determined to enter the realms of exalted thought and pure living all the earth cannot be of hindrance to you and all that is divine will be your support.

Read, therefore, the book of any man who is moved to arouse his own degree of consciousness within you. Read that you may sound more surely your own tone, read that you may add of your own wisdom to what is written by another, read that your vibration may be raised and, above all, read that your attitude may invite the open door of the heart and mind to the end that you may experience an inrush of love and a downpour of wisdom. Lift yourself, through an enriched personality, to where you know yourself for the God who is known in personality; lift yourself to where the veil is lifted and the light breaks through. Thus may intellect lead you to the door of the temple that wisdom may come that you may add of your own as the guide who will lead you into the Great Presence. Remember always that nature is an undivided whole and that all of its parts are intimately related. That is your key to her vast storehouses of treasures, that is your heirship to the full power of all useful forces.

THIS IS THE DAY

President Johnson in 1866 issued a proclamation forbidding the Fenian Brotherhood to organize an army for the invasion of Canada. The Fenians were a secret revolutionary society whose object was to free Ireland from English domination. In spite of President Johnson's decree, the Fenians, with an army of 1500 men, crossed into Canada near Ft. Erie and were promptly driven back by the Canadian militia, 700 of their number being afterward arrested by the United States authorities. In 1870, when they threatened another Canadian raid, President Grant issued a similar proclamation. This practically ended the military activities of the Fenians on American soil.

The document bearing the questions and answers is dated Feb. 10, 1922, while the other, which is a formal application for membership, and which states that a "donation" has been made by the applicant, is dated Feb. 14, 1922. The handwriting and signatures on each are identical.

Late yesterday afternoon members of the District Attorney's force admitted that the documents had been seized by the officials among other records secured in "Kligrapp" Ishem's residence, several days ago.

Councilman Criswell, who is expected to return to Los Angeles some time next week was one of the three members of the City Council, who voted against a proposed ordinance making it unlawful to wear masks or disguises on the streets of Los Angeles. Councilman Mushet made a motion that the City Attorney be instructed to prepare the ordinance shortly following the Inglewood masked raid.

Councilmen Allan and Langdon voted against the motion stating that it was "too sweeping."

On April 28 Councilman Mushet presented a resolution to the City Council in which all heads of all branches of the city government were instructed to ascertain from men under them if they were members of the Ku Klux Klan, and if so, order them to resign from the Klan or from city employment. The resolution was unanimously adopted.

A sensational story involving an asserted plot to escape from the jurisdiction of the California courts with the aid of an airplane led to the arrest yesterday of Nathan A. Baker, Ku Klux Klan Kleagle, who led the Inglewood raiders.

This was disclosed at Sheriff Traeger's office shortly after the Klansman was taken into custody by Undersheriff Biscailuz and Detective Walter Hunter of the District Attorney's office, and lodged in the County Jail on the charge of suspicion of felony.

According to the information given to the Sheriff's office, the former Kleagle planned to make his escape from this State by airplane to Mexico or Arizona.

Baker, it was learned in connection with the arrest, is now bordering on a nervous breakdown as the result of the strain he has been under since the Inglewood raid. When taken into custody he was in company with a trained nurse. After being booked at the County Jail, Baker was placed in a room to await examination by the jail physician, and later was taken to the County Hospital.

ARREST ORDERED

The arrest was ordered by Chief Dep. Dist.-Atty. Doran and Dep. Dist.-Atty. Turney after a consultation with Undersheriff Biscailuz. Fear that Baker would try to leave the State ahead of possible action by the grand jury or that he would harm himself or others as the result of his physical and mental condition was the deciding motive of the action, the officers said.

Paul Barksdale D'Orr, attorney for the Klan, and also for the Klan officials, including Baker, was at the District Attorney's office when Baker was brought in. Mr. D'Orr admitted he heard of the reports quoting Baker as planning to leave the State, and said his client's mental and nervous condition was "grave." L. L. Bryson, another confessed leader of the Inglewood raid, and also a Klansman, was with Mr. O'Orr when Baker was brought in.

GRAND JURY BUSY

While the officers were searching the city for Baker, who only recently left the hospital and took an apartment on Ingraham street, the county grand jury was listening to twenty-eight men who took part in the Inglewood raid under Baker's leadership. These men have testified before, some of them twice, and were recalled yesterday to lay a foundation for important action now contemplated by the District Attorney's office.

C. R. Isham, the only remaining visible remnant of the Invisible Empire's officials in California, also called at the District Attorney's office yesterday. He demanded the return of the documents turned over by him the day before to Dep. Dist.-Atty. Turney and said to contain the names of additional Klansmen in Los Angeles, including some prominent city officials. Mr. Isham was not successful in his mission.

Dipatches to The Times from Bakersfield announced another important resignation from the hooded order. Durward Bunnell, "kligrapp," or secretary of the Bakersfield Klan, yesterday sent his resignation from the order, the dispatches said. The resignation was addressed to William S. Coburn, formerly Grand Goblin of the order on the Pacific Coast. In his letter to Coburn, Bunnell said he believed that some of the Bakersfield Klan members were "unlawful men," and that because of the stigma cast upon the organization in Bakersfield, he desired to end his connections with the Klan.

Klansmen in Fresno, having been smoked out of their "invisibility" by the publication of the Klan membership and official action against individual members, have decided to come out into the open and tell the world all about it, a telegram from Fresno announced yesterday. The Klan obtained the Fresno auditorium and held its first "open klavern" meeting yesterday. A strong defense of the Klan principles was voiced by the Klan defenders in Fresno.

Another view of the Ku Klux Klan is to be presented to the Fresno citizens, however. Information regarding the activities of the hooded order in California and elsewhere, as gained from the court records and investigations by grand juries and public officials, is to be made public by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Conway of Kern county, it was announced in Fresno yesterday. Mr. Conway's address is to be made at a public meeting, the date to be announced later.

Delay Granting Time Extension on Tunnel Work

Action on granting Contractor John Hayes a time extension of one year in which to complete the Second-street tunnel was delayed one week by the City Council yesterday, although the Public Works Committee, of which Councilman Wheeler is chairman, recommended that the extension be granted with the proviso that the contractor complete 50 per cent of the unfinished portion of the tunnel within the next six months. The tunnel is to date 71 per cent completed. The committee's report stated:

"A personal investigation of the work on the tunnel shows that much more work has been done than would appear to the passerby. It is our opinion that the most difficult portion of the work is accomplished. We are informed by the contractor that with the extension given as proposed immediate financial arrangements may be made whereby the force of men will be greatly augmented and the work proceed at a rate which will be satisfactory to the City Engineer."

Councilman Wheeler recommended that the working shafts in the tunnel remain there after the excavation work is completed and be used by the city for the installation of ventilating apparatus so that when the tunnel is opened for use about one year hence the ventilators will be in place and working.

RETURNED FOR TRIAL

Frank Leo Ortiz, a book-keeper employed in the Central National Bank at Tulsa, Okla., was ordered returned to that city for trial on an indictment charging him with having swindled the institution out of $6450, by Commissioner Long yesterday. James A. Reeves was indicted with Ortiz, but he has so far escaped arrest.

ASK CHARTER CHANGE

New Plan of Council Representation Object of Petition

Approximately 2000 names already have been signed to the petitions being circulated throughout the city calling for a special election on a proposition to amend the city charter so that fifteen members of the City Council would be elected from fifteen districts of the city, instead of nine councilmen being elected at large, as by the present system.

This was announced last night at the headquarters of the Association for District Representation, which has charge of circulation of the petitions.

The 25,000 names must be obtained before the 29th inst. The proposition then will be put on the ballot and will be voted on August 29.

People and Their Troubles

FASHION'S CHANGES—AND WHY

In a recent New York law suit the defendant, a woman monologist, explained that she refused to pay the bill of the dressmaker who brought the suit because the gown she had ordered was delivered four weeks after the date promised, and was therefore out of style. The jury, composed of women, agreed that her stand was a just one, and the dressmaker lost the suit.

The case is greatly exciting men editorial writers, who are calling upon the high heavens to witness the absurdity of the statement that a new gown can be out of fashion in four weeks. Nevertheless, the fact remains that it can and that the condition is a vital one to public entertainers such as the monologist referred to.

THE MODEL OF FASHION

When woman's clubs pay $250 to a New York woman for entertaining them with an afternoon of monologues, they expect that she will appeal to the eye as well as to the ear and brain. She does not always, of course, but if she does not she is sadly handicapped in her work. The monologist of the lawsuit is noted for the perfection of her costumes. She is a living illustration of the very last word in every detail of fashion. To behold and study her toilet ensemble is in itself a complete course in the fine art of dressing to the minute. Therefore, as she explained to the judge and jury, when she appeared before an important gathering in a gown a month behind the fashion instead of a minute ahead of it, her audience naturally felt that it had not received its money's worth. It is well for the monologist that she had a jury of women to realize the truth of her claim. Almost any jury of men would have brought in a verdict for the dressmaker.

COMFORT FOR THE AVERAGE

For the comfort of the average woman who is plunged into gloom by the discovery that her own new gown, even assuming that it is in fashion now, will be passe at the end of a month, there is this to be said:

Extremes of fashion, affected by fashion leaders, may change rapidly—in a month, a week, sometimes between sunset and sunrise. But—fashions that the great majority of women wholly approve, often live for years. As a proof we have only to consider the shirtwaist and the tailor-made suit. Desperate efforts to kill them have been made in the past. Desperate and more successful efforts are being made to kill them now. The one-piece gown is "the thing." The "suit" is supposed to have gone out. Nevertheless, the wardrobe of almost every woman contains at least one tailor-made or sport suit, and several sport waists. The explanation, of course, lies in the comfort, as well as the beauty of these garments. Women cannot, and will not give them up. It is also reassuring to learn that, by firmly setting their faces against a purely idiotic or harmful fashion, average women can kill it. Last year, for example, shoe manufacturers decided that all women should wear French-heeled shoes. It was almost impossible to buy shoes with medium heels. The result was that an amazing number of women bought no new shoes last season. The manufacturers learned their lesson. This year, one can find in any shoe shop shoes with the kind of heels one wants. So the average woman may take courage. She is not as helpless as she imagines herself to be.

MUST HAVE PROOF

"Yes," said the footpad, briefly.

LETTERS TO THE TIMES.

Do the Right Thing

LOS ANGELES, June 1.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Regarding the school bond election, let each voter put himself or herself in the place of the superintendent and the Board of Education, for a moment.

We impose upon them a responsibility which cannot be escaped, even though we expect them to do the impossible. They have the enormous task of educating an overflowing mass of school children, and we as citizens are remiss in not giving them ample funds and ample facilities for the purpose.

"It is not entirely the fault of the people, for they have always given the school for every dollar that was asked for. It really is the pardonable fault of Los Angeles in being so desirable a place of residence as to overwhelm our schools with new pupils faster than we can build schools to take care of them.

Therefore, let us appreciate the point of view of the school authorities, virtually asked to "make bricks without straw," and do the right thing by them at the polls.

That the bonds should not carry is unthinkable. But to be sure, let each mother make the election a community affair, and see that her friends do not forget to vote.

Opposes Evolution

LOS ANGELES, June 2.—[To the Editor of The Times:] It seems to be a common belief that certain skeletons, which have been excavated from geological deposits, substantiate evolution. This view, however, is based on exaggerations, for a proper study of the same skulls evinces a different story.

In the cultures of the Palaeolithic age the remains were of many odd types of men, of which the three most distinct are the "Cro-Magnon," "Neanderthal," and "Chauceleda."

The "Cro-Magnon" were giant men, whose antiquity could not be denied, being found with antediluvian animals, at great depths in Aurignacian cultures overlaid by strata of fire-hearths and debris, to the extent, in some cases, of twenty-three feet.

They were of unusual height, their average being more than six feet, which, in contrast to other races of the time, was immense.

However, their size was not all that characterized them; their remarkably large and well-developed brain of an 1800 cubic c.m. average was enough to mark them giants. In physique, with very broad shoulders, long limbs and strong countenance, they were something of the ideal.

The other type found in the "Mousterian" strata is known as the "Neanderthals," especially noted for their so-called anthropoid development. Their appearance was admittedly grotesque. They had enormous heads, 1700 cubic c.m. and small bodies, five feet, three inches, which is quite different from the build of an ape. Also they had broad shoulders and short arms. Their noses were large and prominent, and they had long narrow skulls, while the skull form of apes is broad.

Now the next individual, called "Neanderthal," who lived in the same age, should not be an unpleasant person for the devout to meet. For, indeed, after all these things are explained, his presence, also, is seen to be rather called for, as the following will explain:

The Nephilim, being begotten by unnatural fathers (materialized spirits) and human females (Gen. 6:4th) were hybrids, and obviously, would not be completely human; then a second generation of offspring being born of the "Nephilim," would be poorly developed, and in the third generation, when parents, both male and female, of the second poorly developed generation, mated, nothing but monstrosities could be born to their unions, and such, no doubt, were the Neanderthals.

The fact that "Neanderthals" are found in the early cultures, "Mousterian strata," does not mean that they were the first men in the ancient world, but, rather, due to longevity of life of natural man, these being feeble in constitution, were the only ones who died, in the early part of that age.

The other individual who lived in the old world was rather unkind to the evolutionist. He, "Chauceleda," was excavated in an undisputed Palaeolithic cave, beneath several layers of earth, old stone age strata, various ashes of ancient hearths, and covered by antique flints.

He was small of stature, scarcely five feet, but a giant in testimony. His brain capacity was remarkably large, 1700 cubic c.m., being much in excess of the modern man. These small men with big heads give us a suggestion of how the antediluvians might have lived to such great ages as the sacred accounts say they did—900 years. For the vitality of the physical body is supplied by nervous energy emanating from the brain, so that their powerful brains invigorating their small bodies, would obviously enough produce an abundance of vitality (nervous energy.)

The other features of this ancient man also were perfectly human. In fact, it can truthfully be said that this man was exaggeratedly different from the apes. He was perhaps only a little removed from pure Adamic blood.

He was, perhaps, the offspring of the "Cro-Magnons" from Adamic female.

Viewed in the light of strict criticism, with evidence to evidence and facts to facts, the sacred account of creation is by far the most substantiated in all that remains of the perished world of antiquity.

Love Humans More

SAWTELLE, June 1.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I think most humans with the exception of a few small boys feel kindly toward dogs and would not mistreat them, but it a sickening sight to see how some women pamper and pet a "handyhound" of whom they seem to think more than they do of their unfortunate husbands. When I was a small boy, I well remember a man who was an extreme lover of dogs but he used to beat his wife. They had no children, and he hated children and many a cuff he gave them when they crossed his path, though he never cuffed his beloved dogs. O. Henry in one of his stories tells of a man who committed a particularly brutal murder and escaped.

His pursuer deduced in some way that he would be a lover of dogs and sure enough he is found at the end of the story sitting among his beloved canines, cruel to humans, but kind to dogs. Several years ago in St. Louis when the usual hydrophobia menace arose during the "dog days" of a hot summer muzzles for dogs were discussed by the health board, and the usual houls arose from the extreme dog worshipers, several cases of hydrophobia had passed through the city hospital, and the doctors of that institution issued a public statement to the press of the city, in which they said they wished they could have those dog lovers present to witness the horrible sufferings of a human in the throes of hydrophobia, the convulsions being so terrible and intense in some cases that the beds broke under the straps by which the unfortunate victims of that dread malady were bound to their beds, so in view of all this, let us say that we like our dogs, but we love humans more.

SENIORS READY FOR BUSY WEEK

Baccalaureate Sermon to be Initial Event

U. of S. C. Graduating Class Numbers 471

Prof. Olson Returns from 10,000-Mile Trip

Four hundred and seventy-one seniors who will be graduated from the University of Southern California will take part in the baccalaureate services to be held next Sunday morning in Bovard Auditorium of the Administration Building. Bishop Adna Wright Leonard will preach the baccalaureate sermon. This will be the first formal event of the commencement program, which will extend through the week to Thursday afternoon when the commencement exercises will be held.

Monday evening the commencement concert will be held and on Tuesday from 4 to 6 President Von Kleinsmid will tender a reception in honor of the senior class in the president's suite of the Administration Building. In the evening the commencement concert of the college of music will be held.

TRADITIONAL BREAKFAST

Wednesday will be alumni day, with the annual meeting of the Alumni Association at 11 a.m., in Bovard auditorium, followed by a luncheon in honor of the alumni and senior class. This will be followed by class reunions and college alumni meetings. At 3:30 p.m. the annual ivy day ceremonies will be held on the campus of the old college. In the evening graduation exercises for the University High School will be held.

Thursday will be commencement day, with the traditional breakfast in honor of the senior class of the college al law tendered by Dean Porter. The academic procession will leave the campus at 2 p.m., and at 4 p.m. the commencement exercises will be held in Exposition Park.

Word was received by Dean Rogers yesterday that Prof. Olson would return this week from his 10,000-mile trip to different points in the United States ready to resume his work in the summer session of the university. Prof. Olson, who is assistant director in the college of commerce, has been traveling and studying since the first of the year, visiting on his trip all the important industrial and educational centers in the United States.

At the recent meeting of the Association of Collegiate Schools of Business he presented the work being done in business administration by the local college.

ADMITTED AS MEMBER

Upon the basis of his speech, the college of commerce of the University of Southern California was admitted as a member of the association. It was the only college which could pass the ordeal this year. There are but twenty-four members out of 200 such colleges in the country and the invitation to membership is indorsement of the type of work being done by the local college, which has an enrollment of 1000 this year. The meeting was held in Philadelphia.

Prof. Olson has spent several months with Dr. Scott and Dr. Ely, the nationally-known economists of the University of Wisconsin, studying in the field of corporation finance. He will offer courses in finance in the summer session next month, showing how present-day influences in business are effecting the financing of great corporations.

Dr. Glen Swiggett from the Bureau of Commercial Education of Washington, D. C., also will be on the staff of the summer session to give a course in "How to Market in Foreign Countries." Local business men and students have shown a great interest in these subjects, reports Dr. Rogers, who directs the work of the summer courses.

ALTADENA TO VOTE ON LIGHT PLAN

Latest Discovery in Highway Illumination Will be Used if Issue is Carried

Today's election at Altadena will decide the question of whether or not that locality is to have a highway lighting district. The Altadena Citizens' Association committee on lighting, of which Victor Falkenau is chairman, has been working on this proposition for four months.

Members of the committee assert that their investigations have led them to the discovery of the last word in highway lighting, namely, the new style of lamp invented by W. D'Arcy Ryan, expert for the General Electric Company of Schenectady, N. Y., who installed the lighting system for Broadway, Los Angeles, as well as for the San Francisco and San Diego fairs.

"It is intended to use this lamp to illuminate the entire Lincoln Highway from the Atlantic to the Pacific," said Mr. Falkenau. "So far beyond the expectations of the inventor has the device proved itself that the General Electric Company is now installing it for a severe test along the road from Schenectady to Albany, about forty miles, for the purpose of automobile racing at night, with the headlights turned off.

"If the Altadenans decide to install this type of lamp it will not only furnish better street lighting than is possessed by any other city in the country today, but at an annual cost of about one-third of what is being paid for much poorer illumination," said Mr. Falkenau. "Should the old-style lamps have been used, the annual cost would have been $19.50 for maintenance and current, but with the new style of lamp the cost is reduced more than 55 per cent.

"Based on the assessment roll, the proposed new system will cost the taxpayers of Altadena about $4 per $1000," said Mr. Falkenau. "The Altadenans are trying to get out a big vote Tuesday and persons not supplied with transportation can have the use of an automobile to take them to the polling places by telephoning Fair Oaks 848."

SEA GIVES UP BODY OF BOY

Corpse Only Released After Allotted Time

Long Beach is Enriched by Oil Development

Municipal Appraisement Shows Vast Assets

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONG BEACH, June 5.—The sea this afternoon gave up the body of John Casillas, the Los Angeles boy who was drowned a week ago Sunday in a tide rip off Golden avenue. Life guards sighted the body at a point near where the youth lost his life.

A watch was being kept today for the body, since past experience has established an almost infallible rule that the body of a drowned person on this Coast reappears from seven to nine days after the time of death. It was just eight days ago that Casillas was drowned.

Casillas was 18 years old and lived at 303 Ensenada street, Los Angeles. He came to Long Beach for the holiday with Miss Ana Roraback, 16 years old, of 409 West Fifty-fifth street, Los Angeles.

GIRL RESCUED

While bathing together both were caught in a tide rip and carried out to sea. Miss Roraback was rescued by Guards R. P. Witt and E. D. West after a 300-yard swim in the whirling current. She was taken to the Seaside Hospital and later recovered and returned to her home.

Casillas was drawn under the surface before life guards could reach him.

OIL RESOURCES

This city's extensive acreage of oil-bearing lands found to be right in the midst of oil development when the petroleum deposits were struck in Signal Hill, have increased in value as the result of the oil strike more than $1,500,000, an official municipal appraisement filed with City Auditor Myrtelle L. Gunsul disclosed today. The land is now worth from $1000 to $50,000 an acre, the appraisement figures show.

Flowing 1000 barrels a day, the largest initial production of any well on the crest of Signal Hill, the Denni No. 3 well was brought in by the United Oil Company today. The gravity is 34.3 and the flow is clean. The Denni No. 3 is the fourth and largest producer brought in by the company. It is located on Denni land on the crown of Signal Hill. The producer swells the United's daily yield to 3750 barrels.

Battle Planes to Greet Denby Party Thursday

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, June 5. — When the U.S.S. Henderson, on board which are Secretary of the Navy Edwin Denby and a distinguished party on their way to Japan, approaches San Diego Harbor Thursday morning, a squadron of six coastal seaplanes will greet the transport and escort it into port. The planes will fly fifty miles to sea and in battle formation will soar above the big ship until it reaches the harbor entrance.

The squadron will be under command of Capt. Henry V. Buler. Pilots and observers have been practicing for several days to perfect their flight formations. Thursday's aerial demonstration is expected to eclipse anything of the kind seen here since the war. In addition to the six planes that will welcome the Secretary, four squadrons of seven planes each will take to the air and pass in review for Mr. Denby following a public luncheon and reception at the marine barracks.

One thousand covers will be laid for the luncheon, the tables extending several hundred feet along the arcade of the barracks.

[BY THEIR STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

After closing hours last night, burglars, apparently familiar with the place, entered by means of a ladder, blew open the thin inside door of the safe and departed with between $235 and $300.

More than $1000 in currency which was hidden in the room was overlooked by the burglars.

Pasadena Man Will Run for State Senate

[BY THEIR STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

PASADENA, June 5.—A. Burlingame Johnson, member of the State Legislature in this district in 1917-1919, today announced himself a candidate for the Republican Senatorial nomination for the Thirty-sixth Senatorial District. Mr. Johnson announced several weeks ago that he would not be a candidate, but today declared he had yielded to the urging of his friends. Dr. F. D. Mather of Pasadena is also a candidate for the toga. Senator William J. Carr, who has worn it ten years, will not be a candidate.

Judge George E. Waldo was instrumental in securing Mr. Johnson's candidacy, presenting him a petition signed by more than 100 Pasadenans. Mr. Johnson was formerly United States Consul in China and later a special commissioner in settling the Boxer difficulties, receiving a decoration from the Chinese government for his work. Later he went to the Philippines at the request of Gov.-Gen. Taft, and still later raised capital for street railroad and lumber operations in those islands. He founded an Anglo-Chinese college in China in 1906. Mr. Johnson returned from the Orient eight years ago and at present has large lumber interests in this State.

TO MOVE HISTORIC FOUNTAIN

San Fernando Ceremony Tomorrow Marks Step in Mission Park Project

Two of Southern California's most famous landmarks will be brought together tomorrow when contractors will move the famous old star fountain near San Fernando to a location near the old San Fernando Mission. Brief ceremonies have been scheduled for 3 p.m., in which city officials and prominent Californians will participate. The fountain is to be moved intact.

The fountain is believed by many to have been constructed by the Indians nearly two centuries ago, before the coming of the Spanish padres, although conflicting stories are told of its origin. It was located about 600 feet from the mission buildings, but was for many years included in the mission grounds.

ESTIMATED WEIGHT

The contractor who has contracted to move the structure estimates the weight at 150 tons, although Charles Brittan, who superintended the work for the Park Commission, expressed the belief that the weight would not exceed fifty tons.

The fountain is in the shape of an eight-pointed star. It has never been definitely established what the design typified. It is approximately twenty feet in diameter. The top portion was constructed of adobe bricks. When the excavations were started it was found that a layer of cement four inches thick formed the floor. Further excavations revealed a lower floor three feet in thickness, and composed of a composition of rocks, boulders, shells and a substance thought to be cement, but of an unusual hardness.

CAMPAIGN BEGUN

In the establishment of the beautiful new mission park, adjacent to the old mission, the Park Commission is making an effort to concentrate the historical relics of that region. The moving of the fountain is one of these steps. Shrubs and cuttings from all of the mission gardens in the State have also been obtained for the gardens of the park.

A campaign is also in progress to restore the old mission to as near its original state as possible. The committee in charge of this work estimates that it will take $100,000 to properly complete the work.

City officials, members of the pioneer societies, the Nations Sons, the Native Daughters and other local civic and social bodies will attend the brief ceremonies tomorrow.

Bobbed Hair is Topic of Great Y. W. Gathering

In celebration of the completion of the new Y.W.C.A. health unit at 941 South Figueroa street, the association directors, members and the various departments and branches are holding a gala program of events extending throughout the entire week.

From 3 to 4 p.m. today class work in swimming will be demonstrated and the new plunge will be shown. Following this event, a pageant will be put on by the girl reserves of the Westlanke and West Adams Presbyterian churches, under the direction of Miss Dorothy Freeman. The pageant will represent seven countries, Siam, China, Japan, India, Philippines, Korea and America.

In the evening the girls from the Blue Triangle Club will hold a contest—for and against—bobbed hair. The contest promises to be both sprightly and keen.

Simple Funeral Conducted for Writer's Wife

Funeral services were conducted yesterday afternoon for Marjorie Jackson, wife of Joseph A. Jackson, director of publicity at Goldwyn studio.

The services were held at the Strother funeral parlors in Hollywood, where many sorrowing friends were gathered. Paul Bern, head of the Goldwyn scenario department, read the funeral service. Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar" was sung. This was followed by a reading by Miss Marion Hunter, who had been Marjorie Jackson's closest friend. The tribute which she read was written by James Tully, the novelist. Paul Bern spoke a short and simple farewell message to the dead.

Marjorie Jackson was born in Grove City, O., twenty-four years ago, and was educated at Oberlin College. Before her marriage she was known on the stage and screen as Marjorie Manning.

HENRY SPENCER, well-known and respected citizen of Watertown, N. Y., who reports he has gained 15 pounds since he began taking Tanlac and always tells his friends how this medicine restored his health.

"My friends often say: 'Never saw you looking better; what are you doing for yourself?' and I always tell them: 'Well, I am taking Tanlac now,'" recently declared Henry Spencer, 415 East St., Watertown, a well-known and highly respected citizen.

"For more than a year," he said, "I seemed to be run down all over. From 160 pounds I fell off to 135, lost my appetite and my stomach gave me no end of trouble. The little I ate caused me to bloat with gas and I was subject to dull, heavy headaches. I had no energy and it was all I could do to get around the house. I had dizzy spells when everything would blur before my eyes and I had to catch myself to keep from falling.

"Well, now, I have gained 15 pounds, feel better in every way and can work as well as ever, since taking Tanlac. I relish what I eat, with a fine appetite, and gas indigestion, headache and dizziness are completely gone. Yes, sir, I just can't say too much for Tanlac."

ASKS RETURN OF WHIPPING POST

Speaker Urges Lashes for Deserting Husbands

Conditions in Women's Jail Quarters Denounced

Council Flayed, Supervisors Praised in Report

BY MYRA NYE

The drastic action of returning to the whipping post as a method of punishment for deserting husbands was vigorously advocated by Mrs. Robert C. Barton, reporting on "Jails" before the Woman's City Club yesterday.

"Wife desertion should be made a felony the same as forgery," declared Mrs. Barton. "At the present time 10 per cent of the women in the City Jail have come from broken homes. They are paying the penalty, when often it is the fault of the deserting husband. This is a matter that the women of this club should attend to and lend their aid to pass laws at the next session of the State Legislature."

Mrs. Barton further reported that no improvements had been made in the women's part of the jail for over a year, that the drug addicts were treated as felons when they should be treated as sick, and that there was no segregation of those afflicted with contagious diseases.

PLEADS FOR BONDS

Reporting on education, Mrs. Helen Matheweon Laughlin, dean of women at the Southern Branch, University of California, made a forceful plea for the passage of the school bonds, which will be voted upon today.

Mrs. Harriet W. Works of the Big Sisters' League reported that the training home on Trinity street had taken care of 156 girls out of jail on probation, forty from Los Feliz, twenty-two upon their own request, and had furnished to these girls and others 7529 meals at an average cost of 9 cents per meal.

Laughter rippled through the audience at the Boston Woman's City Club's strictly exclusive attitude on reciprocal relations. A letter couched in strictly Boston-ian phrases of correctness was read by Mrs. Robert T. Brain, chairman of reciprocal relations, in which the writer from Boston politely but firmly informed the Los Angeles City Club that the Boston club would be compelled to break off relations until the Los Angeles club had built a clubhouse wherein visitors from the sister club of the Hub might be entertained.

INCREASE IN MEMBERS

Mrs. John T. Coleman, the only member of last year's board to be retained upon the newly chosen board, reported the increase for the club during her chairmanship as being greater than ever in the history of the club, which now numbers over 1500 members, with an addition of 786 during the last eight months.

Resplendent in their newest spring frocks, the members of the retiring board and the newly elected officers and directors were each in turn presented by Mrs. J. E. Stearns, who, at the close of the hour, yielded the gavel to Mrs. W. P. Cunningham, who made her initial president's address. Mrs. Stearns was given many lovely flowers presented by Mrs. Viola Hickok in behalf of her board.

Several members of the large public affairs committee were detailed during the past year to visit the different city departments. Among them was the City Council, with Mrs. Cora Deal Lewis as chairman. She advised the club members to keep a closer watch on the activities of the Council, saying that the city board "dilly-dallied" over vital problems. She said they had made the worst possible bargain and paid the highest price for the poorest quarters in selecting new offices at Broadway and Second street.

SUPERVISORS PRAISED

Mrs. Herbert C. G. Fallang was a little kinder to the Supervisors. In fact, she stated as one of the marvels to her the record of the Supervisorial Board a week ago when it disposed of exactly 105 measures by 4 p.m. The Supervisors thanked Mrs. Fallang and her committee for their interest in the work of the board and said they had come to regard this committee as an integral part of their sessions.

Others who gave reports included Mrs. Emma L. Reed, chairman of public affairs; Mrs. Clarence Van Graham, public welfare; Mrs. L. H. Cox, decoration; Mrs. Charles Grover, building and housing; Dr. Jessie A. Russell, public utilities; Mrs. Hickok, publicity; Mrs. Amy Patey, auditor; Mrs. H. V. Davis, election; Mrs. J. D. Taylor, social service.

Republican Study Club

The committee on evening meetings for the Republican Study Club will continue to meet weekly for luncheon at the Broadway Cafe every Wednesday during the campaign of the summer. Mrs. Ida Koverman will preside tomorrow, the luncheon beginning promptly at noon. Business and professional women interested in Republican principles are cordially invited to attend these "Dutch treat" affairs. They are intended particularly for those women engaged in their professions down town.

Southern California Women's Democratic League

The Southern California Women's Democratic League will hold the first of a series of evening meetings Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the new Radio Theater, Hamburger Building, Eighth and Broadway. A lecture on the "Ways and Hows of Radio" will be given by the director of the Hamburger broadcasting service and there will be a concert program and a talk by a prominent Democrat. All persons interested are invited to be present.

Women's Osteopathic Club

Meeting for the last time before the summer vacation the Women's Osteopathic Club will hold a dinner meeting at the Mary Louise Tea Rooms, at 6 p.m. An interesting program is promised, and business connected with the national osteopathic convention, which will meet in Los Angeles July 1, will be discussed.

Soroptimist Club

Miss Gertrude Comstock, professor of public speaking in the college of law, University of Southern California, will address the Soroptimist Club today at 12:30 p.m., Paulais, 729 South Broadway. Her subject will be, "The Woman Citizen."

Several distinguished guests attending the International convention of Rotary clubs will be presented, and those who will receive include Dr. Veturia C. Armstrong, Dr. Lillian M. Grandmason and Mrs. Althea Gilbert.

The Soroptimist Club is an organization of women, which parallels in its activities, and is similar to the Rotary Club.

Exercise and Confabulation

Just as it is important for those who are overweight to exercise, in order to accelerate their circulation and bring fresh blood to the tissues, increase the respiration and better oxygenate the blood and tissues, to help the removal of waste matter, to activate the torpid glandular organs, etc., etc., so is it important for you who are underweight to exercise. Only in your case you should not do so much of it.

And the same setting-up exercises are just as good for you as for the F. F. F. We are just now beginning to realize the importance of a daily amount of some good strenuous exercise for all of us—fat, thin, and the rare normals.

The best kind of exercise, everyone knows, is the play exercise—tennis, golf, basketball, swimming, and so on—but not all can avail themselves of those forms. However, we can all do the standard setting-up exercises, and we should do them daily.

There is one exercise, however, that you thin individuals should sedulously avoid. And that is talking too much. Talking too much I would not say was a habit that was confined to underweight individuals, but I warn you against it specially because it uses so much of your energy.

Avoid talking much and never talk of your ailments or your troubles if you have any. Who was it said that a bore was a person who, when you ask him How are you? immediately begins to tell you. The salutation, How are you? is not intended as a clinical opening and there is only one proper type of answer to it, and it is this: "I am fine; how are you?"

You need not consider that you are prevaricating when you say that, even though you are ill, for you are fine if you say you are. And should it happen that you should depart this mortal realm soon after, you will be spoken of as some game guy! "Why, just a few days ago I met him and while he must have been suffering terribly, he told me he was fine! I call him a good sport!"

Of course there are people who earn their living by listening to what ails others. Tell your troubles to some of that profession when you must. And pay them for it, they will listen better. (I am not in private practice. Sorry!) But refrain from holding an autopsy over your feelings to anyone else.

This advice applies to other than the underweighters equally well. I read recently of a man who had reached a ripe old age who, on being asked to what he attributed his longevity, responded that he attributed it to the fact that when he had anything the matter with him he had never told his friends about it and thus he had escaped having to try all of the remedies they would suggest.

While we are on the subject of talking, let me also speak of another error which the thin as well as the otherwise would do well to avoid. This error is sticking too closely to the truth in matters of no moment. For instance, if you say you went to some place on the second of April and you happen to think you are not sure whether it was the second or not, do not begin like this:

"No, it wasn't the second, it was the third. Was it the third? Let me see. The first I was home and the second, let me see, what did I do on the second? I can't remember. My memory is not so good as it once was. Oh, now I know! It was the second and not the third after all, for I remember I planned to go to the fair on the third. Yes, it was the second. No, come to think of it ..."

Gosh! Who cares whether it was the second or third? I don't. I know that. It might be on the fourth or even on the fifth and make no difference in my youthful existence. Learn to say "about such a time," "about such a day" and "about such an age." Do you get me?

You have all met the voluble accurate-to-distinction confabulator who goes on detail after detail, one detail calling up another, and you feel that you would like to D— something if you can't escape.

Please! Don't think I am implying you are one of these. But if you are, will you reform?

It may seem to you that this thing I am speaking about is a minor detail in itself, but as a physician I tell you that it is not. There is a fearful lot of energy used in talking, and those who are underweights must learn to save energy in every direction.

Sleep and rest as much as you can, of course, and have all the oxygen available. If you cannot sleep out-of-doors, maybe you can place your bed to a window, and you can wear a nightcap if the wind blows in on your head. Milk diet for gaining is wonderful. I shall take that up at another time.

EBELL CLUB NAMES NEW PRESIDENT

Mrs. Grantland Seaton Long Elected by Huge Vote; Mortgage Burned

Mrs. Grantland Seaton Long was elected president of the Ebell Club yesterday by a virtually unanimous vote. She succeeds Mrs. Charles Hulbert Toll, who has served the club two terms.

To serve with Mrs. Long the following were chosen: First vice-president, Mrs. Oscar A. Trippet; second vice-president, Mrs. Elmer-son Clyde Gates; third vice-president, Mrs. Leslie R. Hewitt; fourth vice-president, Mrs. John Stearns Thayer; recording secretary, Mrs. Birney Donnell; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Edward Crumley; treasurer, Mrs. Lewis Clark Carlisle; general curator, Mrs. A. B. Ross, and directors, Mrs. Toll and Mrs. Edward A. Tufts.

The sharpest contest came for the second director, Mrs. Tufts winning over Mrs. A. Bennett Cooke by a narrow margin, with Mrs. Toll a unanimous choice. Another close race was for the general curatorship, Mrs. Charles D. Burt falling only a few votes behind Mrs. Ross.

A happy ceremony occurred at the meeting during election time yesterday, when the mortgage upon the valuable corner lot next to the clubhouse, Figueroa and Eighteenth street, was burned, as well as all notes received from members toward paying for the lot.

SPARKS FIGHTS DOG MUZZLING AS CRUEL

PLEA FOR REPEAL OF NEW ORDINANCE FAILS BY SINGLE VOTE

"I'll give $50 to anyone who can show me a dog taking a drink with one of those wire basket muzzles on," declared Councilman Sparks at yesterday's session of the City Council in moving the repeal of the dog-muzzling ordinance recently enacted. "As a matter of justice to the dogs and to the public, I want to see this ordinance repealed. There is no dog muzzle that is humane."

Councilman Sparks's motion was seconded by Councilman Wheeler, and received four votes. Acting President Mallard ruled that five votes were necessary, and so the motion failed of adoption.

"I have been bitten scores of times," said Councilman Sparks, "and nothing ever happened to me. I was not hurt. A dog gets thirsty and runs along the street, boys stone him, the cry of 'mad dog' is raised, and crowds start in pursuit of the poor, frightened dog. Most of this 'mad dog' talk is pure scare."

Dr. Austin B. Byles yesterday sent to the City Council the suggestion that dogs be vaccinated against rabies and that all dogs so vaccinated be given a special tag showing that the dog is immune when its owner pays its new license for the year beginning July 1.

HAYAKAWAS LEAVE

WILL REMAIN IN JAPAN FOR THREE MONTHS

By Grace Kingsley

A trip to Japan occupying three months is the present plan of Sessue Hayakawa, famous Japanese actor, and his wife, known professionally as Tsuru Aoki. The pair will leave Thursday for San Francisco and thence to the Orient, according to their announcement of yesterday.

Following the return of Mr. and Mrs. Hayakawa to this country, Mr. Hayakawa will leave at once for New York, where he will begin rehearsals for the play in which he is to appear on Broadway, under the Shubert management next season. The play is a modern one of New York life, and Mr. Hayakawa's role is one which will afford him every opportunity for fine dramatic work.

During the stay of the Hayakawas in Japan, Mrs. Hayakawa will visit her aunt, the famous Japanese actress, Sada Yacca, who was the first Japanese woman ever to go on the stage, as before her advent men invariably played women's roles. It was due to her influence that Mrs. Hayakawa went on the stage. Mrs. Hayakawa expects to remain at her Hollywood home in California during her husband's stay in New York, though she will travel East to see his play.

Mr. Hayakawa will do no professional work in Japan beyond conferring with some of the universities regarding the translation of certain famous occidental plays into the Japanese language. This will be his first trip back to his home in thirteen years. During this time he has gained for himself a unique place on the American stage and screen. One of his early efforts was a translation of some Shakespearean plays into Japanese.

MARGA WALDRON STAR AT ORPHEUM

It's often pretty hard to tell what a classic dancer is getting at in her interpretations. Two kicks to the right and two to the left don't usually establish in the minds of her beholders the fact, say, that she is in love with a moonbeam, or any of the aesthetic subtlety of the sort. Those kicks remain for the laymen just kicks, that's all.

But Marga Waldron, headlining down at the Orpheum this week, brings so much spirit and drama and vivid pantomime to her interpretations that your own spirit, your understanding, respond instantly to her meanings. Her Tragedy Dance, in which she interprets the death of a captive Princess in the harem of her father's enemy, is daring, brilliant, full of vitality and pathos, and leaves you fairly gasping with its poignancy. Miss Waldron's technique, while faultless, she makes secondary to her drama, and this is as it should be. Staging and numbers are all beautiful.

George Halprin, pianist with Miss Waldron, is unassuming in manner, but his work is brilliant and colorful, and he had his audience with him every minute.

One doesn't have to hear the old minstrels to hear the old jokes; but one does have to hear them in order to get the old songs and see the old buck-and-wing dances and jigs as they used to be. The Minstrel Monarchs, Messrs. John Gorman, Charles Udell, Billy Golden, Charles Whyte and Billy Tata, young fellows of 40 and upward, get by on a lot more than sympathy. Their act is delightful entertainment.

Use all the adjectives you like to describe James Doyle and Evelyn Cavanaugh in "The Lobby." We used them all when the act was here before, a couple of weeks ago, to give you an idea of their smartness and charm.

Closing the party are Bert and Flo Mayo in an aerial act, neatly done, so high in the air it gives you a crick in the neck.

Opening are Hall and Dexter, a snappy couple, who kid, dance, sing, and put everything over with a bff. Remaining over are David Schooler and Olcott and Mary Ann.

WINNER UNWINDS AT TALLY'S BROADWAY

It is beginning to look as though people liked animal actors better than human ones. At any rate that canine tragedian, Strongheart, continues to draw them, in "The Silent Call," this week at Tally's Broadway, following twelve weeks at Miller's.

Of course, there are some human actors, including John Bowers and others, and these did what was given them to do most creditably; but it is Strongheart who seemed to draw the gravy of the plot. Strongheart loves and hates much after the fashion of human heroes; he acquires a mate and offspring, and the persecution and tragic death of these latter lend much of the drama to the story. Just as the human hero pursues the villain and kills him, so Strongheart wreaks a horrible vengeance on the wrongdoers in "The Silent Call."

The appeal of "The Silent Call" seems inexhaustable indeed. If you did not see it at Miller's, be sure and see it this week at Tally's.

IRVING CUMMINGS IN HUSKY MELLER

For the 19,999th time a baby girl is stolen by the Indians on the plains; for the 19,999th time the foster father is a squaw man and a crook, and for the 20,999th time the baby girl grows into maidenhood and consents to marry another crook to keep her foster father from being hanged for his crimes.

It's all to be seen down at Clune's Broadway this week in "Man From Hell's River," and this even though James Oliver Curwood is the author of the story. Irving Cummings is the star, and does some very fine work, and the photography in the snow country of the North is great.

Wallace Beery is the villain who still pursues her, and Eva Novak is the beautiful pursued. The villain gets his wicked, leering eyes on Eva while she is yet a very young flapper, and tells her foster pa he must have the gal, or he will have the law on him for what he knows about him, etc., etc.

But Eva had her own ideas. She married him, to be sure, but when, on the wedding night, he cursed her and flung her to the floor right after the ceremony, she decided to be a kissless bride and fled to her true love, Irving Cummings, handsome in his uniform. We didn't blame her. The two fled in dog teams, with the villain after them.

Harold Lloyd's old comedies somehow look awfully good these days. We didn't used to appreciate him perhaps. "Follow the Crowd," a reissue, is very funny indeed. A travelogue showing tropical islands in the South Pacific adds a very fine touch to the bill.

FILM DIRECTOR WILL TAKE TRIP TO EUROPE

"REQUEST" PROGRAM HIT AT CALIFORNIA

Containing two numbers included "by request" of patrons, this week's musical program at the California Theater is meeting with a reception that amply justifies Carli Elinor's bit of diplomacy. It is always pleasant to be able to hear what you asked for at a concert and when you happen to have asked for something good there is also a sense of self-appreciation which sharpens the enjoyment. So there is psychology in these "request" programs, as well as art.

The two selections which received the greatest number of requests from California patrons are the "Tannhauser" Overture, and "Air Louis XIII," by Ghys—two numbers in very decided contrast. The former is too well known to need description, the latter is an airy and delicate gavotte with an old-fashioned flavor and a dainty artificiality.

Claire Windsor,

Much Comedy on Tap at Hillstreet

An artistic assemblage of dances, introduced in a novel fashion and interspersed with tenor solos by Walter J. Preston, headlines the Hillstreet program this week. The work done by the Wright dancers is excellent, showing both unusual ability in several individuals and thorough training in the whole company. The star of the act is unquestionably Helen Pachaud in her American Indian number, which is strikingly unlike anything of this general sort the reviewer remembers having seen in the past. Nita Sussoff is also featured and puts over some interesting variations on the Egypto-Oriental theme.

Jimmy Lucas with Francene in "Vampires and Fools" starts a travesty that rapidly drifts into 'nut' comedy. The jokes are very rapid, and Jimmy is a hard working boy who deserves a lot of his audience. The pep which is so conspicuous in his work recalls Tom Patricola of happy memory, though the act is completely and entirely Jimmy's.

More comedy is furnished by Fenton and Fields, a black-face team, who also dance. They have one priceless gag in the canary-cat-bulldog episode, and are popular with everybody.

Roberts and Clark present what they call "A Courtship in Song," a collection of melodies twisted around a slight theme, and made into a very attractive whole. Marie and Ann Clark do not turn out to be as funny as one expects from their make-up and angle of approach. Still, they are funny. And Harry La Vail and his sister are fast trapeze workers with several that are both new and startling. So much for the vaudeville.

The photoplay feature, "Bobbed Hair," stars Wanda Hawley in a flapperish role with a Greenwich Village setting. It is also funny. In fact, the Hillstreet program is good for the blues this week, everything except the Wright dancers being either pure comedy or infected with laughs in some department.

Showmanship Lacking in King Revue

Whether this is a cause for complaint or not is impossible to say, as one knows what the thing would have been if it had been different. But the reviewer admits having been disappointed upon discovering that the glimps of the "innards" of the auditorium stage only lasted long enough to get a set built that would conceal them.

From that point the show progresses much as usual, except that last night it distinctly lacked pep in comparison with several previous efforts of the King Company. Perhaps the advent of the Rotarians and the consequent lack of a matinee performance at which to warm up were partly to blame for the general dragginess. One would like to think so, for there is good stuff scattered through "Behind the Scenes." But it's all excessively casual and lacking in apparent intention.

An instance of this was the coquette dance by Alice Morris, which failed of effect because it ran off into something else without climax or pause, and no one knew whether it was over or not until it was too late to do anything about it. There was, as in this case, a lot of more good material wasted. King and Dunbar themselves failed to get the proper pretexts for their comedy, and though Clair Starr and Bessie Hill worked hard and well, there wasn't much for them to do.

In plain English, what "Behind the Scenes" lacked last night was showmanship. It is to be hoped that this defect will be remedied during the week, for it is repeated, the thing contains good material. But, good material or not, it is bound to flop terribly hard unless something drastic is done to it in the way of surgery.

SUPER-BRILLIANT

By Edwin Schallert

If I should happen to meet anybody today who had been at the performance of "The Circle" last night at the Mason, the first question I should expect to be asked is, "How old is Mrs. Leslie Carter?" Faithfully and professionally, I should endeavor to answer the question. I should at the same time be saying to myself that I hadn't the least idea. I don't believe that Mrs. Leslie Carter herself knows. But for the benefit of the inquisitive I would remark in somewhat prophetic style—several weeks of years, at least.

Strange to say in the instance of Mrs. Carter and John Drew, with whom she is starring in "The Circle," the first question that concerns us is the matter of their ages. It's a topic that has reason to be engrossing, because it seems so many years since Mrs. Carter first played in "Zaza" and John Drew first appeared in—

Well, I'm not pretending to write a history of the American stage. It would have to be if one started. At least, of a quarter century of that stage. And why history when "The Circle," which they are just completing, is so inviting?

By many odds, and a lot of them, the appearance of Mrs. Carter and Mr. Drew together is the most brilliant event that occurs to the mind during the whole dramatic season. It marks art's re-establishment on the plane of aristocracy.

The stage was resplendent with two such star presences. They reiterated with vibrating force the effect that such combinings as Henry Miller and Blanche Bates, among others, have had upon us. The result was not to be measured comparatively, however. This seemingly outshone all others because of its newness, and the associations which are linked with the two celebrities.

One was naturally somewhat breathless over the gowns and the affections of Mrs. Carter, her glorious superficiality in her role; the reality and subtle depth of her art. One was delighted with the familiar unctuousness of Mr. Drew, with his adroit characterizing of an English nobleman fallen by the way. Such protraits can only be accomplished by the great.

More than all one was fascinated by the mingling of these two resplendent personalities in a play that is frank, daring and vigorous from the pen of Somerset Maugham, who, since "The Moon and Sixpence," has shown his ability to shirk nothing in the way of fatefulness when it concerns life.

"The Circle" is an example of a skillfully developed dramatic motif. It goes directly from a definite starting point toward a conclusion that is definite only in the mind of the dramatist, but for which the title is the clew. The play is utterly English, of course, but the viewpoint once adjusted, it is followed step by step with the highest interest.

It is not a play, however, that could be given satisfactorily by any but such a stellar combination as played it here last night, nor by other than a supporting cast such as they brought.

"The Circle" is the story of two women whose love is greater than their sense of conventional loyalty. One has lived through her sorrows and her joys; the other is just ready to start the pursuit. The older strives to compel the younger to relinquish, but the younger—

The plot as such is virtually compressed into a single act. The rest is the delightful repartee, English repartee, to be sure, but you'll enjoy it.

The playing by Mr. Drew and Mrs. Carter is needless to state, captivating. They are perfectly cast, and that is all that is necessary. The rest is safe when this happens.

Of the rest, space permits only the briefest mention. Ernest Lawford was in particular capital as the ex-husband, whom time had given a proper perspective on his matrimonial debacle. Lawford gave the role with the finest suavity and repression. He got over everything by doing almost nothing. Betty Linley seemed not always to realize the type she was portraying, ever though she tried zealously to encompass the emotionalism of the part. It was a pleasure, however, to see this clever young actress, who is already known here, in such good company. John Halliday and Robert Rendell are deserving of especial credit, among others.

You're bound to delight in "The Circle" with two such stars as it presents.

Premier Not Necessarily a Feature

Even in this day of the motion pictures it seems rather a mistake for a theater showing a good vaudeville program, and a photoplay which is merely highly colored trade-goods to feature the latter. But this is just what Pantages has done this week, apparently having been misled into thinking "The Worldly Madonna" a good picture because it has not previously been shown in this part of the world.

Tastes, of course, are beyond accounting for, as the old lady said when she kissed her favorite cow, but to the reviewer, "The Cinderella Revue" looked like the best bet at Pantages yesterday. It is at least a somewhat piquant variant on a theme that is perennially attractive; the music and costumes are both pretty, and there are new twists here and there.

Wilson and McEvoy present a sketch, the scene of which is laid in a newspaper office. It may be said of this offering that what it lacks in truth to nature it makes up for in entertainment value.

Beside these things, there are Nelson and Madison in a rube and girl act; Duval and Symonds in a musical bit called "Their First Quarrel;" Ed Gillette in a novelty act, and the Four Erettos, acrobatic humorists.

There are two sisters in "The Worldly Madonna;" both played by Miss Young. One is a novice in a convent (called a "novitiate" in the subtitles, by the way;) the other is a singer and dancer in a cabaret.

The basic situation is an exchange of lives by the two, when the entertainer finds herself accused of a murder. In other words, the cabaret beauty flies to the convent for sanctuary, dons her sister's robes and remains there; while the novice goes back to face the music and quite uncomplainingly goes to jail for her sister's supposed crime.

It sounds terribly mixed, and it is mixed. Moreover, one is also inclined to take violent exception to the title. The word "madonna" has come to mean "mother" in the minds of most of us, and there is no motherhood in "The Worldly Madonna."

"The Worldly Novice" would be more accurate in one way, but as she isn't really worldly, only pretending to be, this fails to satisfy. Perhaps "From Convent to Cabaret," or the "Perils of a Novice" would described best and the rights are hereby freely offered if anyone wants them.

"It was but last night—"

"Kidnaped by that vaurien Chicoq—that pig of a—"

"She is gone, and we don't know where they have taken her!"

KANE GETS A CLEW

What little there was to learn Kane finally got. Chicoq, it seemed, had spied upon them until convinced that the American was a dangerous rival; but instead of putting him out of the way, Chicoq had assembled three or four—and had seized Andree just as she was turning into the court from the Rue des Abbesses. The girl had fought like a wild cat, but they had thrust her into an ancient fiacre and had rattled away down the hill.

Kane was not unduly surprised at the abduction of Andree; nor was he particularly alarmed. He did not believe that Chicoq would seek to harm her at once. He would secrete her in some obscure haunt, and try to force himself upon her. Only in case she proved obstinate would he attempt violence.

He got the two midinettes calmed down at last. They were puzzled at Kane's ice-cold demeanor.

In his heart there seethed a flame of hatred that would have amply satisfied them could they have guessed it. He took them to supper at the Royale, in the Place Pigalle, and was amused to note that the disaster had not noticeably affected their juvenile appetites.

They were not afraid, they told him, to stay alone in their attic. Indeed, nothing would have induced them to move; for they felt that in some way Andree might be able to get word to them.

Leaving them at their court, Kane plunged down the steep hill, his mind busily at work on the problem of locating Andree. He went directly to the "Mill of the Halt Gods," and flashed a signal to the alert Victor, who as soon as possible slided over to his table.

"Bien, monsieur!"

For Kane, who could think of nothing whatever to be doing, it was a long time to wait. The thought of Andree a prisoner in the filthy hands of Chicoq's gang was intolerable. He drank more, wandering from cafe to brasserie, than he had ever done save once before; but his high nervous tension threw off the alcohol.

Shortly before 2 o'clock his taxi-auto was drawn up a discreet block or two below the mill, and from its dark interior he watched with somber eyes. Ten minutes after the hour the little chasseur, now in shabby street clothes, passed swiftly out, looked keenly up and down, and then sauntered with a fine nonchalance, hands in pockets, and naughtily puffing a rank caporal, down past where Kane waited.

As he came opposite, the door, held unlatched, flew open. A long, sinewy arm shot out, strong fingers secured a firm grip on Victor's collar, and he was snaked inside so unexpectedly that he dropped his precious cigarette, which he had treasured up only one-quarter smoked, from the table of a departing guest. Simultaneously the cab, its engine having been kept racing, shot ahead. It was as pretty an imitation of an abduction as one would care to see; and a sleepy gendarme down the street rubbed his eyes and wondered if he had dozed off on duty.

"I want you to go to work for me, Victor. Leave the place you are in, and go to your sisters. I shall feel safer to have a man with them at night." The loose buttons on Victor's waistcoat threatened to leave their moorings. "You are to work for me, and be paid by me. I expect you to keep your eyes and ears open, and pick up whatever scraps of news you can in such resorts as Chicoq's crowd hangs out in. It's no use my doing this—I wouldn't understand it if they were telling the whole story at the next table to mine. Get the idea?"

Victor assured him he did.

"And I'll come round every night to find what you've picked up," he concluded. "If it's very important, beat it over to my hotel and send up this card. Here!"

He thrust a scribbled pasteboard into the boy's hand, gave him a little sheaf of notes, and let him out at the church of Notre Dame de Lorette.

The next two or three days were an inferno to Kane. The feeling of helplessness was hardest of all to bear.

Victor had no news to report. He knew perfectly well—none better — where to loiter for any chance hint; but nothing is more secretive than your Apache. Fear and self-interest, two most vital impulses, bound the clan into a brotherhood of silence. The fact of Andree's abduction was cafe chatter all through the quarter. There was plenty of speculation hinted at inside information.

One morning there was brought to Kane, with his rolls and coffee, a letter which he read with a little sense of shame that he had so completely forgotten its sender. It was the briefest of notes, asking him to call at his early convenience, and signed, "Dorothea W."

"H-m! Not 'M.' it appears," commented Kane.

Directly after luncheon he crossed the Seine, proceeding down the Boulevard Raspail to the Rue de Babylone. Following the directions in Dorothea's letter, he presently arrived at the Street of the Little Flower-Pots, a name which should be sacred to ideal romance and perpetual honeymoon, but was not. Little flowerpots there were, to be sure; but it was a street of little—and underpaid—clerks, of prosperous ouvriers, of small and cheaply furnished apartments.

News of Ships and Sailings in Pacific Ports

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

VANCOUVER, June 5.—With one propeller blade lost as the result of striking a floating log while steaming up the sound from Seattle to this point, the Furness Prince steamship Eastern Prince, Capt. Naylor, is anchored in the stream here today. The ship will probably 14 repaired here. She has 400 tons of scrap and some lumber and hay to take on here and will then go to Seattle to load 1300 tons of pulp for the Far East.

The Canadian Australian Royal Mail Line steamship Makura, Capt. Crawford, sailed from Honolulu at 5 p.m. on Monday for Vancouver and is due next Saturday.

The Java Pacific steamship Tjikadang will be in Tacoma with 2000 tons of tea from Java and will return to Java from here, via San Francisco.

The steamship Ed Kingsley is in from San Francisco. The steamship Admiral Dewey sailed for San Francisco via the sound this morning. The steamship Canadian Observer is in from California.

The steamship Honduras has sailed for Europe, via Union Bay and San Francisco.

The Union Steamship Company steamer Catala arrived here from the first voyage this spring. She has been to Knight's Inlet and parts.

TACOMA, June 5.—When the steamship H. F. Alexander arrived at Tacoma July 10, the vessel will be given the biggest reception ever accorded a vessel entering this port if plans now under way by the steamship company do not miscarry. Word that the steamer would arrive here July 10 was received by local management today. The steamer, with President H. F. Alexander on board, is now on her way to this coast from New York. Prior to coming here the vessel will make one trip to the Hawaiian Islands.

It is said that the vessel will make Tacoma at 11 a.m. and sail on her first voyage to San Francisco and other California ports in the evening. The vessel will be open to Tacoma guests and friends of President Alexander up to 1 p.m. During this time the vessel will be inspected and Tacoma people will have the pleasure of going over the largest and fastest ship in the American merchant marine.

The H. F. Alexander was formerly the Great Northern, and later the Columbia, in the naval service. During the war the vessel was in the transport service and made a record in carrying troops to France. The vessel can thus be a proud ship for Tacoma to honor. When the vessel is placed on the run from Puget Sound to California, the Admiral Line will give the quickest steamship serving ever had between these ports.

The Hewick Hall and Steel Navigator of the Isthmian Line are due at Tacoma the latter part of the week to load for east coast ports. The Hewick Hall will have in her freight copper from the Tacoma smelter.

The President Viarch has been scheduled to sail at 10 a.m., June 8, for San Francisco, will not leave until 2 p.m. of that day. The change has been made so that teachers desiring to go to California can take passage on the steamship. It was found by the recent excursion that the regular sailing hour of the vessel would not be entirely satisfactory to a large number of teachers who desired to go on the vessel.

The San Diego, from Los Angeles and San Francisco, arrived at the Terminal dock this morning. She will load lumber at the Puget Sound and Willamette mills for California.

To load copper and flour at Tacoma, the Admiral Line steamer Admiral McAllister arrived at the Tacoma smelter this morning from Manila, via usual ports. From the smelter the McAllister is to shift Tuesday to the Tacoma Grain Company elevator to load flour. The steamer is due to sail for Manila and the Orient from Tacoma the afternoon of June 8. The President McAllister was formerly the Kentucky State and is in command of Capt. Gerald Jennings.

The Tokyo, Maru of the N. Y. K. Line loading at the St. Paul mill is to sail for the Orient, tomorrow morning.

Indications are that the O. S. K. Line will have three vessels in port tomorrow afternoon and Wednesday. The Himalaya Maru is due tomorrow from Bellingham and Seattle while the Manila Maru from the Orient is listed to arrive and the Arizona Maru is to sail from here Wednesday for Oriental ports.

W. P. Lipscomb was today elected president of the Seattle Port Commission, succeeding Dr. H. Christensen, who resigns from the commission. Col. George F. Lemaire was elected secretary, and George F. Cotterill, newly elected member of the board, took office.

CAPTAIN OF TENNESSEE PROMOTED

Commander Leigh Named to High Bureau Post as Dreadnaught Sails

When the big dreadnaught Tennessee, sistership of the flagship California, sailed from its base at Los Angeles Harbor yesterday for San Francisco, via Santa Monica, its forward decks were more or less shrouded in gloom. For, just before sailing time official orders came that will deprive the Tennessee of Capt. Richard H. Leigh, her commander.

Capt. Leigh, one of the best-known captains in the Navy, has been ordered to Bureau of Navigation, Washington, where he is to become assistant to Admiral Thomas Washington, chief of the bureau. The order comes following the completion of the customary two years of sea duty and is in the way of a promotion, the berth of assistant chief of the Bureau of Navigation being regarded as one of the best appointments in the service.

Capt. Leigh took command of the Tennessee on June 3, 1920 and brought the vessel around to the Pacific Coast, via the Panama Canal when it was detached from the Atlantic Fleet and assigned to duty with the fighting forces of the Pacific. He is 52 years old. He was appointed to the Naval Academy on Sept. 6, 1887, from Mississippi. His present rank of captain was given him May 22, 1917. His successor as commanding officer of the Tennessee has not been named by the Navy Department, but it is expected that orders establishing the date of Capt. Leigh's transfer to Washington and containing the name of his successor, will be issued this week.

Shipment is Consigned from Eastern Mills; Luckenbach Ship Has Cargoes

A total of 9000 tons of freight will be handled out of Los Angeles Harbor by four steamers of the Luckenbach Steamship Company during the first four days of this week, it was announced yesterday by John McLaurin, local representative of the freight line. Two of the ships, the Edward Luckenbach and the Jacob Luckenbach, are in port from east coast and Gulf ports. Today the Pleiades and the Andrea F. Luckenbach are expected in from the north to load out for east coast ports.

Because of congestion at Pier One the Jacob Luckenbach, which arrived yesterday, is obliged to lie at anchor in the outer harbor until today before she can unload her cargo consigned to this port. Chief among the 3500 tons to be discharged here are pig iron, agricultural implements, syrup and molasses.

Four thousand tons of the Edward Luckenbach's cargo consigned to this port is from Philadelphia and New York. Of this amount 2000 tons is news print consigned to Los Angeles newspapers from Portland, Me., the first big shipment of paper from the east coast since mills in the Pacific Northwest have been unable to meet the demand. Similar shipments of paper will be made regularly on Luckenbach liners during the present summer, it is said.

Steamship Line Negotiates for New Freighters

Representatives of the Luckenbach Steamship Company are engaged in making a survey of the shipping Board freighter Eastern Soldier at Puget Sound with a view to purchasing the vessel for the company's regular intercoastal freight service. Two other big freighters, the Eastern Trader and the Cape May also are being surveyed with a view to purchasing them, local officials of the company announced yesterday.

With the purchase of these three vessels the Luckenbach company will have acquired a total of nine additions to its big freight fleet since January 1 of this year. It is the plan of the company to have twenty-two vessels in the intercoastal service with a sailing every week. Thursday will be sailing day and Tuesday arrival day for the Luckenbach freighters at the local port under the new plan, it was announced.

NAVY NOTES

When the newly reconditioned Shipping Board vessel Preston arrives at Los Angeles Harbor to relieve the Connecticut as flagship of the Pacific Fleet base force, she will be in command of Commander Daniel P. Mannix, one of the best known naval commanders on the Atlantic Coast. Commander Mannix, who holds a war appointment as captain in the Navy until January 3 of this year, was formerly in command of the Third Naval District on the East Coast.

Lieut.-Commander Louis F. Tilthoff, who, since the date she was commissioned, has been one of the officers of the fleet flagship California at Los Angeles Harbor, is to be detached from that vessel and placed in command of the naval supply ship Vega. The Vega will sail from San Francisco for Cavite, P. I., on the 20th inst.

A new officer in the Pacific Fleet submarine operative force is Ensign Donald R. Osborn, who has been detached from duty with the submarine S-21, one of Uncle Sam's newest subs, and ordered to report aboard the S-4 of the local flotilla.

The naval collier Nanawak has been ordered to sail from San Diego on the 14th inst., on the fourth voyage to the Pacific Fleet base in the Panama Canal Zone. She will call at Los Angeles Harbor en route.

IS YOUR BABY WORTH IT?

The World's Leading Specialists on Human Nutrition, Dietetics and Infant Feeding Say:

YOU OWE IT TO BABY to read these authoritative facts from famous specialists, proving beyond question that certified milk from Holstein cows is

The World's Safest Milk!

"Certified Holstein Milk Most Perfect of All Milks"

Dr. Thomas M. Rotch, M. D., Professor of Pediatrics at Harvard University, and world's recognized authority on infant feeding, says: "From the medical point of view the Holstein milk is exactly what we find best for infant feeding. The Holstein cow represents the most perfect milking animal known, having every characteristic suitable for baby's milk supply."

Excessive Fat and Calories of Other Milks (Guernsey or Jersey) are Dangerous

Dr. Chapman, of the Babies Ward, Postgraduate Hospital, New York, speaking of high butter fat in other milks (Guernsey or Jersey,) says: "The use of milk of this grade of richness is likely to be followed by digestive disturbances when fed to infants, both by reason of Excessive Caloric Value and formation of large fat containing curds."

Excessive Fat in Other Milks (Guernsey or Jersey) Checks Growth and Development

Dr. Charles Douglass, Professor of Children's Diseases at Detroit College of Medicine, speaking of the high butter fat in cow's milk (Guernsey and Jersey) writes in the Journal of the American Medical Association. "There is no food which will so completely check the growth and development of an infant when imperfectly digested. It requires less than ½ of 1% of imperfectly digested fat in an infant's diet to prevent it from growing, to disturb sleep, to destroy its color and pave the way for nervousness and other forms of malnutrition."

Holstein Milk Is Incomparable, Prevents Summer Complaint in Infants

Dr. N. B. Pantier, Dietetic Specialist of Illinois, says: "Holstein milk is so far superior to other cows' milk (Guernsey or Jersey) that there is no comparison. I have noticed children that have been fed on good, clean Holstein milk have made much better gains, and also had less summer bowel trouble than children fed on other cows' milk" (Guernsey or Jersey.)

Holstein Milk Has More Nutriment; Best for Adults, Children and Infants

Lamson Allen, M.D., renowned authority on Dietetics, of Worcester, Mass., says: "After a careful investigation of the study of milk, I find that the Holstein Cows' milk contains more nutriment than that of any other breed of cows. It has the largest element of vitality in its make up. This superior value applies to the adult, convalescent, the healthy, as well as the infant, in equal ratio."

CAPTURED—AND NO SHOT FIRED

Two Now Quorum, is Sequel to His "Strike"

Colleagues' New Rule May Start a "Scalping"

Marshal Foch is some strategist, 'tis said, but he could have learned a lesson or two in modern warfare yesterday afternoon had he been in attendance at the City Hall when the Board of Public Utilities held its meeting, and President King and Commissioner Leeds conducted a flank movement and a sudden offensive on the position held by Commissioner Kennedy, and in the absence of the latter, captured it without firing a shot.

The struggle, which has been going on for some time between the three commissioners, has been closely watched at the City Hall, with Commissioner Kennedy thundering fourteen-inch verbal shells at President King and Commissioner Leeds and the two latter commissioners replying with mustard gas bombs.

Commissioner Kennedy recently went on strike and refused to function as a commissioner when he found that Commissioner Leeds was absent. "All three commissioners or no meeting," and Commissioner Kennedy walked off the field, winner of the day's engagement. There was no meeting.

SPRING A COUP

When Secretary Payne called the board to order yesterday, Commissioner Kennedy was absent so the other two commissioners stole a march on Commissioner Kennedy by adopting a new set of rules, which provide that two members shall constitute a quorum, and then, so as to insure the holding of a meeting in case Commissioner Kennedy again went on strike, the new rules provide that one member shall be empowered to hold hearings, as do single members of the State Railroad Commission, but it was further provided that no order issued by one member holding a meeting shall be legal until it has been approved by two members.

In other words, under the new rules, President King and Commissioner Kennedy, let us say, appear for a meeting. Commissioner Kennedy, seeing that there are only two present, refuses to function as a commissioner. "Very well," President King will say, "I'll go ahead and hold a hearing." And he will. Then he and Commissioners Leeds and Kennedy will, at a future meeting, discuss the matters at issue and if Commissioners Leeds and Kennedy agree with President King as to the soundness of President King's opinion on the matters he has heard, either or both of the commissioners can sign the order with President King and the order is an order.

SCALPING FEARED

The next regular meeting of the board is scheduled for next Monday afternoon, when it is expected Commissioner Kennedy will be present and start in to verbally scalp President King and Commissioner Leeds.

Commissioner Kennedy has already complained to Mayor Cryer that Commissioners King and Leeds will not work in harmony with him, and it is rumored that when President King's term expires in January the Mayor will not reappoint him. Which will be one of Commissioner Kennedy's answers to the action taken yesterday.

QUARANTINE PLACED ON BOUNDARY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

EL CENTRO, June 5. — Dr. L. C. House, Imperial county health officer, today placed a strict quarantine on the Mexican boundary between 6 p.m. and 6 a.m. to remain in effect while smallpox prevails at Mexicali. This order applies to all persons, whether vaccinated or not.

On petition of Calexico City Trustees and the Chamber of Commerce, the U. S. Public Health Service has closed the border at all hours to persons not vaccinated. This order requires exhibition of vaccination scars as well as certificates. Sale of certificates began promptly as soon as the order became effective.

Chief of Police Worthington today detailed six special officers to guard the line and also appealed to the Imperial county Sheriff's office for authorization of additional deputies if required. Doctors' offices at Calexico are reported as swamped with applicants anxious to be vaccinated in order to cross the line. Nearly 1000 were so qualified between noon and midnight after the quarantine went into effect.

Deposition of Bankers Asked in Wife's Suit

The suit for separate maintenance of Mrs. Marie S. Crisp will have to mark time while a deposition is obtained from the Guaranty Trust Company of New York to determine how much community property her husband—Donald Crisp, a cinema director and actor—possesses. Her motion asking for an examination of the accounts was granted by Judge Crail yesterday.

Mrs. Crisp, in the complaint, charges her husband with cruelty and cites one occasion when, she says, he tore down the wall pictures in a rage and ordered her to leave the house. Crisp is now in England. His wife contends that he took $60,000 in community property, and she is seeking her share.

GREAT MYSTERY TALE IN "TIMES"

"Jack o' Judgment," Detective Story by Edgar Wallace, Begins Sunday

Edgar Wallace, internationally famous as a writer of mystery and detective fiction stories, has turned out his best work in "Jack o' Judgment," which will begin in The Times Magazine next Sunday and continue in the daily and Sunday issues following. It is a story of a powerful gang of London blackmailers and murderers who prey on rich men and women in defiance of Scotland Yard until "Jack o' Judgment" suddenly appears. Clad in black silk from head to foot, with mocking laugh and menacing pistol, he comes again and again in time to thwart their evil schemes. He always leaves his card — the Jack of Clubs—but his identity remains a mystery to the very last pages of the book. This is a story you will not want to miss. Don't fail to start it next Sunday!

EVOLUTION CHALLENGE IS ISSUED

Whether or Not Darwin Was Correct May Become Conference Subject

"Resolved, that evolution is neither scientific nor scriptural."

Offering to take the affirmative on this question, Prof. Robert Dick Wilson of Princeton University, Dr. W. B. Riley, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Minneapolis, and Dr. F. W. Farr, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church of Los Angeles, have issued a challenge to educators and theologians of Southern California to debate the subject with them at the world conference on Christian fundamentals, to be held at the Bible Institute the 25th inst. to July 2.

Thousands of persons from the Southland and from various parts of the United States are expected to attend the world conference on Christian fundamentals, and many prominent speakers on both sides of the evolutionary fence have been invited, among them William J. Bryan, avowed foe of the monkey in so far as the latter makes any claims on the filial duties of the children of democracy.

Not only will the delegates come armed with biblical "guns," with which they expect to get the "goat" of the late Mr. Darwin, but they will also strike sledge-hammer blows against rationalism and "destructive criticism" generally. Sessions will be held daily at 10 a.m., 2:30 and 7:30 p.m., and at 3 p.m. Sundays. Among the speakers will be Cortland Myers, D.D., formerly of Tremont Temple, Boston; Rev. H. P. Sloan, D.D., of the Central Methodist Church, Bridgeton, N. J.; L. S. Chafer, noted lecturer of Philadelphia; Howard W. Kellogg, professor of theology in the John Brown Seminary of Siloam Springs, Ark.; Rev. Mark Matthews, D.D., pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Seattle; Dr. W. B. Hinson of the East Side Baptist Church of Portland, Or., and many others.

Citrus Growers Advised Not to Cut Dead Limbs Without Great Care

Citrus growers whose trees were injured by frost are making mistakes in pruning off dead limbs, for this will result in permanent injury to the trees, was the assertion yesterday of Farm Adviser Hodgson. He has therefore arranged a series of citrus pruning demonstrations which are aimed at wrong pruning methods.

Season's First Forest Fire is Extinguished

The first forest fire of the season was reported to Supervisor Charlton yesterday. The blaze started on Ball's Flat, above the Shoemaker ranch, on the desert side of the mountains Sunday at 3 p.m.

It is supposed that it was caused by the neglect of a camper, and as there was no way of communicating to Palmdale on Sunday, it was impossible to get any information to the office of the Supervisor on that day. A gang of road builders employed in the vicinity acted as a fire crew and extinguished the blaze. More than 100 acres were burned over.

BOYS TRAPPED AFTER HOLD-UP

Youthful Bandits Taken Following Chase

Officer Crawls Under House to Find Youths

Youngsters Are Accused of Robbing Collector

A stolen automobile figured in the capture of three young asserted bandits late yesterday afternoon, soon after they had crawled under a deserted house with $7500, said to have been stolen from W. A. Copeland, a collector for the Chaffee Stores Company. The capture was made by a squad of Lincoln Heights police officers, who trapped the youths under the house after an exciting chase.

At the time of the robbery, W. A. Copeland, the collector, was carrying a bag containing $7500, which he had collected from various grocery stores owned by the company. At North Broadway and Avenue Twenty, another automobile crowded him against the curb.

MONEY TAKEN

Three guns were pointed at him, the money bag was snatched from him, and the three bandits fled in San Fernando Road.

Lincoln Heights police were notified and the pursuit was taken up by Capt. McClary, Sergt. Gear and Patrolmen Fred Palmer and Sherard. The automobile used by the bandits had been abandoned and the trail of the bandits led to a house at 348 San Fernando Road.

The house was surrounded and searched. Patrolman Palmer volunteered to crawl under the house. There he found three boys hiding.

ALL ARMED

They were armed, and, according to the officers, in the possession of one was the handbag, containing all the stolen money. The prisoners gave their names as George Miller, 18 years old; Clarence Reed, 19; and Raymond Sanchez, 19.

According to the officers, the boys confessed to the robbery and boasted they had followed Mr. Copeland for the past week as he traveled along his route and that they had expected to steal a large sum of money.

The automobile in which they were riding was stolen last Sunday from Neal Wellbaum, 2621 Dayton avenue. They had planned to seek refuge in another city, but the car balked and stalled in front of the San Fernando Road house where they sought a hiding place and failed.

OTHER CHARGES

Several recent robberies, Detective Sergts. Ziegler and Lofthouse stated late last night, may be cleared up as a result of the three arrests.

Responsibility for the robbery by three youths of the Wilkins Service Station, 501 San Fernando Road, on the 2nd inst., was placed upon Miller, Sanches and Reed when R. J. Friend, manager of the oil station, identified them as the trio who had held him up and kidnaped him after taking $30 from the cash register.

BURGLARS LOOT "THIEF PROOF" SHOP

Furs Valued at $30,000 Taken After Charged Wires Are Eluded

A cautious group of fur thieves successfully squirmed through a network of electrically charged wires early yesterday morning and stole a truckload of furs valued at $30,000 from Colburn's shop, 731 West Seventh street.

The theft was discovered when the shop was opened for business yesterday morning by the manager, who found only an empty storeroom.

All skylights, doors, windows and partitions in the store were wired and attached to a burglar alarm. The management had thought the shop was absolutely burglar-proof.

Access was gained through a hole cut through the roof at a safe distance from the skylights. Evidence found by Detective Sergeants Herman Cline, Barr and McCauley, indicated that at least two of the looters remained on the roof, while a third was lowered by ropes through the opening to the store below.

After removing scores of furs from a bin in the rear room, and hoisting them to the roof, an effort was made to cut a hole through the wall separating the rear room from the display room. This work was abandoned, and a hole was drilled through a door. Though the door was not locked, the thieves declined to open it, preferring the hole in the door as the avenue through which all the furs in the display room were passed. From the roof the furs apparently were dropped into a truck which had been parked in the alley.

Several groups of well-defined finger prints were found on the mutilated door.

New Prohibition Chief Takes up Reins of Office

Harold H. Dolly, the new local prohibition agent in charge, began his duties at the Federal Building yesterday. It is understood that no new men will be added to the local forces until the visit of State Director Rutter, about the middle of the month. There are many applicants for places.

D. J. O'Leary, who has been in charge of the office for several months, will have command of the raiding forces, which will be more active than ever as soon as the new arrangement is in full operation, it is stated.

It will be the policy of the agent to strike higher than the hip-pocket brigade, and there may be some surprises in prosecutions about to be instituted, Mr. Dolly stated yesterday.
